Piggyback Ramp Closings May Hit Whirlpool

An order by ConRail to close down nine railroad loading ramps in Michigan and Indiana would affect "piggy-back" shipments of Whirlpool products from the Twin Cities.

Carl Anderson, Whirlpool director of transportation, said Whirlpool moved 3,000 trailers out of Benton Harbor-St. Joseph last year for shipment aboard railroad cars. Seven hundred of the trailers went by highway to Kalamazoo for loading aboard Penn Central railroad flat cars. The Kalamazoo ramp is one that ConRail has ordered closed. Industries in Kalamazoo are protesting closing of the ramp.

Anderson said Whirlpool is considering alternatives in event the Kalamazoo ramp is closed. One would be use of loading facilities at Elkhart, Ind. Anderson noted the Elkhart ramp is also marked for closure, but "we would attempt to prove it would be economically feasible to keep the Elkhart ramp." He said the Elkhart ramp has a large volume of two-way traffic, while the Kalamazoo ramp is largely one-way, Kalamazoo is mainly a producing area and a lot of dead-heading is involved, Anderson explained.

He said Whirlpool's last resort would be a formal complaint to the Interstate Commerce commission. Whirlpool's other piggy-back shipments from the Twin Cities in 1975 were 1,500 trailers over Chesapeake & Ohio and 800 by highway for railroad loading in Chicago.

The C&O which has two loading ramps in Benton Harbor said there are no plans to close those ramps. Benton Harbor is technically described as a loading ramp for Penn Central, but there's no loading here. "It's what we call a paper terminal," said Robert Workman, chief clerk at the Penn Central terminal in Kalamazoo.

BH Dental Clinic Will 'Phase Out'

County's Decision Is 'Political,' Says Dr. Taylor

The Berrien county health department has announced that it will "phase out" its remedial dental clinic in Benton Harbor by June 30 because the patients presently being treated now can be handled by private dentists. It said a backlog of needy cases has been eliminated.

But Dr. Harzel Taylor, who has headed the clinic staff since its inception 11 years ago, has charged that the decision is "political" and vowed that "as long as I have breath, I'm going to see that it stays open."

The clinic, located at 684 East High street, has treated only school-age children receiving Medicaid benefits since March, 1975, after its previous funding from the former Benton Harbor-Benton township Model Cities program ran out.

Since that time, the health department says, a waiting list of nearly 1,000 Medicaid children who could not be handled by private dentists has been reduced to zero, and there is no more need for the clinic.

"We feel we've served our purpose, the job is done and we should back out," said Jerome H. Erickson, acting director of the county health department.

"If we don't back out, we'll have government providing dental care in open competition with the private sector, and that's not good."

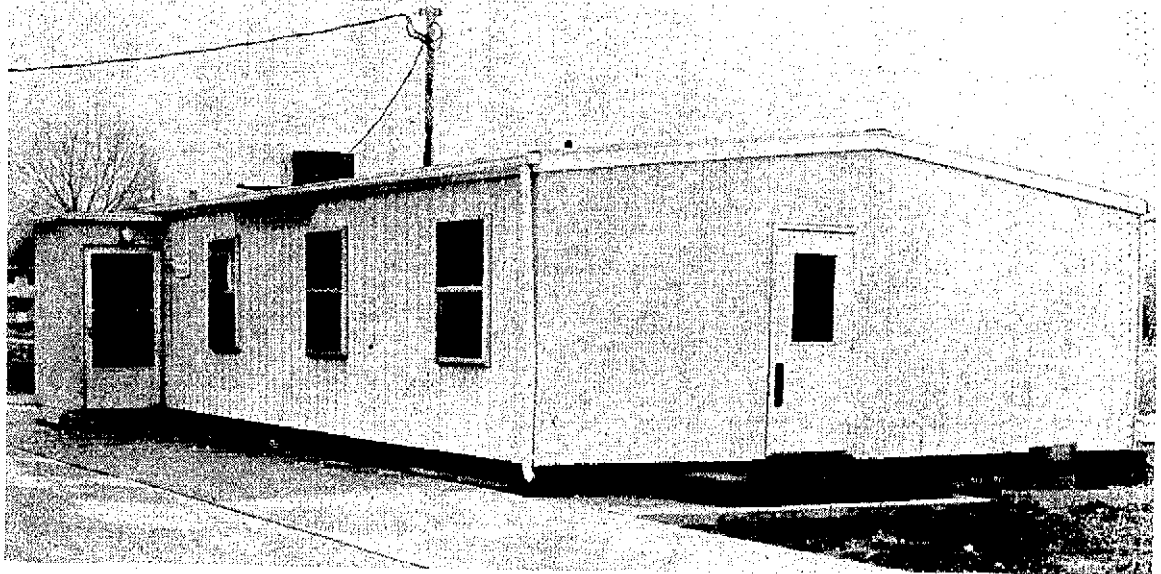

Erickson said phasing out the Benton Harbor clinic has been recommended by the Lakeland Valley Dental society composed of dentists with private practices in this area, and sanctioned by the Berrien county board of health on the grounds that it no longer is needed for Medicaid patients.

Erickson stated that the health department screens 12,000 Medicaid children in the county and that all needing dental care now could be scheduled with private dentists.

"That claim is not true," Dr. Taylor asserted. "That's what I said in the (dental) society. Let's face it—they do not want those little black children in their offices. That's why they're all moving to St. Joe."

The contention the free clinic is no longer needed is "challenged by Dr. Taylor, who adds that even if it were true, the decision does not take into consideration some 2,000 children in the city and township whose families are

Retired Judge Anderson Criticized By Goodwillie For Reducing Bonds

SOUTH HAVEN — Judge Donald Goodwillie Jr. of the Seventh District court here criticized a retired circuit judge at the time during the arraignment of Charles Jackson, 56, M-140, Covert, and Charlene Lasenby, 35, 829 Elkburg street, South Haven, on charges of selling heroin.

They were arrested Tuesday night while free on bond awaiting trial on the original drug charges stemming from their arrests May 21, 1975.

"This is an indictment of our criminal justice system that you were not brought to trial on your arrests of nearly a year ago," Goodwillie stated.

Goodwillie had set bail for Jackson following the May, 1975, arrest at $150,000 and for Miss Lasenby at $50,000. Miss Lasenby's bond was cut to $2,500 and Jackson's to $22,500 by the circuit court.

Goodwillie said he was convinced that both immediately returned to the street to traffic narcotics.

He labeled Jackson as being "probably responsible for more crime in this area than any other person."

"I have gone into this in some detail, so much so that I feel so absolutely sure in my own mind of your guilt that I will have another judge hear the preliminary examination," Goodwillie said.

Goodwillie noted that the two investigations leading to the arrests had cost hundreds of police man hours and tax dollars and that he hoped the occurrence would cause judges to take high bonds seriously.

He said he planned to personally communicate with judges of higher jurisdiction to oppose bond reduction in the cases again.

He set bond on Jackson at $250,000 and $150,000 for Miss Lasenby after both demanded preliminary examinations on the charges. The examinations were scheduled for March 23 and the two returned to jail in lien of the bond.

When the two were arrested in separate raids on their homes police said they found suspected heroin with a street value of about $1,300.

Police said Jackson was charged with two counts of selling suspected heroin to a confidential police informant on Feb. 18 and on March 9, Miss Lasenby was charged with selling to the informant on Feb. 18.

Crackdown Starts In Berrien On Unlicensed Dogs

An immediate crackdown on unlicensed dogs and on dogs running loose in Berrien County has been announced by Al Kuiper, chief animal control officer for the county. Kuiper said control officers have been instructed to apprehend all dogs found running loose, and in cases where dogs apprehended are licensed, the officers have been instructed to issue citations to the dog owners.

According to Kuiper, only 60 per cent of the dogs in the county, or approximately 18,000 dogs, were licensed as of the March 1 deadline for purchasing 1976 licenses without penalty fee.

"This means the remaining 40 per cent are unlicensed, and may not have the required rabies shots, which could increase the danger of infection to persons bitten by dogs not having the shots," said Kuiper.

Kuiper said the license fee as of March 1 is $9 — the normal $4 license charge plus a $5 penalty for not purchasing the license prior to the deadline.

"Persons still needing a dog license, and who have the required shot records, may purchase licenses in only two locations in the county," said Kuiper.

The locations are the county dog pound, located on Huckleberry road, Berrien Center, and the county treasurer's office, in the county courthouse.

Kuiper added people issued a citation by any control officer must appear in the magistrate court, with the minimum fine for most violations being $10. Failure to appear on the citation results with the issuance of a warrant and possible jailing of the offender.

Buying Booze Will Become A Challenge

By DAVE RILEY

WASHINGTON (AP) — There are going to be some changes on the shelves of your friendly neighborhood liquor store and they may be enough to drive you to drink. But you'd better be cold sober when you stock up on your favorite spirits because beginning in October there will be 16 different sizes of liquor bottles to choose from. It's all part of the government's plan for converting the country to the metric system.

The Treasury Department's Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms issued regulations Wednesday to allow distillers to begin in October a three-year program changing their bottles to metric measures. But the changeover will be gradual and until 1980 distillers will be able to dispense their products in the 10 conventional bottles familiar to the liquor store patron as well as in the six designated metric size bottles. By 1980 all bottles will be in the metric sizes. That means the drinker will have to make a choice during the transition period from 16 basic bottle sizes. The difference between some bottle sizes will be practically indistinguishable.

Rex D. Davis, director of the alcohol bureau, said the new container sizes "should result in positive benefits for consumers as well as for industry and government." The changeover to metric measures, he said, should help consumers make size and price comparisons, and standardization should deter any consumer deception.

Under the rules issued by the agency, the current miniature, which contains 1.6 ounces, will become the new 50 milliliter size containing 1.7 ounces. The eight-ounce half pint will become obsolete and will be replaced by the smaller 200 milliliter bottle containing 6.8 ounces. A pint, containing 16 ounces, will become a 500 milliliter bottle containing 16.9 ounces.

The "fifth," which is really four-fifths of a quart, contains 25.6 ounces. It will be succeeded by the 750 milliliter bottle containing 25.4 ounces. The 32-ounce quart will be replaced by the 33.8-ounce liter. And the 64-ounce half-gallon will become the 1.75 liter bottle containing 59.2 ounces.

Although the bottles will be different, it's generally expected that reaching the bottom of one will have the same effect.

Visits Curbed At Mercy, Memorial

Visits to patients at Mercy hospital in Benton Harbor and Memorial hospital in St. Joseph have been restricted to members of the immediate family because of the current influenza epidemic.

The restriction, which goes into effect immediately and will remain in force until further notice, was announced by the two hospitals' chiefs of staff, Dr. Charles Boonstra of Mercy and Dr.

Stanley Mesirov of Memorial.

The restriction is designed to protect patients by reducing the possibility of exposure to the virus. Any family members who have flu symptoms are requested not to visit the hospitals.

An announcement will be made at a later date when the restriction is lifted.

State Asks Congress To Renew 'Sharing'

By MALCOLM JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Gov. William Milliken and a host of local officials warned Wednesday of tax increases, reduced services and layoffs if federal revenue sharing is not continued. The governor and officials representing Michigan cities, counties and townships issued a joint statement calling on Congress to re-enact the four-year-old program which returns millions of dollars to local and state governments to spend as they wish. The program is due to expire at the end of the year, and Milliken said Congress has not begun work on legislation to extend it. It will take a major battle to persuade Washington to continue the program, he said.

The state will receive about $90 million in the current fiscal year in revenue sharing funds — less than 3 per cent of its budget. But Milliken said that elimination of such funds in the next fiscal year would mean across-the-board spending cutbacks and likely pressure for a tax hike. Milliken outlined a list of possible consequences, any one of which, he said, could be used to absorb the loss. He said revenue from income taxes could be increased by 7 per cent and from sales taxes by 3 per cent, public health programs could be abolished mental health programs cut by one-third, or support for higher education reduced by 15 per cent. "Similar drastic actions would have to be contemplated by local governments throughout the state," he said.

Local governments in Michigan will receive some $180 million more in revenue sharing funds this fiscal year. Detroit expects to get some $40 million. Ernest Browne Jr., president of City Council, said the loss of money next year "would only compound the problem we now have" of a potential $44 million deficit. Browne said the federal money is used for policemen, firemen and rubbish removal.

Wednesday's action reflects moves taken by state and local officials across the country. Washington has been besieged by local and state leaders who oppose cutting or diverting funds to other programs carrying federal strings. Milliken said the states had understood the program would be continued when it was enacted under the Nixon Administration, despite some opposition in Congress. But, he said, "The message has not gotten through to Congress" on the program's importance.

"There is no federal program more important to the government and people of Michigan than general revenue sharing," Milliken said. The program has provided $30.2 billion in unrestricted funds since it was started, with $1.3 billion going to Michigan in the past four years.

Goodwillie was critical for the delay in bringing the two to trial on the original charges and for reductions in bonds he had set in the initial proceedings last year. Judge David Anderson, who retired Jan. 1, was Van Buren circuit judge at the time.

Goodwillie made his remarks during the arraignment of Charles Jackson, 56, M-140, Covert, and Charlene Lasenby, 35, 529 Elkenburg street, South Haven, on charges of selling heroin.

They were arrested Tuesday night while free on bond await-

Were it left to me to decide whether we should have government without newspapers or newspapers without government, I should not hesitate to prefer the latter. — Thomas Jefferson.

The 'Over-Regulators' Are State-Based, Too

Economic regulation is as old as society itself. In the United States, it was first practiced by the state governments. Then, in 1887, the first federal regulatory agency — the Interstate Commerce Commission — was created to oversee private railroad activity. The Act to Regulate Commerce, signed into law by President Grover Cleveland, was a landmark in American history. According to Louis M. Kohlmeier Jr. in his book The Regulators, the ICC set the form for regulatory commissions to come: "Independent, expert, nonpartisan agencies wherein the worlds of politics and industrial economics would be reconciled."

At first it was assumed that the ICC would handle all federal regulation of commerce, but this became impractical. From 1913 onward, Congress created a series of new agencies. The Federal Trade Commission and the Federal Reserve System were both established during the Wilson administration, and the remaining large regulatory agencies, with the exception of the Federal Power Commission, were created during the New Deal of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

They'll Buy Votes But Not Pay For Them

Both the House Ways and Means Committee and the Senate Finance Committee tentatively have disapproved the administration's proposal to increase Social Security taxes this year. Although neither committee voted on the proposal directly, both ignored its provisions in compiling budget projections required by the new congressional budget process.

It was not unexpected that Congress would not look favorably on any kind of tax increase in this election year. That is a standard taboo, seldom broken.

More Revenue Sharing By No Means Certain

Under the general revenue sharing law of 1972, some $6 billion a year in federal tax collections are being shared, with relatively few strings attached, into the treasuries of 39,000 governmental jurisdictions in the nation. That flow of dollars will stop at the end of this year unless Congress votes to extend the program. Congress did not act last year on President Ford's request for extension into 1982, and now governors, mayors, county officials and state legislators are asking for action.

The National Governors Conference,

Today, the federal regulatory agencies have come under heavy attack. Many critics agree with the conclusion of a presidential committee report issued in 1937: that federal administrative agencies "constitute a headless 'fourth branch' of the government, a hap-hazard deposit of irresponsible agencies and uncoordinated powers." Some officials feel that federal agencies sometimes need to be carefully monitored themselves. This subject will be discussed by members of the American Bar Association at a two-day seminar on "Oversight and Review of Agency Decision-making," March 18-19, in Washington, D.C.

It is generally agreed that regulatory inefficiency inflates consumer prices, encourages waste, stifles innovation and weakens competition. President Ford has declared federal regulatory reform a principal goal of his administration, and several reform bills have been introduced in Congress. But even if federal regulation were substantially reduced, a considerable amount of state regulation would continue. And the controversy, more than likely, would remain.

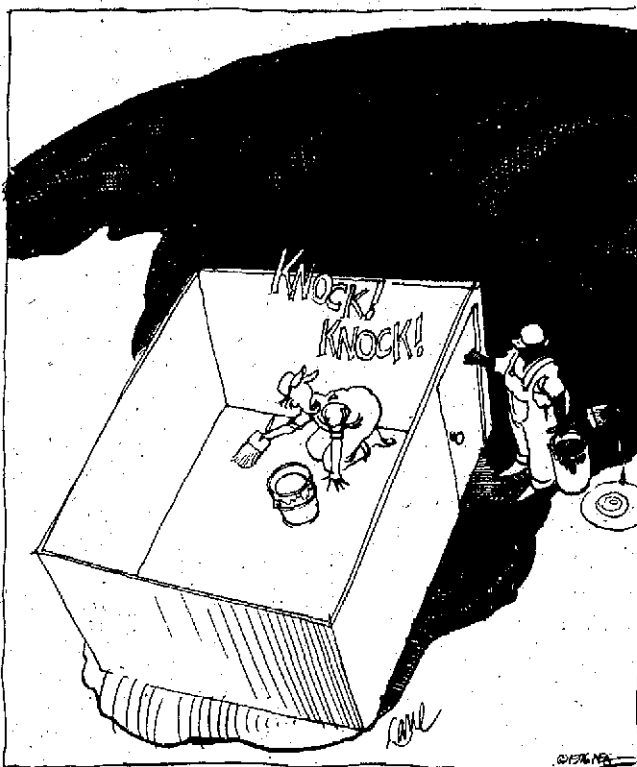

As the budget process for the fiscal year beginning next October gets underway, it is already apparent there will be serious differences between Congress and the White House over total spending limits and the resulting effect on the budget deficit. The administration, in its budget request, anticipated a deficit for fiscal 1977 of $43 billion.

Projected by the Senate Finance Committee, the expected deficit now stands close to $50 billion. If that doesn't provoke a fight in itself between the spenders and those who see inflation as a continuing threat, it should.

meeting in Washington in February, again called for continued revenue sharing. The National Conference on State Legislatures plans a rally for that purpose in the nation's capital today. And beginning Sunday, March 14, the Tenth Annual Congressional City Conference sponsored by the National League of Cities and the U.S. Conference of Mayors will focus entirely on revenue sharing. Attention is currently directed at the Intergovernmental Relations Subcommittee and its parent Government Operations Committee. A revenue-sharing bill is expected to be reported by the committee for House floor action by May 1, according to the New Coalition, an organization of governors, mayors and county officials pressing for the legislation. The Senate appears to be waiting for the House to move first.

The issue returns to the forefront at a time when the states and cities face burdensome financial problems. Thus it might seem that revenue sharing is sure to be extended. But that is not necessarily the case. Considerable criticism has been directed at the way it has been carried out. A big complaint is that the money isn't going to the places of greatest need. Four public-interest groups charged in a study released March 2 that revenue sharing is so "plagued with deficiencies" the program should be altered or abolished. The groups were the League of Women Voters Educational Fund, the National Urban Coalition, the Center for Community Change and the Center for National Policy Review. They maintained that proportionally more funds should be allocated to poor cities and rural communities, that there is inadequate public accountability to how the money is spent, and that there is not enough public participation in the making of spending choices.

Reader Says Answers Needed About St. Joe School Closing

Editor,

Are we being duped again? Just now I have been asked to sign a petition asking that Jefferson school not be closed and while I refused to sign this petition, I did so for other reasons. I, too, believe Jefferson school should remain open because of its central location in one of our cities finest neighborhoods and because it serves our younger pupils.

We cannot ask our school officials to cut costs and operate on less money and then demand all the services and buildings we have had when our student enrollment doesn't require it.

I believe it's time to think about these proposals and get some answers to many unanswered questions. I would suggest our school officials give us some answers to the following questions. Knowing most of our school taxes are spent for teachers salaries and knowing we have a declining number of students we should ask how many unneeded teachers and administrators can be eliminated?

Knowing we can operate with two less school buildings why have school officials proposed to close two schools in the best inner city neighborhood of St. Joseph, namely, Jefferson and Milton, and the one they propose to leave open is Washington which is located in the worst traffic area in the city? Wouldn't it be better to use Washington for the administration offices where adults can better cope with this traffic than youngsters can?

Is it possible that this decision is made because of state or federal money that may be available to Washington school and not in Jefferson and Milton?

Is it possible this proposal was made with the knowledge that St. Joe residents would petition the school officials to leave these schools open and in so doing would almost surely spoil the taxpayers chances of fighting further tax increase requests and the schools could then say we tried to economize but you taxpayers insisted on leaving these schools open so now we need more money to operate them.

To avoid a situation such as this the taxpayers should insist on a good elementary school, and for the same reasons and if we are to avoid it, now is the time for the taxpayer to demand what we all know will be needed to avoid the demise of our fine city.

I would like to congratulate you on the attention you brought to the letter from the Baroda Queen Committee by using the large heading. I must say, I am rather surprised there has been no reaction from readers in the Lakeshore school district.

My work with a weekly newspaper puts me in touch with several of the communities in the area surrounding Lakeshore. A check with school administrators and several chairmen of area queen committees found a complete turnaround of the Lakeshore school board policy. The policy of other school systems is: the taxpayers of the district pay for the schools — and therefore, should have the use of its facilities. The main concept being, the more the school is used by students and adult residents of the school district, the more value they receive from their tax dollar.

There are some curious documents filed in the county offices in St. Joseph. Perhaps the most curious of all is the will of a prominent Niles township farmer, who went to claim his future reward some years before the civil war. The remarkable part about the will is a passage, leaving fifty cents to his daughter's husband to buy a rope to hang his d-n self with. In the dark room below the county clerk's office are recorded the returns of the census enumerators of 1890. Opposite the various names of the persons living in the county at that time are given the ages. ## Ford's Strategy Isn't Bumbling

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Candidate Ronald Reagan has thus far made perhaps the most serious campaign mistake possible. He's thrown all his marbles in the primary popularity contests — and let President Ford pick up the committed delegates.

And delegates are, of course what secure the nomination at the national convention. Without them a candidate can win every primary and come in second.

What bother's Reagan's campaign managers is not the 51-49 per cent squaker favoring Mr. Ford in New Hampshire but the fact that Mr. Ford took 17 out of the 21 delegates up for election. This means a good many people who voted for Reagan in the primary, voted for Mr. Ford's delegates.

The Reagan men, convinced that Mr. Ford's big-name slate was what won the day for him in New Hampshire, are now out to cut their losses. While it's too late to change states in some very important states, Reagan's strategists have begun a blitz campaign to convince voters that when they mark delegate states, they're not voting for the men or women whose names appear on the ballots — but for Reagan or Ford.

The Reagan men may be barking up the wrong tree. My surveys of party primaries, caucuses, mass meetings and state and district conventions over the past 25 years indicate that most of the regulars who attend these party affairs know precisely what they're doing. Political analysts tell me presidential popularity primaries are largely opportunities for voters to let off steam against the establishment. But that however you slice it when a man votes for a delegate, he's voting for real.

Meanwhile, through all the fanfare of the primaries, Mr. Ford has been quietly picking up delegates here and there chosen through little-publicized caucuses and conventions.

The Ford men claim 17 out of 19 Hawaii delegates. The other two are uncommitted. They claim 53 per cent of 42 in Minnesota, to 36 per cent for Reagan and 11 per cent uncommitted. And they say they're ahead in 90 per cent of the town races as of this writing. Reagan men say the Ford figures are somewhat high but don't deny the Ford gains.

This would indicate that in the few votes which have taken place to date, Mr. Ford's men, despite their well-publicized bumbling, have been able to get more of their people out than Mr. Reagan. We're speaking of such small numbers, we're not dealing necessarily with overall popularity.

Now there's a warning in order. The Republican convention will have 2,259 votes at Kansas City in August. A total of 1,130 or more will be needed to win the nomination. The number of delegates chosen to date therefore is not significant. The strategy is.

Maybe Change 14th Amendment?

Governor Melvin Thomson of New Hampshire, a conservative Republican, recently suggested that it would be a good idea to repeal or seriously modify the Fourteenth Amendment.

The laughter has not yet died away. This suggestion was widely taken to be one further indication of Thomson's Neanderthal conservatism — in the unlikely event that further indications were required at all.

Governor Thomson was making an excellent constitutional point, however, as those liberals and feminists now objecting to the movie "Snuff" in New York City may come to understand.

The flood of pornography now inundating American culture pours through the opening provided by the current interpretation of the First Amendment: "Congress shall make no law . . . abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press. . . ."

That seems perfectly clear. Congress, sitting in Washington, shall make no such law. The first ten amendments, known as the Bill of Rights, were understood when ratified to constitute barriers against action by Congress. They say nothing at all about action by the states. In fact, they were intended to strengthen the hand of the states against the powers of the central government.

But when the plain language of the First Amendment is read through the distorting lens of the Fourteenth Amendment, its meaning is totally reversed, and the states, instead of being strengthened, are paralyzed against taking action in the "free speech" area.

The advertisements for "Snuff" suggest that actual murders take place on the screen. The movie thus trades on the awareness of cultural insiders that such movies in fact have been made underground, and sold for high sums to buyers jaded by more routine sadism. The Manson crowd is generally thought to have made a movie of a girl actually being beheaded on a California beach.

"Snuff" — the word means killing a woman, in underground argot — begins with a young woman being held down while one of her toes is sheared off. Later on, the hands and feet are sliced off another woman, after which she is cut open and disemboweled. Meanwhile there are numerous other more orthodox murders, stabbings, shootings, and what have you.

Not at all surprisingly, many feminists, intellectuals, and indeed political liberals are outraged. A group of 82 such people have written to Manhattan District Attorney Robert Morgenthau asking him to close the show.

District Attorney Morgenthau says that he doubts that he can do much about "Snuff."

The 'Over-Regulators' Are State-Based, Too

Economic regulation is as old as society itself. In the United States, it was first practiced by the state governments. Then, in 1887, the first federal regulatory agency — the Interstate Commerce Commission — was created to oversee private railroad activity. The Act to Regulate Commerce, signed into law by President Grover Cleveland, was a landmark in American history. According to Louis M. Kohlmeier Jr. in his book The Regulators, the ICC set the form for regulatory commissions to come: "Independent, expert, nonpartisan agencies wherein the worlds of politics and industrial economics would be reconciled."

At first it was assumed that the ICC would handle all federal regulation of commerce, but this became impractical. From 1913 onward, Congress created a series of new agencies. The Federal Trade Commission and the Federal Reserve System were both established during the Wilson administration, and the remaining large regulatory agencies, with the exception of the Federal Power Commission, were created during the New Deal of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Today, the federal regulatory agencies have come under heavy attack. Many critics agree with the conclusion of a presidential committee report issued in 1937: that federal administrative agencies "constitute a headless 'fourth branch' of the government, a haphazard deposit of irresponsible agencies and uncoordinated powers." Some officials feel that federal agencies sometimes need to be carefully monitored themselves. This subject will be discussed by members of the American Bar Association, at a two-day seminar on "Oversight and Review of Agency Decision-making," March 18-19, in Washington, D.C.

It is generally agreed that regulatory inefficiency inflates consumer prices, encourages waste, stifles innovation and weakens competition. President Ford has declared federal regulatory reform a principal goal of his administration, and several reform bills have been introduced in Congress. But even if federal regulation were substantially reduced, a considerable amount of state regulation would continue. And the controversy, more than likely, would remain.

They'll Buy Votes But Not Pay For Them

Both the House Ways and Means Committee and the Senate Finance Committee tentatively have disapproved the administration's proposal to increase Social Security taxes this year. Although neither committee voted on the proposal directly, both ignored its provisions in compiling budget projections required by the new congressional budget process.

It was not unexpected that Congress would not look favorably on any kind of tax increase in this election year. That is a standard taboo, seldom broken.

As the budget process for the fiscal year beginning next October gets underway, it is already apparent there will be serious differences between Congress and the White House over total spending limits and the resulting effect on the budget deficit. The administration, in its budget request, anticipated a deficit for fiscal 1977 of $43 billion.

Projected by the Senate Finance Committee, the expected deficit now stands close to $50 billion. If that doesn't provoke a fight in itself between the spenders and those who see inflation as a continuing threat, it should.

More Revenue Sharing By No Means Certain

Under the general revenue sharing law of 1972, some $6 billion a year in federal tax collections are being shunted, with relatively few strings attached, into the treasuries of 39,000 governmental jurisdictions in the nation. That flow of dollars will stop at the end of this year unless Congress votes to extend the program. Congress did not act last year on President Ford's request for extension into 1982, and now governors, mayors, county officials and state legislators are asking for action.

The National Governors Conference, meeting in Washington in February, again called for continued revenue sharing. The National Conference on State Legislatures plans a rally for that purpose in the nation's capital today. And beginning Sunday, March 14, the Tenth Annual Congressional-City Conference sponsored by the National League of Cities and the U.S. Conference of Mayors will focus entirely on revenue sharing. ## California Eyes Quake Fault Bulge

LOS ANGELES (AP) — State earthquake experts meet today to decide if they should be worried about a bulge in the ground along the earthquake-prone San Andreas Fault.

The legal and social implications of earthquake predictions, and estimates of damage in Los Angeles if a big quake should strike, are also issues on the agenda of the state Seismic Safety Commission.

Commission spokesman Peter Stromberg said Wednesday the hearing was set in Los Angeles because there has been "a bit of apprehension by federal and state agencies" about the swelling on the earthquake fault north of Los Angeles.

The U.S. Geological Survey has recently requested funds for closer monitoring of the uplift. It is a slight bulge, a few inches high, covering some 4,500 square miles on a 100-mile-long stretch of the fault between Los Angeles and Bakersfield.

Two Separate Issues On BH Ballot Tuesday

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of two articles on ballot proposals in the special Benton Harbor school district election March 16. Today's account explains the operating millage proposal.

By JIM SHANAHAN
City Editor

Benton Harbor school district voters will ballot Tuesday, March 16, on two tax proposals totaling 8.5 mills.

Proposal No. 1 is renewal of 7.5 mills in operating taxes for one year.

Proposal No. 2 is a 1-mill tax for five years for maintenance of school district buildings.

Proposal No. 1 is not a tax increase. Passage means the school district will have essentially the same operational levy it has had the past four years — 29.72 mills.

per $1,000 of state equalized valuation.

The 7.5 mills produced $1.6 million for the 1975-76 school year, or 25 per cent of the amount raised for Benton Harbor schools by local property taxes, according to Glenn Nienhuis, the district's budget director.

Nienhuis explained the district's total budget is about $16 million with state and federal grants providing $2 million, local property taxes about $7 million and state aid $7 million.

Edward (Bert) Bentley, school board president, said the 7.5 mills are for the day-to-day operation of the schools, and "it's a fact of life that the district can't operate effectively without the revenue from the 7.5 mills."

Bentley added loss of the 7.5 mills would mean drastic cuts affecting every aspect of the district's operation.

Proposal No. 1 for renewal of 7.5 mills maintains the same tax rate because "with careful management the school district can continue to live for the next year with a renewal of the 7.5 mills," Bentley said.

He explained that the levy is for one year only because 13.85 mills expires with the levy for the next school year. That means another election on operating millage and the board decided it would be best to consolidate the two operating taxes in a single election next year, instead of having them strung out.

For this school year, the Benton Harbor district levied a total of 30.292 mills, including 8.376 in county allocated millage for operation, 21.35 in extra voted operating millage, and .562 for building debt retirement.

The former Martindale district has a higher debt retirement tax because it retails the debt levy imposed when Martindale was an independent district.

St. Joe Firemen Squelch Boiler Leak At Church

St. Joseph firefighters were called to the First Baptist church, 902 Broad street, Wednesday about 10:45 a.m. when steam leaked from a boiler due to a malfunction. Firemen reported they shut off the gas to stop the leakage and repalmen were called. No one was injured.

RECALL PETITIONS FILED: Morgan Hager (left) and Maurice Bishop Wednesday filed petitions with Deputy City Clerk Barbara Talley for recall election on Benton Harbor Mayor Charles F. Joseph. They said petitions contained 967 signatures with only 651 required for a recall election. Calls for prayer

Rev. Jesse Jackson Urged To Visit BH

City Editor

Rev. Arthur L. Jelks Sr., pastor of Union Memorial AME church, has asked Rev. Jesse Jackson, executive director of Operation PUSH, to visit Benton Harbor and help re-establish political tranquility.

Rev. Jelks sent a mailgram to the nationally known civil rights leader in Chicago requesting Rev. Jackson visit Benton Harbor for a "prayer pilgrimage for peace and harmony." Rev. Jelks described the situation as "extremely dangerous."

Rev. Jelks told The Herald-Palladium he is not taking sides in Benton Harbor's current political battle, but "in the three years I have been here, I haven't met anyone who could be a better mayor than the one you have."

Petitions were filed yesterday for a recall election of Mayor Charles F. Joseph as the latest move in three months of turmoil in city hall.

Rev. Jelks also told The Herald-Palladium: "I believe there is involvement of whites who have moved out and would like to see the city buried."

Union Memorial AME church is on Crystal avenue in Benton township. It formerly was located in the City of Benton Harbor and has some 500 members who are city residents, according to Rev. Jelks.

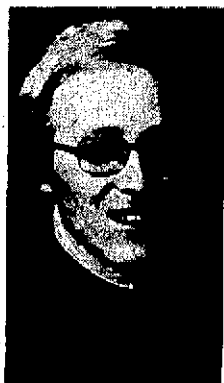

Text of the mailgram from Rev. Jelks to Rev. Jackson:

"An extremely dangerous situation prevails in the City of Benton Harbor, Michigan, and its people are divided because of many issues. Thirty or more per cent unemployment, about 12 per cent senior citizens, the highest welfare rate in the county, decreasing tax base because of business moving outside of the city limit and indifferent political conditions which is the result of several factions of the community. One of the factions now attempting to recall the mayor and four of the commissioners. Things are getting worse daily."

"Rev. Jackson, I was living in Detroit when the 1967 riot occurred. This city is shaping up for a knock down and drag out attack. Since I have worked and led civil rights groups for over 20 years I know when danger and destruction is at hand."

"Recognizing your national status and effectiveness in working with people, and their problems will you consider visiting Benton Harbor and assist the ministers that I may be able to gather in a prayer pilgrimage for peace and harmony?"

"A prompt reply will be appreciated. Lives might be saved, the tranquility of this city may be re-established."

RONALD ZAWILLA
To be ordained

St. Joseph Man To Be Ordained

Ronald Zawilla, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Zawilla, 918 Church street, St. Joseph, will be ordained to the priesthood Saturday in the chapel of Aquinas Institute of Theology in Dubuque, Iowa. He will be ordained at 10 a.m. by Archbishop James J. Byrne of Dubuque. A first Mass will be celebrated Sunday at 11 a.m. at the Aquinas Institute chapel.

Zawilla will also visit the university community in South Dakota for a first Mass and will celebrate a Mass of Thanksgiving at his home parish, St. Joseph's Catholic church, on May 26, the eve of Ascension, at 7 p.m.

Zawilla, a native of St. Joseph, attended St. Joseph public grammar schools and graduated in 1967 from St. Joseph Catholic high school. He graduated from Loras college, Dubuque, magna cum laude, with a B.A. in philosophy.

In the fall of 1971 Zawilla entered the Novitiate of the Dominican Order. Part to his Novitiate was spent in the community of Blessed Sacrament Priory in Madison, Wis. He began studies at Aquinas Institute in the fall of 1972 concentrating in the area of church history with a special interest in the theology of the Fathers of the Church.

During studies, he had a summer of study in France with a visit to Rome and Florence, Italy and Munich, Germany.

Zawilla made a solemn profession in the Order of Preachers Oct. 28, 1975 at Aquinas Institute and received the Order of Deacon on Nov. 1, 1975. He received the Master of Arts in Theology in December, 1975 from Aquinas Institute and will receive the degree, Master of Divinity, in May, 1976.

BH Police To Start New Drug Awareness Program

The Benton Harbor police department's crime prevention unit will start a new program on "drug awareness for parent and child" at 2 p.m. Saturday, March 13, in the Benton Harbor public library.

Sammie Rodgers, drug education coordinator for Benton Harbor Area schools, will talk about drugs and their effects on users. A drug-related film entitled, "Last Minute to Choose, 11:59," also will be shown, and there will be a question and answer session.

Residents also will see a display of dangerous drugs and related paraphernalia, prepared by the police department.

Det. Lt. Alfred B. Edwards, project director for the crime prevention unit, said there is no admission charge for the program.

Edwards said: "The purpose of the program is to inform the parent, child, and any other interested citizens how the drug problem is affecting their homes (and) lives, as well as the community."

Edwards said during recent crime prevention meetings, many of the parents said they wouldn't know what to look for, if they suspected drug activities around or in the home. Many requested information on the problem.

Age 55 Or Over? Want A Job? Ainsley Blair's The Man To See

Job openings for about 65 low income people (55 or older) from southwestern Michigan are still available under the Senior Community Service Employment project, according to Ainsley Blair, area project director.

Federal funds totaling $332,000 were allocated in January to create 100 new jobs in Michigan's Fourth Congressional District, according to Blair. The jobs are with governmental and non-profit agencies.

Blair said to date about 35 people, mainly from Berrien county and the Twin Cities area in particular have been placed in jobs. He said it is important that the remaining 65 jobs be filled by the end of April or the funds not used could be funneled to one of the nation's other similar programs.

The project, cosponsored by the National Retired Teachers Association and the American Association of Retired Persons, seeks to place people 55 or older who are on fixed incomes in part-time jobs.

People hired with the funds, which are approved under a contract between the federal government and the project, can work four hours per day or 20 hours per week in non-profit institutions such as libraries, schools, hospitals or government buildings. The current contract is expected to last through Jan. 31, 1977.

Blair said, "I've got the jobs lined up. I need the people to fill them." He said he was convinced there are a number of people in the Twin Cities area who would qualify for the project, but just don't know about it.

Applicants are asked to contact Blair at the Peoples State bank building, suite 1, State street, St. Joseph, or call collect 863-0111.

Two Separate Issues On BH Ballot Tuesday

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of two articles on ballot proposals in the special Benton Harbor school district election March 16. Today's account explains the operating millage proposal.

By JIM SHANAHAN
City Editor

Benton Harbor school district voters will ballot Tuesday, March 16, on two tax proposals totaling 8.5 mills.

Proposal No. 1 is renewal of 7.5 mills in operating taxes for one year.

Proposal No. 2 is a 1-mill tax for five years for maintenance of school district buildings.

Proposal No. 1 is not a tax increase. Passage means the school district will have essentially the same operational levy it has had the past four years — 29.72 mills.

per $1,000 of state equalized valuation.

The 7.5 mills produced $1.6 million for the 1975-76 school year, or 25 per cent of the amount raised for Benton Harbor schools by local property taxes, according to Glenn Nienhuis, the district's budget director.

Nienhuis explained the district's total budget is about $16 million with state and federal grants providing $2 million, local property taxes about $7 million and state aid $7 million.

Edward (Bill) Bentley, school board president, said the 7.5 mills are for the day-to-day operation of the schools, and "it's a fact of life that the district can't operate effectively without the revenue from the 7.5 mills."

Bentley added loss of the 7.5 mills would mean drastic cuts affecting every aspect of the district's operation.

Proposal No. 1 for renewal of 7.5 mills maintains the same tax rate because "with careful management the school district can continue to live for the next year with a renewal of the 7.5 mills," Bentley said.

He explained that the levy is for one year only because 13.85 mills expires with the levy for the next school year. That means another election on operating millage and the board decided it would be best to consolidate the two operating taxes in a single election next year, instead of having them strung out.

For this school year, the Benton Harbor district levied a total of 30.2952 mills, including 8.376 in county allocated millage for operation, 21.35 in extra voted operating millage, and .5692 for building debt retirement.

The former Martindale district has a higher debt retirement tax because it retains the debt levy imposed when Martindale was an independent district.

St. Joe Firemen Squelch Boiler Leak At Church

St. Joseph firefighters were called to the First Baptist church, 902 Broad street, Wednesday about 10:45 a.m. when steam leaked from a boiler due to a malfunction. Firemen reported they shut off the gas to stop the leakage and repairmen were called. No one was injured.

MSU Professor Preparing Exhibit Of Michigan Art

EAST LANSING — Not all of Michigan's art comes from Detroit, and a surprising number of Michigan artists have been women.

These are just two observations about the state's artistic output before 1914 made by Michigan State University art history professor Sadayoshi Omoto in two years of collecting facts for a national Bicentennial inventory.

Through countless letters, personal tip-offs and trips around the state, the professor has now amassed about 800 photographs of early Michigan paintings. About 80 per cent of the paintings are in the hands of private owners and most likely never exhibited.

Although Omoto will continue collecting information through early June, he is already making preliminary selections for a 60-painting traveling show booked in nine Michigan museums in 1977.

He reports that landscapes and portraits are the chief subjects of the paintings and that their valuable documentation of what Michigan's land and people looked like can "help Michigan people understand themselves."

"There may be no Rembrandts, but there is no reason to apologize for the quality of Michigan art," Omoto said. "The inventory reveals a good sense of painters who may have been self-taught, but were nevertheless sensitive."

The professor noted that good candidates for the traveling show include landscape painter A. Louis Hayward of Mount Clemens, who happened to be a friend of the famous Whistler; Frederick Norman of Whitehall, skilled portrayer of lumber camp life; Detroit's Robert Hopkin, a marine scene artist, and William Gibbs of Romeo, whose landscapes show European influence.

Omoto has also come across work of Grand Rapids-born Frederick S. Church, who made his reputation in New York, and of "Paris-oriented" Frederick Frieske of Owosso whose works are now being advertised for sale in national art magazines.

"But many paintings in the inventory are by anonymous artists," he added. Nameless or otherwise, Michigan painters eschewed imaginary and mythological subjects popular in Europe for reality — barnyard scenes, people with pets, landscapes around such places as Copper Harbor, Avery Farm in Alpena county and Teal Lake.

"Jackson, East Lansing and the Upper Peninsula have been especially active in reporting paintings," reports Omoto, who hopes to hear of even more work from Grand Rapids, the Upper Peninsula and from the northeast (Alpena) and southwest (Benton Harbor) areas of the state.

The professor said he was surprised at the number of women artists active before 1914, citing the landscapes of Sophie Bennett of Grand Rapids, pasture scenes of Blanche Dunbar of Howell, seascapes of Emma Uren of Escanaba and still-lives of Verena Hubley of Menominee.

In connection with the traveling show, to be exhibited in Escanaba, Grand Rapids, Muskegon, Coldwater, Alpena, Kalamazoo, Frankenmuth, Port Huron and Jackson, Omoto will prepare a catalog of works and commentary.

All facts on the pre-1914 Michigan art search will be turned over to the National Collection of Fine Arts at The Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D.C. To date, 150,000 entries on paintings all over America have been processed.

Vast Array Of Pantyhose Perplexing To Shoppers

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Some day someone's going to produce statistics proving that female nervous disorders and pantyhose are related.

Headaches are activated just by the bewildering variety from which to choose — a thousand different names and styles, from 23 cents to several dollars. And they all run or snag sooner or later. Mostly sooner.

Well, just what are you getting for 39 cents, or 80 cents or $5?

Women want longer life on the one hand and great sheerness on the other and the two are not compatible," says John Holliveld, women's hosiery buyer for J.C. Penney whose private label pantyhose sells from 89 cents to $4.

By its very nature, the product is fragile. The sheerer it is, the more expensive because the yarns cost more. And the greater the risk of tearing.

On the other hand, support pantyhose which is the most durable because of the spandex it contains, is also the most costly because of that spandex. So you pay at both ends.

And you pay basically the same people. Pantyhose is divided between brand name — Hanes (L'eggs), Kayser-Roth (No-Nonsense), and Van Rantlo, for instance — and private label or no-name pantyhose.

Brand name is nationally distributed and advertised. Private label is packaged under the particular name of a chain or department store, or sold unlabeled. It's usually less expensive and marketed more on a regional basis.

According to Sam Berry, the president of the National Association of Hosiery Manufacturers, "The top 25 mills in the country make most of the pantyhose. We don't have any mills that are just private label or brand name."

Then, aren't you paying more for a brand name when you can probably get the same product for less in a chain store? Jack Ward, vice president of hosiery marketing for L'eggs pantyhose which sells for $1.39, says, "I guess it's conceivable that a customer could get a similar product in a chain store for 80 cents."

But most chains buy from several mills and neither the chain nor the mill will reveal who's making what for whom.

And, Ward and his confreres hasten to add, there are other considerations. Granting a certain standardization in the industry — the same equipment, the same basic material, raw nylon — it's what happens from then on that accounts for price. And in the very cheapest, coarsest pantyhose, nothing beyond quick construction happens.

Raw nylon has no inherent stretch. That must be added by twisting the nylon on a spindle and "setting" it with heat so that it acquires the tension of a rubber band. This, in turn, allows it to stretch and snap back, preventing bagging.

Some mills receive the yarn already twisted, others "texturize" it themselves. What kind of yarn is used, how carefully it's texturized and dyed, how fast the knitting machines are run, whether the garment is inspected along the way, and if any hand-sewing takes place all figure in the cost. That, plus advertising and extra touches such as ribbons added at the waist.

Leonard Melsels, director of marketing and merchandising for Van Rantlo, says, "You're paying for quality control and inspection in a brand name which you don't find in a lower price garment. And you don't find proportionate sizes or the color selection in the other garment. Most of our customers," he concludes, "are looking for continuity of availability and consistency in a manufacturer's signature."

Jack Paige, vice president of marketing for Bie Pantyhose, a new, mass-market 89-cent product, adds this. "Let's say a five-and-dime store bought a million pair of pantyhose from some manufacturer in North Carolina, packaged it under its own name and sold it for 39 cents. Six months later, they go back and get a better price from another manufacturer who uses different machines. The consumer wants what she bought before, but it isn't there now."

According to the president of Kayser-Roth, Marvin J. Joseph, "Our customer primarily wants fit so we put in a separate crotch piece and a sewn-on waistband in our No-Nonsense pantyhose which sells for $1.19. These procedures cost more because without them, the garment can be knit in one process on the machine with a seam up the middle and a knit-in waistband. But the separate crotch piece allows for less strain and less chance of tearing, and the sewn-on waistband won't roll over."

Finally, it all does come down to what you want. John Holliveld of J. C. Penney says, "You can't compare 89-cent and $2 garments because they serve two different purposes. Just to run around in, the customer can buy the cheaper pair. But if she's going out on a heavy date, she'll want a sheerer pantyhose."

Of course, she can always wear a pantsuit and no stockings and avoid the problem altogether.

New Library Service

Anyone in the area who is unable to provide his own transportation to Maud Preston Palenske Memorial Library, St. Joseph, may now contact the library and have books delivered. Anne Stobbe, librarian, has announced.

The service is being provided by members of the Benton Harbor-St. Joseph Altruism Club.

Books will be delivered once a month. No library card is needed and there will be no fines, according to Stobbe. Books will be picked up on the next delivery.

Reuse Plastic Baskets

Openwork plastic baskets that fruits or berries arrive in have quite a few "second uses."

They make ideal colanders for washing the fruits or berries, and can also be used for flower "frags." Here's how. Place one in a deep dish or bowl. Poke the flowers into the lattice work, and secure the basket to the bowl with florist's clay.

You can also make attractive hanging baskets from them. Line the insides with sphagnum moss and insert a plant or two — or imitation flowers. Pull picture wire in from each of the four corners, fasten them together, and hang the baskets in decorative spots.

Is your living room livable? Experts say that it will be if the furniture is well arranged. But this is sometimes more difficult than it sounds! Order and balance are often difficult to achieve in modern homes; so many of them have irregular shapes, limited wall space, off-center fireplaces, and large window areas. But here are a few suggestions: Decide where each grouping of furniture will be placed, according to its particular use (a television grouping, a conversation grouping, etc.). Place large furniture pieces first. Place them parallel with a wall or window to achieve real balance. Once the large pieces are positioned, the smaller ones will fall into place more easily.

These are just two observations about the state's artistic output before 1914 made by Michigan State university art history professor Sadayoshi Omoto in two years of collecting facts for a national Bicentennial inventory.

Through countless letters, personal tip-offs and trips around the state, the professor has now amassed about 800 photographs of early Michigan paintings. About 80 per cent of the paintings are in the hands of private owners and most likely never exhibited.

Although Omoto will continue collecting information through early June, he is already making preliminary selections for a 60-painting traveling show booked in nine Michigan museums in 1977.

He reports that landscapes and portraits are the chief subjects of the paintings and that their valuable documentation of what Michigan's land and people looked like can "help Michigan people understand themselves."

"There may be no Rembrandts, but there is no reason to apologize for the quality of Michigan art," Omoto said. "The inventory reveals a good sense of painters who may have been self-taught, but were nevertheless sensitive."

The professor noted that good candidates for the traveling show include landscape painter A. Louis Hayward of Mount Clemens, who happened to be a friend of the famous Whistler; Frederick Norman of Whitehall, skilled portrayer of lumber camp life; Detroit's Robert Hopkin, a marine scene artist, and William Gibbs of Romeo, whose landscapes show European influence.

Omoto has also come across work of Grand Rapids-born Frederick S. Church, who made his reputation in New York, and of "Paris-oriented" Frederick Frieske of Owosso whose works are now being advertised for sale in national art magazines.

"But many paintings in the inventory are by anonymous artists," he added. Nameless or otherwise, Michigan painters eschewed imaginary and mythological subjects popular in Europe for reality — barnyard scenes, people with pets, landscapes around such places as Copper Harbor, Avery Farm in Alpena county and Teal Lake.

"Jackson, East Lansing and the Upper Peninsula have been especially active in reporting paintings," reports Omoto, who hopes to hear of even more work from Grand Rapids, the Upper Peninsula and from the northeast (Alpena) and southwest (Benton Harbor) areas of the state.

The professor said he was surprised at the number of women artists active before 1914, citing the landscapes of Sophie Bennett of Grand Rapids, pasture scenes of Blanche Dunbar of Howell, seascapes of Emma Uren of Escanaba and still-lives of Verena Hubley of Menominee.

In connection with the traveling show, to be exhibited in Escanaba, Grand Rapids, Muskegon, Coldwater, Alpena, Kalamazoo, Frankenmuth, Port Huron and Jackson, Omoto will prepare a catalog of works and commentary.

All facts on the pre-1914 Michigan art search will be turned over to the National Collection of Fine Arts at the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D.C. To date, 150,000 entries on paintings all over America have been processed.

Vast Array Of Pantyhose Perplexing To Shoppers

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Some day someone's going to produce statistics proving that female nervous disorders and pantyhose are related.

Headaches are activated just by the bewildering variety from which to choose — a thousand different names and styles, from 29 cents to several dollars. And they all run or snag sooner or later. Mostly sooner.

Well, just what are you getting for 39 cents, or 90 cents or $5?

"Women want longer life on the one hand and great sheer-ness on the other and the two are not compatible," says John Holtvedt, women's hosiery buyer for J.C. Penney whose private label pantyhose sells from 99 cents to $4.

By its very nature, the product is fragile. The sheerer it is, the more expensive because the yarns cost more. And the greater the risk of tearing.

On the other hand, support pantyhose which is the most durable because of the spandex it contains, is also the most costly because of that spandex. So you pay at both ends.

And you pay basically the same people. Pantyhose is divided between brand name — Hanes (L'eggs), Kayser-Roth (No-Nonsense), and Van Raalte, for instance — and private label or no-name pantyhose.

Brand name is nationally distributed and advertised. Private label is packaged under the particular name of a chain or department store, or sold unlabeled. It's usually less expensive and marketed more on a regional basis.

According to Sam Berry, the president of the National Association of Hosiery Manufacturers, "The top 25 mills in the country make most of the pantyhose. We don't have any mills that are just private label or brand name."

Then, aren't you paying more for a brand name when you can probably get the same product for less in a chain store? Jack Ward, vice president of hosiery marketing for Leggs pantyhose which sells for $1.39, says, "I guess it's conceivable that a customer could get a similar product in a chain store for 99 cents."

But most chains buy from several mills and neither the chain nor the mill will reveal who's making what for whom.

And, Ward and his confreres hasten to add, there are other considerations. Granting a certain standardization in the industry — the same equipment, the same basic material, raw nylon — it's what happens from then on that accounts for price. And in the very cheapest, coarsest pantyhose, nothing beyond quick construction happens.

Raw nylon has no inherent stretch. That must be added by twisting the nylon on a spindle and "setting" it with heat so that it acquires the tension of a rubber band. This, in turn, allows it to stretch and snap back, preventing bagging.

Some mills receive the yarn already twisted, others "texturize" it themselves. What kind of yarn is used, how carefully it's texturized and dyed, how fast the knitting machines are run, whether the garment is inspected along the way, and if any hand-sewing takes place all figure in the cost. That, plus advertising and extra touches such as ribbons added at the waist.

Leonard Meisels, director of marketing and merchandising for Van Raalte, says, "You're paying for quality control and inspection in a brand name which you don't find in a lower price garment. And you don't find proportionate sizes or the color selection in the other garment. Most of our customers," he concludes, "are looking for continuity of availability and consistency in a manufacturer's signature."

Jack Paige, vice president of marketing for Bic Pantyhose, a new, mass-market 99 cent product, adds this. "Let's say a five-and-dime store bought a million pair of pantyhose from some manufacturer in North Carolina, packaged it under its own name and sold it for 59 cents. Six months later, they go back and get a better price from another manufacturer who uses different machines. The consumer wants what she bought before, but it isn't there now."

According to the president of Kayser-Roth, Merwin J. Joseph, "Our customer primarily wants fit so we put in a separate crotch piece and a sewn-on waistband in our No-Nonsense pantyhose which sells for $1.19. These procedures cost more because without them, the garment can be knit in one process on the machine with a seam up the middle and a knit-in waistband. But the separate crotch piece allows for less strain and less chance of tearing, and the sewn-on waistband won't roll over."

Finally, it all does come down to what you want. John Holtvedt of J. C. Penney says, "You can't compare 99 cent and $2 garments because they serve two different purposes. Just to run around in, the customer can buy the cheaper pair. But if she's going out on a heavy date, she'll want a sheerer pantyhose."

Of course, she can always wear a pantsuit and no stockings and avoid the problem altogether.

New Library Service

Anyone in the area who is unable to provide his own transportation to Maud Preston Palenske Memorial library, St. Joseph, may now contact the library and have books delivered, Anne Stobbe, librarian, has announced.

The service is being provided by members of the Benton Harbor-St. Joseph Altrusa club.

Books will be delivered once a month. No library card is needed and there will be no fines, according to Stobbe. Books will be picked up on the next delivery.

Reuse Plastic Baskets

Openwork plastic baskets that fruits or berries arrive in have quite a few "second uses."

They make ideal colanders for washing the fruits or berries, and can also be used for flower "frogs." Here's how. Place one in a deep dish or bowl. Poke the flowers into the lattice work, and secure the basket to the bowl with florist's clay.

You can also make attractive hanging baskets from them. Line the insides with sphagnum moss and insert a plant or two — or imitation flowers. Pull picture wire in from each of the four corners, fasten them together, and hang the baskets in decorative spots.

Design & DECOR
by Bobbi & Ron Guertel

Is your living room livable? Experts say that it will be if the furniture is well arranged. But this is sometimes more difficult than it sounds! Order and balance are often difficult to achieve in modern homes; so many of them have irregular shapes, limited wall space, off-center fireplaces, and large window areas. But here are a few suggestions: Decide where each grouping of furniture will be placed, according to its particular use (a television grouping, a conversation grouping, etc.). Place large furniture pieces first. Place them parallel with a wall or window to achieve real balance. Once the large pieces are positioned, the smaller ones will fall into place more easily.

SH Auxiliary Plans Membership Drive

SOUTH HAVEN — The annual door to door membership drive for South Haven Community hospital auxiliary will be held Monday through Saturday, March 15-20, according to Mrs. Leona Wierbecky, auxiliary president.

Volunteers will canvass homes in South Haven and Bangor cities and Casco, Geneva, Arlington, Covert, Bangor and South Haven townships.

Membership dues of $1 are used to help finance the various functions and projects of the auxiliary which include the Red Cross bloodmobile and to maintain a scholarship fund for students interested in medical careers.

New members will receive an object sheet describing the purpose of the auxiliary and the functions of the guilds. They then have the choice of becoming an active member by joining one of the guilds or remaining an inactive member, according to Mrs. Wierbecky.

Co-chairmen of the membership drive are Mrs. Dennis Beach and Mrs. William Andrusen. They are being assisted by Mrs. James Faux and Mrs. David Jensen.

In the past, the auxiliary's special projects have included buying furniture and drapes for the hospital lobby, family room and a solarium; patient televisions; crib and high chair for pediatrics; intensive care and emergency room equipment; stretcher, and the training mannequin, Arrhythmia Resuscitator.

The auxiliary is now working on the spring bazaar, initiating participation in the medic-alert program and redecorating the hospital family room.

One of the auxiliary's primary functions is to coordinate volunteer workers of the hospital. This is completed through various guilds, including shoppers cart, coffee shop, reception desk, Pink Ladies, surgical dressings and decorating. Volunteers are needed, according to Mrs. Norma Maden, chairman, to operate the shoppers cart which provides stationary, cosmetics and reading material to patients.

Mrs. Davis Baer is the new chairman of the coffee shop. According to Mrs. Baer, the guild needs workers to act as substitutes in the coffee shop which serves simple meals and beverages to visitors and hospital employees.

Volunteers assisting with the reception desk direct and limit visitors to hospital patients, according to Mrs. Harold Gargde, chairman.

The Pink Ladies distribute mail, care for flowers, pass dinner trays and assist nurses whenever possible. Chairman is Mrs. Mabel Meyle.

The decorating guild, chaired by Mrs. Alfred Baars, is responsible for providing decorations for patients' trays on Sundays and holidays. Items are handmade by members.

Mrs. Gertrude Lundy is chairman of the surgical dressings guild which makes dressings for use in the operating room.

Piano Concert Sunday

FRANK WIENS

BERRIEN SPRINGS — Frank Wiens, concert pianist from New Haven, Conn., will present a concert Sunday, March 14, at 8 p.m. in Price Hall Amphitheater, Andrews university.

Wiens, who is on the faculty of Drake university, Des Moines, Iowa, performed the Twin Cities Symphony last October.

He has been a frequent finalist in national competitions, including the North American Young Artists Competition in 1975.

The concert, part of the Chamber Music series at AU, will include Puritani in E Minor by Bach; Sonata in E-flat Major, Opus 81a, Les Adieux L'Absence Le Retour, by Beethoven; Piano Variations by Copland and Sonata No. 2 in B-flat Minor, Opus 36 by Rachmaninoff.

Fiber Found In Apparel

Acrylic is found in many apparel items and home furnishings.

Its best known use is in sweaters, garments and socks, but it is also found in blankets, carpeting, draperies, upholstery and in fleece and pile fabrics.

Many inherent characteristics make acrylic popular — it dries quickly, is warm, lightweight, resilient and has good shape retention. Acrylic items can generally be machine washed in warm water, dried at a low temperature setting and rarely need ironing.

Holiday Menu

The month of March is not many times thought of as a "holiday" in the sense of a vacation fun-time. But it seems that this March has been chosen as an "unheard-of-holiday" for women because it has been named "Women Appreciation Month."

One reason for a celebration might be to continue and strengthen the themes of "Equality, Development and Peace" which proclaimed 1975 as International Women's Year. This month of March could be a time to re-emphasize the effort needed to create a "worldwide awareness of women's worth."

In March of 1857, female garment and textile workers marched and demonstrated for their rights. This month of March can commemorate the efforts of those women of the past in gaining, for another example, the right for women to vote in 1920, as well as supporting the efforts of all today's women in seeking and securing a better quality of life for all.

But no matter what the reason is for celebrating, a holiday is a holiday, so one way to really enjoy it is to take a holiday away from slaving over a hot stove for hours.

Can't go out for dinner every night of the month? Then don't — just fix easy to prepare and nutritious meals at home. Here's such a menu for either the working person on the go or those at home who have "places to go and people to meet."

STEAK SUPPER IN FOIL
One and one-half pound chuck steak, one-inch thick
One can (ten and one-half ounces) condensed cream of mushroom soup

Three medium carrots, quartered
Two stalks celery, cut into two-inch pieces
Three medium potatoes, peeled and quartered
Two tablespoons water
Heat oven to 450 degrees.

Place 24 by 18-inch piece of heavy-duty aluminum foil in baking pan; place meat on foil. Stir together mushroom soup and onion soup mix (dry); spread on meat. Top meat with vegetables; sprinkle water on vegetables. Fold foil over and seal securely. Cook one and one-half hours or until tender. Makes four servings.

COUNTRY-STYLE WALDORF SALAD
Two cups diced unpared apple
One cup diced celery
One can (eight and one-fourth ounces) seedless grapes, drained
One-third cup coarsely chopped nuts
Four cups bite-size pieces lettuce

One-half cup mayonnaise or salad dressing
Toss all ingredients. Garnish with slices of red apple for added color. Makes four to six servings.

LEMON UPSIDE-DOWN GINGERBREAD
One-fourth stick butter or margarine
One-half cup brown sugar (packed)
One lemon
One package (fourteen and one-half ounces) gingerbread mix

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Melt butter in oven in square pan, nine by nine by two-inches. Sprinkle sugar evenly over butter. Cut lemon into nine very thin slices (about one-eighth-inch thick); quarter each slice. Arrange lemon slices in pan. Prepare gingerbread mix as directed on package except decrease water to three-fourths cup; pour batter evenly over fruit in pan. Bake until wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean, 30 to 35 minutes. Invert pan on heatproof serving plate; leave pan over cake a few minutes. Serve warm, and if desired, with sweetened whipped cream. Makes nine servings.

Gen. Washington Led Parade On St. Patrick's Day 1776

George Washington was a red-white-and-blue hero, but he also had a touch of green, the kind you find in shamrocks.

General Washington, the grandest marshal of his day, was the grand marshal of America's first St. Patrick's Day parade, which was held on March 17, 1776, in Boston.

It was a military parade with American revolutionaries, many of them Irish, marching into Boston to take over the city as the British redcoats fled. General Washington directed the troop movement and his brigadier that day was Gen. John Sullivan.

Washington ordered that the watchword for his men would be "Boston" and the countersign, "St. Patrick."

"It wasn't as elaborate or colorful as St. Patrick's Day parades today," Sally Hopkins, a researcher for a greeting card manufacturer observed, "but it certainly was joyous."

In 1778, at Valley Forge, Washington also called for a St. Patrick's celebration. He ordered an extra issue of grog and "thus all made merry and were good friends," according to one account of the day.

Because of his wartime heroics and especially because of his fondness for the Irish in his command, George Washington, in 1781, was made one of the few non-Irish members of the Society of the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick in Philadelphia.

Fiber Found In Apparel

Acrylic is found in many apparel items and home furnishings.

Its best known use is in sweaters, garments and socks, but it is also found in blankets, carpeting, draperies, upholstery and in fleece and pile fabrics.

Many inherent characteristics make acrylic popular — it dries quickly, is warm, lightweight, resilient and has good shape retention. Acrylic items can generally be machine washed in warm water, dried at a low temperature setting and rarely need ironing.

Holiday Menu

The month of March is not many times thought of as a "holiday" in the sense of a vacation fun-time. But it seems that this March has been chosen as an "unheard-of-holiday" for women because it has been named "Women Appreciation Month."

One reason for a celebration might be to continue and strengthen the themes of "Equality, Development and Peace" which proclaimed 1975 as International Women's Year. This month of March could be a time to re-emphasize the effort needed to create a "worldwide awareness of women's worth."

In March of 1857, female garment and textile workers marched and demonstrated for their rights. This month of March can commemorate the efforts of those women of the past in gaining, for another example, the right for women to vote in 1920, as well as supporting the efforts of all today's women in seeking and securing a better quality of life for all.

But no matter what the reason is for celebrating, a holiday is a holiday, so one way to really enjoy it is to take a holiday away from slaving over a hot stove for hours.

STEAK SUPPER IN FOIL. One and one-half pound chuck steak, one-inch thick

One can (ten and one-half ounces) condensed cream of mushroom soup

One envelope (about one and one-half ounces) onion soup mix

Three medium carrots, quartered

Two stalks celery, cut into two-inch pieces

Three medium potatoes, pared and quartered

Two tablespoons water

Heat oven to 450 degrees.

Place 24 by 18-inch piece of heavy-duty aluminum foil in baking pan; place meat on foil. Stir together mushroom soup and onion soup mix (dry); spread on meat. Top meat with vegetables; sprinkle water on vegetables. Fold foil over and seal securely. Cook one and one-half hours or until tender. Makes four servings.

COUNTRY-STYLE WALDORF SALAD

Two cups diced unpared apple

One cup diced celery

One can (eight and one-fourth ounces) seedless grapes, drained

One-third cup coarsely chopped nuts

Four cups bite-size pieces lettuce

One-half cup mayonnaise or salad dressing

LEMON UPSIDE-DOWN GINGERBREAD

One-fourth stick butter or margarine

One-half cup brown sugar (packed)

One lemon

One package (fourteen and one-half ounces) gingerbread mix

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Melt butter in oven in square pan, nine by nine by two-inches. Sprinkle sugar evenly over butter. Cut lemon into nine very thin slices (about one-eighth-inch thick); quarter each slice. Arrange lemon slices in pan.

Prepare gingerbread mix as directed on package except decrease water to three-fourths cup; pour batter evenly over fruit in pan. Bake until wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean, 30 to 35 minutes. Invert pan on heatproof serving plate; leave pan over cake a few minutes. Serve warm, and if desired, with sweetened whipped cream. Makes nine servings.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Handshake Can Say A Lot

Dear Miss Landers: Many years ago, I used to marvel at people's handshakes, particularly men's.

I met a great many top executives and every once in a while I'd get a dishrag handshake or a "dead fish" — no firmness or the feeling of "I'm glad to meet you."

Recently, it happened again. Does handshaking reveal anything of one's character? — Wondering

Dear Wondering: Character? No. But a handshake says a lot about a man's knowledge of how to present himself. Those dishrags and dead fish register minus ten on the meet-o-meters of "talent scouts" who are looking for a live wire to hire.

Florida Help

Dear Ann Landers: You are our last hope. Please print this letter. Thousands of families in Florida will bless you. I promise, if it shows up in the paper I will mail copies to several people and I'll bet hundreds of other Floridians will also clip copies and send them (anonymously, of course) to friends and relatives in the frozen North.

Dear Ones: We know it's cold where you are and it's lovely down here. If you come to visit us again this year will you please:

(1) Help out with the grocery bill.

(2) Remember I am not running a laundromat. When you wash your clothes, buy your own detergent, bleach, soap, etc.

(3) I don't expect you to do my housework, but please keep your own room in order. And it would be nice if you laundered your own sheets, pillowcases and towels.

(4) Don't expect us to entertain you. YOU are on vacation. WE aren't. If you want to eat at some nice restaurants, invite us. We'd love to go.

(5) Please — one family at a time. Don't bring your sister and her husband or your best friends — or anybody else, for that matter.

You always ask us why we don't ever visit you. Well, to be perfectly honest, we can't afford it. — Tired Of Being Bored

Dear Tired: Here's your letter and I hope it will make life easier for a lot of Floridians. I know from my mail that many of you can use some assistance.

Urgent?

Dear Ann Landers: I am writing this in my own miserable penmanship because I don't want to dictate it to my secretary. She is the problem. I have read so many letters in your column from secretaries who have trouble with the boss because he can't keep his hands to himself. It's the other way around here. My secretary is always patting my cheek, smoothing down my hair, holding my hand a little too long when she gives me a pen for my signature. It's embarrassing.

She is 28 years old, very attractive, knows this office from A to Z, and is extremely competent. I'd hate to think of breaking in another secretary. How can I get her to keep her hands off me? P.S. This has been going on for five years. — In Urgent Need Of Advice

Dear Boss: If it's been going on for five years the problem can't be so urgent. Kitcherchidding.

Going to a wedding? Giving one? Or standing up in one? Even if you're already married Ann Landers' completely new "The Bride's Guide" will answer questions about today's weddings. For a copy, send a dollar bill, plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (24 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Dr. Lester Coleman

When it is suspected that a person has poor circulation of the legs and feet, is it possible to definitely prove it with tests? My feet get very cold when other people don't complain.

Mr. R.V., Fla.

Dear Mr. V.:

There are a number of symptoms that suggest circulatory problems.

Unusual coldness, cramps in the legs after walking a short distance, pins and needles sensations point to this possibility.

Yet there need be no guesswork about the state of circulation. The color and warmth are very important guides. The presence of swelling of the legs is important, too. Feeling the pulsations in the groin, behind the knee, around the ankle and over the arch of the foot tells the doctor a great deal about the patient's circulation.

Highly sensitive electronic thermometers can measure the temperature of the tips of the toes and compare this to the general body temperature. An oscilloscope is another sensitive device which, when applied to the pulse areas can indicate normalcy or abnormality.

There are also "circulation time" tests which can point to circulation disorders.

There need be no speculation on your part. The tests are available and conclusive. Why not find out?

I live with my daughter and son-in-law. I am shocked at the way they let my newborn grandchild scream before he is fed. I think this is unhealthy.

Mrs. G.S., Wash.

Dear Mrs. S.:

First, you must remember that your newborn grandchild is their newborn child. I say this specifically in order to alert you to the fact that your ways of rearing a child need not necessarily be your daughter's and son-in-law's way.

It is no longer considered an advantage to force a baby to eat according to a fixed schedule set down for all babies.

Today, babies are generally fed "on demand." They cry when they are hungry and then are fed. Many babies gradually develop a time schedule of their own. It may come in four-hour cycles, similar to the fixed schedule you are accustomed to.

There are now no fixed times for baby's eating schedule. Relax, Grandma. It seems to work out better.

SPEAKING OF YOUR HEALTH. Harsh laxatives can be more injurious than beneficial.

DR. COLEMAN welcomes letters from readers, and, while he cannot undertake to answer each one, he will use questions in his column whenever possible and when they are of general interest. Address your letters to Dr. Coleman in care of this newspaper.

West had to throw his ace of hearts to hold three diamonds and the spade queen. Now Arthur discarded dummy's last spade to leave it with three diamonds and a heart. East was down to hearts and diamonds.

Finally, Arthur cashed dummy's high diamonds and led that heart. East took his king, but Arthur cashed dummy's high diamonds and led that heart. East took his king, but Arthur's queen was his 12th trick.

Kozel Begins Testimony

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A psychiatrist whom Patricia Hearst once accused of bullying her to tears says she "quivered and half-sobbed" when he bluntly inquired into her motives for joining terrorists in a bank holdup.

Dr. Harry Kozol, who was embroiled in a dispute with Miss Hearst in January, began his testimony for the prosecution Wednesday at her trial for bank robbery.

U.S. Atty. James L. Browning Jr. said Kozol, who interviewed the defendant five times, will challenge her contention that she was still a frightened kidnap victim when she joined her Symbionese Liberation Army captors in crime.

Chief defense counsel F. Lee Bailey said he would vigorously protest Kozol's testimony and probably would refer to the previous dispute between the doctor and the defendant.

"The diminutive, gray-haired expert appearing for the government said Wednesday that he first mentioned the SLA, the tiny terrorist tribe that kidnaped Miss Hearst on Feb. 4, 1974, by asking her to describe slain SLA chieftain Donald "Cinque" DeFreeze.

"He was always giving orders," he quoted her as saying.

Kozol, 68, depicted Miss Hearst as ill but cooperative at their first meeting on Jan. 7. But he said he was disturbed by "her smoking constantly."

He said he got the impression "this was a girl who talks directly and likes to be directly spoken to."

In that vein, he said, he referred to the bank robbery and "I asked bluntly, 'Why did you do it?'"

He said she replied, "They

Local Governments Dropping Social Security

WASHINGTON (AP) — Growing numbers of local governments are pulling out of the Social Security program at a time when the big federal benefits system is being buffeted by inflation and unemployment.

While alarmed that the defections may snowball, federal officials say there is no indication now of any noticeable impact on the solvency of the Social Security trust funds.

They point out that, despite the dropouts, the over-all number of state, county and city employees covered by Social Security and paying contributions is steadily increasing and has been since they became eligible in 1950.

Under federal law, state and local governments that have had Social Security for at least five years can pull out by giving the federal government two years' advance written notice. They can't join again.

Since 1959, a total of 322 local governments with 44,667 employees have dropped out of Social Security, most of them in California, Louisiana and Texas. And 207 other governments with 53,187 employees have given the required two years' advance notice of intention to terminate.

Financially troubled New York City also is exploring the possibility of pulling its 230,000 employees out of Social Security to save the city about $200 million annually.

About 81 per cent of state and local government employees covered by Social Security also have some type of supplemental retirement plan.

The Metropolitan Washington Council of Governments in the District of Columbia found that, by pulling out of Social Security and spending the same amount of money on a private plan, it could:

—allow workers to retire at age 60 with 25 years of service as opposed to age 65 with 30 years service under Social Security;

—pay retirement benefits at 80 per cent of the highest consecutive five years salary rather than 55 per cent under Social Security; —reduce payments from its 166 employees by a total of $20,000 annually with an additional $22,000 agency saving, and maintain survivor benefits.

U.S. Voices Join The Chorus Criticizing Voice Of America

WASHINGTON (AP) — Criticism is not new to the Voice of America. The government's overseas radio network often has been described by Moscow as a Western propaganda tool whose newscasts stretch the truth.

But today the criticism strikes much closer to home. Serious questions are being raised on Capitol Hill about VOA's newscasts. And the Washington complaints are similar to Moscow's.

Both focus on the network's newscasts: Are they truthful or are they tinged with propaganda?

The rising criticism, however, is only part of VOA's problems. The network is beset with problems involving its basic organization and aims, funding, high-level administration disputes and poor broadcast reception because of aging transmitters.

The basic problem, according to NBC's John Chancellor, a former chief of VOA, is that the Voice "has been placed at the intersection of journalism and diplomacy" — attempting to report the news fully while at the same time actively presenting U.S. foreign policy.

Dealing with Soviet attacks is an easier matter for VOA officials, who see the Kremlin's grumbling as evidence of the effectiveness of VOA.

On Capitol Hill, however, Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., has contended that VOA last spring presented a "totally misleading" picture of developments during the last days before the fall of South Vietnam by failing to report adequately on American evacuation plans.

Percy, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said this kind of "censorship" — responding to administration pressure — violated a provision of VOA's charter requiring that its news coverage be "accurate, objective and comprehensive."

Both the Senate committee and a House International Relations panel overseeing VOA's budget are undecided about proposals to remove the station from the U.S. Information Agency, as part of a plan to reorganize American overseas information and cultural programs.

VOA's current chief, Kenneth Giddens, concedes that the station tends to be "a little more restrained" in its reporting than BBC.

But he adds that "I really believe ... that the Voice of America puts out an objective, balanced, unbiased news product as you'll find anywhere on the face of the earth. I'm very proud of it."

However well the Voice may compare with other Western overseas broadcasting, VOA officials estimate that it has a regular Soviet audience numbering "in the millions," providing them an alternative to government-controlled media.

Can Lids Are Given Priority

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

While most home canners are still enjoying the fruits and vegetables of last year's labors, government and industry officials are looking ahead to the summer of 1978, trying to avoid shortages like the ones that plagued consumers in 1974 and 1975.

Nancy Harvey Stearns, consumers affairs adviser of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, says manufacturers report they will have more than four billion replacement lids available for this year's canning season. That's about double the 1975 supply.

Will four billion be enough? Bill Kerr of the Kerr Glass Co. of Los Angeles, one of the major manufacturers, said he hopes so, but refused to make any predictions.

Kerr said this year's lid production will be double the number made three years ago. He said the company has been operating three shifts a day, seven days a week since Oct. 1 to turn out replacement lids for the reusable glass jars used by consumers to preserve a wide variety of foods.

The company also has been shipping them through regular distribution channels and Kerr said people have been buying "right through the winter."

The Ball Corp. of Muncie, Ind., another major manufacturer, also is producing lids at a record rate.

Like Kerr, Ball has added new equipment and spokesman Bill Brantley said the lids will come off the assembly line at the rate of 1,200 a minute. Last year, Brantley said, Ball produced four or five replacement lids for every new jar and lid combination. This year, he said, the ratio will be seven to one.

The Federal Trade Commission, after a seven-week investigation last year, said it found no evidence of collusion on the part of the manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers.

CIA Employees Say Protection Lacking

WASHINGTON (AP) — A number of former CIA employees say the Ford administration has not acted effectively in protect undercover agents overseas despite its outrage over the murder of one CIA man and the public identification of others.

But in a series of interviews the former employees, from a street-level undercover "case worker" to senior officials once in the agency's highest echelon, applauded Ford's proposal to make unauthorized disclosure of secret information a federal crime.

More than a year of public discussion of intelligence issues without resolution has brought CIA morale to a low point, left potential sources, including those from the Soviet Union, fearful of offering information to the Central Intelligence Agency and may have damaged agency recruiting for new officers, these men say.

They also reported some current and former CIA employees are bitter and upset by what they see as Ford's failure to defend the agency; others by the use to which past presidents put the agency, and most by what they see as lack of support from Congress and the public.

One former high-ranking official who insisted on anonymity said Ford should have refused to cooperate with congressional investigators.

"Ford should have forced this to a constitutional issue and taken it to the Supreme Court or resigned," he said. "It broke down the separation of powers. Our agents have been exposed and our officials humiliated. We'll pay a heavy price for it."

On Feb. 18, more than one year after initial news reports of CIA abuses, Ford issued an executive order setting guidelines for covert operations and establishing executive review boards. He also proposed that Congress enact legislation making illegal the unauthorized release of secret information by a current or former federal employee.

The issues of leaks and "cover," or disguises for CIA men abroad, were sharpened with the murder last December of Richard C. Welch, CIA station chief in Athens, after he and others were publicly identified over several years as agency employees.

Ford's attack on "leaks" was hailed as vital.

"If you're going to have an intelligence service, the bedrock has to be criminalization of disclosure of sources and methods," Mike Ackerman, a former agent, said.

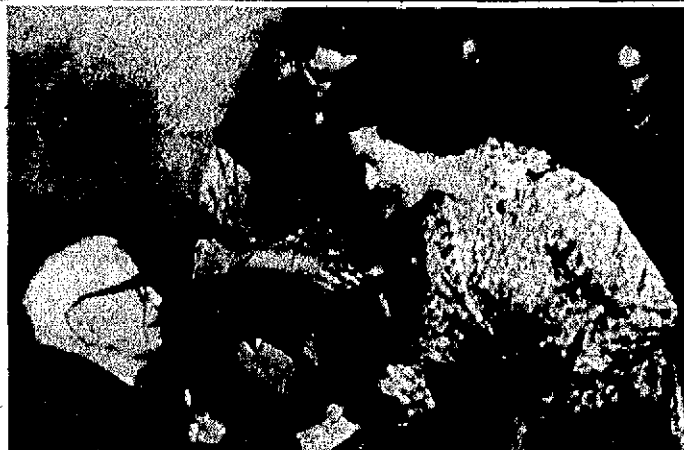

A former official who asked not to be identified said: "Gentlemen's agreements are not worth anything in this kind of business."

These former officials said public disclosure of intelligence operations has weakened CIA information links around the world.

"If you were the head of a Dutch intelligence agency, for example, you might want to take your secrets somewhere else," said John Bruss, who retired in 1971 from the post of deputy to the director.

"A good percentage of our sources have told us to go fly a kite," said Ackerman, who left the agency last May 30 at the age of 34 to publicly defend the CIA and because he feared that the spate of criticism and disclosures would keep him from doing his job properly.

He said that at the end of his 11-year career as an undercover agent in Latin America, Africa and Europe, "there was no way I could sit down in a hotel room with a Soviet major and credibly convince him that under all circumstances I could maintain his security."

Milliken Won't Run

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Gov. William Milliken politely declined to run Wednesday, ending days of speculation.

He told Democratic House Speaker Bobby Crim that he would not run alongside him on a five-mile course for charity in Bay City on March 14.

This excuse was: "Each of us must run his own course."

Crim invited Milliken earlier this week to join him, and other legislators, on the benefit run. Proceeds will go toward the Michigan Special Olympics and the state's young handicapped athletes.

"Experience has taught me that each of us must run his own course and make his own contribution in his own way," said Milliken, a swimmer, cyclist, skier, tennis player and occasional cross-country runner.

Milliken is nearing his 54th birthday. Crim is 44.

"I, like a number of legislative leaders I have heard of, would not dream of interfering with 'The Loneliness of the Long-Distance Runner' — and I leave this particular race to you," he told Crim, who runs a seven-minute mile two or three times daily to stay trim.

Actually, the benefit was not a race, but a Run-A-Thon in which sponsors pledge money for each mile completed by a particular runner.

Though Crim asked Milliken to pledge at least $1 a mile on Crim if the governor could not run in person, Milliken made no mention of a monetary pledge in his response to Crim.

New Postal Equipment Is Blamed

DETROIT (AP)—A California congressman charged Wednesday that thousands of pieces of bulk mail across the nation have been mangled by expensive new postal equipment.

Rep. Charles H. Wilson, D-Calif., chairman of a House Post Office and Civil Service Committee, labeled the incident "a disgrace" after a surprise inspection of Detroit area bulk postal facilities late Tuesday night.

Some of the mass destruction of bulk mail involved human error or criminal neglect, Wilson said. But he placed most of the blame on $1 billion worth of machinery that was installed in recent years in 22 bulk mail centers across the country.

"I am terribly disturbed about the situation we found here," Wilson said at a news conference. "The unusually large number of damaged parcels is hard to explain."

Detroit Postal Director Emile

Asa conceded the new machinery chewed the labels off some packages and ripped other parcels open but said the situation was not as bad as portrayed by Wilson.

The California congressman, who toured Detroit's main post office and the suburban Allen Park bulk mail center late Tuesday night, had some words with postal officials on duty before he, his staff and reporters were admitted to the postal areas.

"Our people followed normal procedure," Asa said. "We do not as a rule allow cameras and newsmen to wander about the postal areas."

Wilson said his nocturnal visit came after he received complaints from some Detroit members of the Mail Handlers Union who alleged a massive buildup of damaged bulk mail was hurting the system.

He said his postal affairs subcommittee previously visited facilities in Memphis, Tenn., and Largo, Md., and found similar examples of torn and stripped bulk mail. But he said the problem was much smaller than in Detroit.

Postal officials said the suburban Allen Park bulk center was opened only a few months ago and that bugs still exist in the system.

Asa conceded that as the bulk mail moves along the assembly lines of the new system, packages often get torn and the contents spilled out. He said efforts are made to get the contents restored to the proper package but that making corrections is difficult.

An aide to Rep. William Brodhead, D-Mich., said he accompanied Wilson on his night tour and that the Detroit center had been cleaned up considerably before reporters got a daytime look at it.

Asa conceded a few loads of damaged bulk mail had been moved but said it was a normal operation.

Edison Linemen Return To Jobs

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sixty Detroit Edison linemen who walked off the job in a dispute over a scheduling change have resumed their nine-day battle with downed lines caused by a massive ice storm.

Edison said 5,000 scattered customers reported power outages Wednesday in addition to 12,000 still without power in the Thumb and 2,000 in northeast Detroit and the Grosse Pointes.

Consumers Power Co. officials said $900 of its customers still were without power Wednesday, mostly in the Thumb area. Michigan Bell Telephone Co. reported 5,000 customers without phone service.

Linemen at Edison walked off the job Tuesday night, spurning $80 each in overtime pay. They returned to work Wednesday. The men said that after nine straight days of 18-hour shifts they didn't care about all the money they were making.

"After a while, the extra money doesn't even matter," said David Kent, an Edison crewman. "You're just drained, mentally and physically."

In addition to exhaustion, linemen were faced with a drizzling rain which increased the danger of an accident as they tried to bring electric service back to the last of the 600,000 customers affected by the storm.

One crewman died earlier this week, so the workers were especially concerned about safety.

"It's worse when you're tired," said one. "That's why we work with a partner. You keep working automatically, but that danger is still back there in your mind."

Meanwhile, Detroit Edison said Wednesday its insurance covers only a fraction of an estimated $10 million in storm damages.

The spokesman only $1 million of the repair cost in labor and materials is covered by insurance.

Until recently, the spokesman said, as much as 70 per cent of the damage would have been covered by the insurance. But he said insurance companies have refused to renew the utility's policies because of Edison's large number of claims.

Edison had been insured by as many as 30 different companies, the spokesman said, and, "In the last 10 years, we have collected $15 million in claims and paid premiums of $1 million to $2 million. It was costing them a fortune."

Asks Centralized Court Rooms

DETROIT (AP)—Detroit Renaissance Center developers say they're trying to persuade Wayne County officials to move the county's Circuit Court into 17 floors of one of their new office towers. One promoter said Wednesday the $2.7-million annual rental would increase court efficiency. The 31 circuit courtrooms are presently scattered in three buildings downtown, with 21 of them in the City-County Building. County officials said Wednesday they had made no decision about moving.

Eastland Aide Fired In 1968 As Soviet Agent

WASHINGTON (AP) — The FBI investigated espionage charges in 1968 against one of Sen. James O. Eastland's aides who subsequently admitted furnishing information to Soviet agents and was fired, according to two knowledgeable sources.

The FBI tried to use the man as a double agent who would maintain his contacts with the Soviets in order to gather information for the FBI, the sources said Wednesday.

But that plan was abandoned because FBI agents concluded the man was unreliable, said the sources. He was never prosecuted. Both sources are familiar with the case; one is a former FBI intelligence official.

The FBI also investigated two of its own agents suspected of passing secret information to hostile foreign spies in the 1950s, the former official said.

The "hush-hush" probes produced circumstantial evidence against the two agents but neither was ever prosecuted, the source said.

In the Eastland case, the suspected Soviet spy was described as a "staff aide" to the powerful Mississippi Democrat. He worked for Eastland from May 1966 to May 1968, when the senator fired him.

Eastland was in Mississippi and could not be reached for comment. The FBI had no immediate comment.

The conservative Southerner is the dean of the Senate and for years has been one of its most influential members, particularly in matters concerning the Justice Department and the FBI.

His position as chairman of the Judiciary Committee and its internal security subcommittee gives him and his staff access to law enforcement information which the Soviets might consider valuable.

One of the sources said the FBI learned in about March 1968 that the Eastland aide had been feeding information to Soviet agents. The sources could not provide the aide's name or a description of the information he allegedly provided the Soviets.

Eastland learned of the man's activities and fired him in May 1968. FBI agents interviewed the man the following month, one source said.

"He admitted in the interview that he had started this type of activity in December 1967" and continued it for about six months, the source said.

The FBI "tried for a time" to use the man as a double agent, this source said. "He was being handled as a double agent. To what extent he was actually under bureau control, I don't know," the former official said.

United Way Post Assigned To Holben

Lawrence D. Holben, president of Lakeside Manufacturing company, has been appointed chairman of the Industry - Commerce - Labor - Construction division of the 1976 Binsland United Way campaign, according to Dr. Walter Brown, general campaign chairman.

Holben was a team captain in the same division in the successful 1975 drive and was an account co-ordinator in 1974. The ICLC division raised $40,117 in pledges last year accounting for 5.4 per cent of total dollars pledged. Holben said four team captains will be recruited to assist in the solicitation of approximately 130 accounts assigned to the division.

The ICLC division canvasses firms and businesses with more than 20 but less than 50 employees in the BUW area, and includes employees in 15 unions. The BUW area includes the northern two-thirds of Berrien county with the exception of Watervliet, Holben said.

Holben of a tool and die maker certificate from the U.S. Department of Labor. Holben organized Lakeside Manufacturing company in 1967. The firm produces finished castings. Holben was formerly associated with Saranac Machine and Modern Plastics corporation. He and his

But that plan was abandoned because FBI agents concluded the man was unreliable, said the sources. He was never prosecuted. Both sources are familiar with the case; one is a former FBI intelligence official.

The FBI also investigated two of its own agents suspected of passing secret information to hostile foreign spies in the 1950s, the former official said.

The "hush-hush" probes produced circumstantial evidence against the two agents but neither was ever prosecuted, the source said.

In the Eastland case, the suspected Soviet spy was described as a "staff aide" to the powerful Mississippi Democrat. He worked for Eastland from May 1966 to May 1968, when the senator fired him.

Eastland was in Mississippi and could not be reached for comment. The FBI had no immediate comment.

The conservative Southerner is the dean of the Senate and for years has been one of its most influential members, particularly in matters concerning the Justice Department and the FBI.

His position as chairman of the Judiciary Committee and its internal security subcommittee gives him and his staff access to law enforcement information which the Soviets might consider valuable.

One of the sources said the FBI learned in about March 1968 that the Eastland aide had been feeding information to Soviet agents. The sources could not provide the aide's name or a description of the information he allegedly provided the Soviets.

Eastland learned of the man's activities and fired him in May 1968. FBI agents interviewed the man the following month, one source said.

"He admitted in the interview that he had started this type of activity in December 1967" and continued it for about six months, the source said.

The FBI "tried for a time" to use the man as a double agent, this source said. "He was being handled as a double agent. To what extent he was actually under bureau control, I don't know," the former official said.

United Way Post Assigned To Holben

Lawrence D. Holben, president of Lakeside Manufacturing company, has been appointed chairman of the Industry - Commerce - Labor - Construction division of the 1976 Blossomland United Way campaign, according to Dr. Walter Browne, general campaign chairman.

Holben was a team captain in the same division in the successful 1975 drive and was an account co-ordinator in 1974. The ICLC division raised $40,117 in pledges last year accounting for 5.4 per cent of total dollars pledged. Holben said four team captains will be recruited to assist in the solicitation of approximately 130 accounts assigned to the division.

The ICLC division canvasses firms and businesses with more than 20 but less than 50 employees in the BUW area, and includes employees in 15 unions. The BUW area includes the northern two-thirds of Berrien county with the exception of Watervliet, Holben said.

Holder of a tool and die maker certificate from the U.S. Department of Labor, Holben organized Lakeside Manufacturing company in 1967. The firm produces finished castings. Holben was formerly associated with Saranac Machine and Modern Plastics corporation. He and his WATERVLLET — Local campaign leaders have been announced for the drive to obtain pledges totalling $750,000 for a new Watervliet Community Hospital.

The eight leaders will head local committees charged with canvassing the communities of Watervliet, Coloma and Hartford and major businesses and industries in the area, according to Gordon Knutson, general chairman of the Renewal-Expansion Appeal for Community Hospital (REACH).

To date, campaign pledges total $184,827, he said.

Named major gifts chairman for Watervliet was F. Ronald Postelli. Pledges of $5,000 or more are considered major gifts. Postelli, 32, an attorney, is a partner in the law firm of Hartwig, Crow, Jones and Postelli.

Watervliet's special gifts chairman will be George Shane, 52. Pledges of $500 to $5,000 are considered special gifts. Shane is the owner of Shane's Orchard Supplies, M-140, Watervliet.

In Coloma, Gordon Noack, 38, was named major gifts chairman. He is administrative manager for the Menasha corporation, Coloma.

Coloma's special gifts chairman will be Walter (Bud) Reinhardt Jr., 51. He is the assistant manager of Hilltop Foods, Benton Harbor.

In Hartford, Dr. H.J. Meachum, 43, and Harold Jackson, 40, will share duties as co-chairmen of the major gifts committee. Dr. Meachum practices veterinary medicine at the Hartford animal hospital. Jackson is the plant manager for Duffy-Matt company, Hartford.

Hartford's special gifts chairman will be John Babcock, 63, owner of a farm on CR-687.

Appointed to assist Knutson in heading the business and industry committee was James Barricklow, 52, of Coloma. Barricklow will serve as vice chairman of the committee. He is president of the Blossomland Container corporation, Benton Harbor.

The total project costs for the replacement hospital are estimated at $5.2 million. In addition to the campaign goal of $750,000, financing will come from existing hospital funds and from a 40-year, 5 per cent interest loan from the federal Farmers Home administration.

The 70-bed replacement will be built on a 23-acre site south of Watervliet high school.

Employers May Have Received 'Red File' Notes

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Information from State Police files on subversives may have been given illegally to prospective employers, Gov. William Milliken disclosed Wednesday.

"I am now advised that there were occasions in the past where information from the files was shared with private corporations requesting reference information for employment purposes," the governor said in a letter to attorneys in a lawsuit over disclosure of the files.

The governor ordered State Police Director George Halver-

son "to undertake a complete and thorough inquiry" of the matter. He said none of the leaks occurred during Halverson's tenure.

At the same time, Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley reversed his position that the 50,000 files of the Subversives Activities Unit — known as the "Red Squad" — should be destroyed.

In response to Kelley's new request Wednesday, Ingham County Circuit Court Judge Thomas Brown said he was willing to stay his order of two months ago that almost all the files be destroyed by next Tuesday.

State officials would not reveal the source of the information about use of the files or which corporations were involved.

But testimony alleging information from State Police files found its way into the hands of Chrysler Corp. and other employers has been given in Wayne County Court, where 14 people filed a class action suit on behalf of anyone illegally investigated by the unit.

The 1950 statute under which the squad was created made it a felony for State Police to release information from the files to anyone except other law enforcement agencies or state departments.

The governor also said Wednesday that the Red Squad had investigated two registered political parties.

In a letter to Wayne County Circuit Court Judge James Montante, Milliken said the investigations were conducted in conjunction with probes of subversive or criminal activities.

Was He Reb Or Yankee?

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — For 16 years, the State of Tennessee has paid a Confederate widow's pension to a woman whose husband may have served in the Union Army.

State officials say they don't know how to stop the payments of $175 a month even if they can show that Texanna Whitfield's husband fought with federal forces instead of the Confederacy.

The state board that determined Civil War pensions was abolished five years ago.

The 86-year-old Memphis woman said she thinks her husband, Robert Whitfield, was a Confederate soldier — but she is not sure.

"He didn't talk much about the war, but I think I heard him say he fought for the South," she said. "I can't think of his name right now — the man he said he fought under."

The couple was married in 1925 in Tunica, Miss. Whitfield died four years later at the age of 100. Mrs. Whitfield now lives in a small three-room house with her grandson.

"He said I would get a pension, but he didn't have any discharge papers," Mrs. Whitfield said. It was not until 1960 when she moved to Memphis that she found her husband's papers and applied for the pension.

Documents on file with the Tennessee Department of Human Services include an October 1883 report from the adjutant general's office in the U.S. War Department that Whitfield served in Company E, 61st regiment, U.S. Colored Troops, from February 1864 to December 1865.

The Veterans Administration is now checking its records in Washington in an attempt to confirm which uniform Whitfield wore.

"If you have a question, who do you bring it up to?" asked Warren Causey, a spokesman for Tennessee's Human Services Department. "If she is not eligible, what do you do about it?"

Mrs. Whitfield was one of the last Civil War widows to be approved under a 1905 state act declaring "any widow of a Confederate veteran to be pensionable." Only five women in Tennessee are now drawing the Civil War pension.

"I guess I won't be here much longer either," Mrs. Whitfield said.

Employers May Have Received 'Red File' Notes

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Information from State Police files on subversives may have been given illegally to prospective employers, Gov. William Milliken disclosed Wednesday.

"I am now advised that there were occasions in the past where information from the files was shared with private corporations requesting reference information for employment purposes," the governor said in a letter to attorneys in a lawsuit over disposition of the files.

The governor ordered State Police Director George Halver-

son's tenure.

At the same time, Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley reversed his position that the 50,000 files of the Subversives Activities Unit — known as the "Red Squad" — should be destroyed.

In response to Kelley's new request Wednesday, Ingham County Circuit Court Judge Thomas Brown said he was willing to stay his order of two months ago that almost all the files be destroyed by next Tuesday.

State officials would not reveal the source of the information about use of the files or which corporations were involved.

But testimony alleging information from State Police files found its way into the hands of Chrysler Corp. and other employers has been given in Wayne County Court, where 14 people filed a class action suit on behalf of anyone illegally investigated by the unit.

The 1950 statute under which the squad was created made it a felony for State Police to release information from the files to anyone except other law enforcement agencies or state departments.

The governor also said Wednesday that the Red Squad had investigated two registered political parties.

In a letter to Wayne County Circuit Court Judge James Montante, Milliken said the investigations were conducted in conjunction with probes of subversive or criminal activities.

"If you have a question, who do you bring it up to?" asked Warren Causey, a spokesman for Tennessee's Human Services Department. "If she is not eligible, what do you do about it?"

Mrs. Whitfield was one of the last Civil War widows to be approved under a 1905 state act declaring "any widow of a Confederate veteran to be pensionable." Only five women in Tennessee are now drawing the Civil War pension.

"I guess I won't be here much longer either," Mrs. Whitfield said.

MAN KILLED

LUTHER, Mich. (AP) — An 18-year-old Luther man, Franklin Moore, was killed Wednesday when a board apparently kicked back from the saw he was operating and hit him in the chest.

Was He Reb Or Yankee?

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — For 16 years, the State of Tennessee has paid a Confederate widow's pension to a woman whose husband may have served in the Union Army.

State officials say they don't know how to stop the payments of $175 a month even if they can show that Texanna Whitfield's husband fought with federal forces instead of the Confederacy.

The state board that determined Civil War pensions was abolished five years ago.

The 86-year-old Memphis woman said she thinks her husband, Robert Whitfield, was a Confederate soldier — but she is not sure.

"He didn't talk much about the war, but I think I heard him say he fought for the South," she said. "I can't think of his name right now — the man he said he fought under."

The couple was married in 1925 in Tunica, Miss. Whitfield died four years later at the age of 100. Mrs. Whitfield now lives in a small three-room house with her grandson.

"He said I would get a pension, but he didn't have any discharge papers," Mrs. Whitfield said. It was not until 1960 when she moved to Memphis that she found her husband's papers and applied for the pension.

Documents on file with the Tennessee Department of Human Services include an October 1883 report from the adjutant general's office in the U.S. War Department that Whitfield served in Company E, 61st regiment, U.S. Colored Troops, from February 1864 to December 1865.

The Veterans Administration is now checking its records in Washington in an attempt to confirm which uniform Whitfield wore.

Mineral Lode On Ocean Floor

Global Sea Law Facing 'Rocks'

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — After years of stormy pursuit, negotiators from the world over converge here Monday with an unprecedented global law of the sea clearly in sight. But they could still run aground on little black rocks scattered on the floor of the sea.

There are probably more than a trillion tons of these potato-sized modules on the seabed at depths of two miles or more, mostly in the Pacific, and they contain enough nickel, copper, cobalt and manganese to supply an industrialized nation for generations, specialists say.

The task before the 150 delegations meeting here for the third session of the U.N. Conference on the Law of the Sea is to slice up these riches in a way acceptable to everyone.

Industrialized nations are

The aim is to draft one of the most comprehensive global treaties ever envisioned, ranging in scope from the limits of territorial waters and control over fishing to ocean pollution and scientific research.

But delegates from nearly every country — those with long coasts or no coasts; with long-range or short-range fishing fleets, merchant fleets or naval fleets industrialized, developing or impoverished — believe the odds are with them.

Negotiators have agreed to extend a nation's sovereignty from the traditional three miles to 12 miles, and to guarantee passage through the world's 130 or so straits — including such strategic ones as the straits of Gibraltar off Spain and Malacca, off Singapore.

They have agreed to give coastal states exclusive fishing and mining rights in an "economic zone" stretching 200 miles out to sea. The area within which almost all the world's fishing and oil drilling is done. Coastal states would be solely responsible for conserving fishstocks and allowing other nations to catch what they can't use.

Coastal nations would also be given jurisdiction over their continental shelf where it stretches out beyond 200 miles, but they would have to share profits from these margins with the international community.

The experts stress that these agreements are general and that literally hundreds of specifics need to be thrashed out in New York, and probably at subsequent sessions. But the major hurdle, they agree, is the modules.

The basic principle governing these modules is deceptively simple: the United Nations agreed in 1970 that they, and all other riches of the deep seabed, are mankind's "common heritage."

To administer these riches, the sea-law conference has proposed setting up an "International Sea-Bed Authority" complete with an executive council, a tribunal to settle disputes and its own independent source of income from the modules.

The prospect of a vast new source of copper, nickel and other minerals sent panic through developing countries whose economies depend on these metals for economic survival — especially Zambia, Zaïre, Chile and Peru — and they demanded a strong Authority with power to control prices and production.

Cash Waiting For Some Women Veterans

Married women veterans of military services, who formerly were paid a single GI Bill allowance rate while attending school, may now claim additional dependency allowances for a back period between June 1, 1966, and Oct. 24, 1972, according to Rich Lane, Veterans Administration representative.

Lane emphasized that eligible women veterans must make application to the Veterans Administration by July 1, 1976. Lane said he is available to assist all veterans and eligible dependents by calling or visiting student services at Lake Michigan college, on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, Southwestern Michigan college, Tuesday, or Andrews university, Thursday. Hours are 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

As to the retroactive benefits, Lane said benefits of up to $1,000 await many women veterans who were married and attended school under the GI Bill during the June 1, 1966 — Oct. 24, 1972, period. Lane said since Oct. 24, 1972, women veterans have been paid the same allowance as their male counterparts.

Cyclamate Study

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration, armed with a new study that gives the artificial sweetener cyclamate a 95 per cent clean bill of health, will now look again at its 1968 ban against the chemical — a suspected cancer causing agent.

The committee, which had previously released its major findings, said there was a 95 per cent probability that cyclamate, a chemical 30 to 50 times sweeter than sugar, does not cause cancer in humans.

There are probably more than a trillion tons of these potato-sized modules on the seabed at depths of two miles or more, mostly in the Pacific, and they contain enough nickel, copper, cobalt and manganese to supply an industrialized nation for generations, specialists say.

The task before the 150 delegations meeting here for the third session of the U.N. Conference on the Law of the Sea is to slice up these riches in a way acceptable to everyone. Industrialized nations are hungry to start mining with or without a treaty; developing nations fear their exports of raw materials will be undercut; the poorest nations clamor for a slice of the "common heritage."

The aim is to draft one of the most comprehensive global treaties ever envisioned, ranging in scope from the limits of territorial waters and control over fishing to ocean pollution and scientific research.

But delegates from nearly every country — those with long coasts or no coasts; with long-range or short-range fishing fleets, merchant fleets or naval fleets industrialized, developing or impoverished — believe the odds are with them.

Negotiators have agreed to extend a nation's sovereignty from the traditional three miles to 12 miles, and to guarantee passage through the world's 130 or so straits — including such strategic ones as the straits of Gibraltar off Spain and Malacca, off Singapore.

They have agreed to give coastal states exclusive fishing and mining rights in an "economic zone" stretching 200 miles out to sea. The area within which almost all the world's fishing and oil drilling is done. Coastal states would be solely responsible for conserving fishstocks and allowing other nations to catch what they can't use.

Coastal nations would also be given jurisdiction over their continental shelf where it stretches out beyond 200 miles, but they would have to share profits from these margins with the international community.

The experts stress that these agreements are general and that literally hundreds of specifics need to be threshed out in New York, and probably at subsequent sessions. But the major hurdle, they agree, is the nodule.

The basic principle governing these nodules is deceptively simple: the United Nations agreed in 1970 that they, and all other riches of the deep seabed, are mankind's "common heritage."

To administer these riches, the sea-law conference has proposed setting up an "International Sea-Bed Authority" complete with an executive council, a tribunal to settle disputes and its own independent source of income from the nodules.

The prospect of a vast new source of copper, nickel and other minerals sent panic through developing countries whose economies depend on these metals for economic survival — especially Zambia, Zaire, Chile and Peru — and they demanded a strong Authority with power to control prices and production.

Cyclamate Study

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration, armed with a new study that gives the artificial sweetener cyclamate a 95 per cent clean bill of health, will now look again at its 1969 ban against the chemical — a suspected cancer causing agent.

The committee, which had previously released its major findings, said there was a 95 per cent probability that cyclamate, a chemical 30 to 50 times sweeter than sugar, does not cause cancer in humans.

Heald Adds Garden Tiller To Its Kit Product Line

Heald, Inc., US-33, north of Benton Harbor, has added a new tiller-walking tractor to its line of all-terrain motor bikes and lawn tractors available in kit form.

President Carl F. Heald said the tiller-tractor is offered for $199.95, and assembly time is about six hours with screw drivers and wrenches. The tiller-tractor, named "Groundhog," has a wide variety of uses, in gardening, Heald said.

The four sets of 14-inch diameter slasher tines can be adjusted for cultivating rows 14 to 36 inches wide. The tines also handle heavy mulching.

The Groundhog converts to a walking tractor by removing tines and attaching optional lug tread wheels, scurrier, furrow opener and tiller, or with a blade becomes a bulldozer.

Heald originally produced an all-terrain, two-wheel motor bike when it first started production in 1969. Subsequently it added a three-wheel ATV and an eight-horsepower riding lawn tractor.

The Heald plant is located on US-33 north of Benton Harbor in Hagar township.

Two Tax Boards Get New Life

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The life of two tax appeal boards has been extended to help the Michigan Tax Tribunal cope with a large backlog of cases.

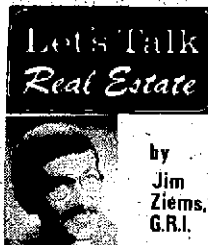

A bill signed Wednesday by Gov. William Milliken extends to Dec. 31, 1977, the existence of the Board of Tax Appeals and the Corporation Tax Appeals Board.

Under the law, the boards will handle tax appeals filed by the end of this year, and will have another year to make decisions on the cases.

Present law would have abolished the two boards by Dec. 31, and passed their responsibilities immediately to the Tax Tribunal.

But, said Milliken, "The Tax Tribunal has a backlog of approximately 3,000 small-claim cases and 1,000 general jurisdiction cases and would not be equipped to handle the cases transferred to it from the two boards."

The new law also permits an assessment appeal to be filed directly with the Tax Tribunal upon written petition within 30 days after the local board of review completes its assessment.

What constitutes value? There are many ways to define and measure it, but in simplest terms if people want it, it has value, and the more limited the supply, the greater the value. A few of the terms applied to real estate are: book value, referring to original cost plus improvements; reproduction value, referring to cost of replacement; and comparable value, relating to what similar properties are selling for. Usually all of these and more are taken into account and then tempered by the experience of an appraisal specialist.

Coloma Police Complaints Drop To 617 For '75

COLOMA — The 1975 activities report for the Coloma police force showed the department handled 617 formal complaints during 1975.

Chief Kenneth Unruh said the figure was down from the 1974 total of 804 complaints but he attributed the drop to the introduction of an "incident report" system. The incident reports eliminated filling out a formal complaint in which no arrests or investigation resulted, Unruh said.

Unruh said each incident report is assigned a number, but is not included in the official complaint tally at the end of the year. Unruh said nearly 150 incident reports were compiled in 1975.

Examples of the types of calls assigned an incident report include barking dogs, motorist assists, open doors or windows found on patrol, and assists for fire and ambulance calls.

In other areas, the annual report showed the number of traffic tickets issued during 1975 had more than doubled over 1974. In 1975, 358 tickets were issued, compared to 185 in 1974. The increase was due to the purchase of a newer type of radar gun and stricter enforcement of the speed limits inside the city limits, Unruh said.

Arrests last year totaled 117, up 25 from 1974's arrest total of 92 people. The largest percentage were in the areas of open-innocents in a motor vehicle, drunk and disorderly and drunk driving. Juvenile investigations by the force increased by eight in 1975, bringing the total to 66. In 1974, the number was 58.

Other categories included in the report (with 1974 totals in parentheses) were: property damage accidents, 101 (110); personal injury accidents, 15 (13); assists to other departments, 80 (123); and parking summons issued, 116 (240).

Congress Votes

HOUSE

Black Lung Benefits — The House, by a 216-183 vote, passed a bill that would liberalize benefits to miners suffering from black lung disease. Under the provisions of the bill any miner with over 25 years service underground was presumed to be afflicted by the disease and automatically eligible for benefits. The benefits would be awarded to miners who had completed their service prior to July 1, 1971, when coal dust standards went into effect.

Supporters of the liberalized benefits offered medical evidence showing that most miners with over 25 years service underground suffered from black lung disease. The automatic entitlement was necessary, they said, because the government denied so many claims.

Opponents said the bill amounted to a special pension for miners who would not have to prove disability to receive the benefits. That would set a bad precedent and would be inequitable to workers in other hazardous occupations, they contended.

Both the Labor Department and the Department of Health, Education and Welfare opposed the measure.

Foreign Military Aid — By a 240-169 vote, the House passed a bill authorizing $3.5 billion in foreign military aid for fiscal 1978. About 70 per cent of the amount was earmarked for nations in the Middle East.

Supporters of the bill argued that the aid level was required to assure that Israel maintains a strong defense. They also said Egypt, Jordan and Syria should receive defense-related economic assistance to influence those nations to work for peace in the Middle East.

Opponents objected to the bill's $1.8-billion increase over the 1975 fiscal year's military aid funding level of $1.6 billion. They insisted that the assistance level would cause international instability rather than peace in the Middle East and other areas of the world.

Voting for foreign military aid bill: Blanchard (D), Vander Jagt (R), O'Neill (Majority Leader), Rhodes (Minority Leader).

Paired against foreign military aid bill: Conyers (D).

Foreign Aid Restrictions — By a 229-150 vote, the House adopted an amendment to a foreign aid bill that would prohibit any aid to nations that were delinquent for more than one year in repaying debts owed the United States.

Supporters said that some of the world's leading oil producers are rich enough to invest funds in U.S. industries "but cannot seem to pay their debts" to the federal government.

Opponents countered that the amendment was "damaging and dangerous" because it would shut off assistance to Israel and Egypt among other nations. Pointing out that less than one per cent of U.S.M. foreign aid loans were delinquent, they said that the nations the U.S. is trying to help would be hurt by the proposal.

The foreign aid bill was subsequently passed 250-129.

Voting to prohibit aid to delinquent nations: Brown (R), Hutchinson (R), Vander Jagt (R).

Voting to allow aid to delinquent nations: Blanchard (D), Conyers (D), O'Neill (Majority Leader).

Not voting: Rhodes (Minority Leader).

Coloma Police Complaints Drop To 617 For '75

COLOMA — The 1975 activities report for the Coloma police force showed the department handled 617 formal complaints during 1975.

Chief Kenneth Unruh said the figure was down from the 1974 total of 804 complaints but he attributed the drop to the introduction of an "incident report" system. The incident reports eliminated filling out a formal complaint in which no arrests or investigation resulted, Unruh said.

Unruh said each incident report is assigned a number, but is not included in the official complaint tally at the end of the year. Unruh said nearly 150 incident reports were compiled in 1975.

Examples of the types of calls assigned an incident report include barking dogs, motorist assists, open doors or windows found on patrol, and assists for fire and ambulance calls.

In other areas, the annual report showed the number of traffic tickets issued during 1975 had more than doubled over 1974. In 1975, 358 tickets were issued, compared to 165 in 1974. The increase was due to the purchase of a newer type of radar gun and stricter enforcement of the speed limits inside the city limits, Unruh said.

Arrests last year totaled 117, up 25 from 1974's arrest total of 92 people. The largest percentage were in the areas of open intoxicants in a motor vehicle, drunk and disorderly and drunk driving. Juvenile investigations by the force increased by eight in 1975, bringing the total to 66. In 1974, the number was 58.

Other categories included in the report (with 1974 totals in parenthesis) were: property damage accidents, 101 (110); personal injury accidents, 15 (13); assists to other departments, 60 (123), and parking summons issued, 116 (240).

Congress Votes

HOUSE

Black Lung Benefits — The House, by a 210-183 vote, passed a bill that would liberalize benefits to miners suffering from black lung disease. Under the provisions of the bill any miner with over 25 years service underground was presumed to be afflicted by the disease and automatically eligible for benefits. The benefits would be awarded to miners who had completed their service prior to July 1, 1971, when coal dust standards went into effect. Supporters of the liberalized benefits offered medical evidence showing that most miners with over 25 years service underground suffered from black lung disease. The automatic entitlement was necessary, they said, because the government denied so many claims.

Opponents said the bill amounted to a special pension for miners who would not have to prove disability to receive the benefits. That would set a bad precedent and would be inequitable to workers in other hazardous occupations, they contended.

Both the Labor Department and the Department of Health, Education and Welfare opposed the measure.

Foreign Military Aid — By a 240-169 vote, the House passed a bill authorizing $3.5 billion in foreign military aid for fiscal 1976. About 70 per cent of the amount was earmarked for nations in the Middle East.

Supporters of the bill argued that the aid level was required to assure that Israel maintains a strong defense. They also said Egypt, Jordan and Syria should receive defense-related economic assistance to influence those nations to work for peace in the Middle East.

Opponents objected to the bill's $1.9-billion increase over the 1975 fiscal year's military aid funding level of $1.6-billion. They insisted that the assisstance level would cause international instability rather than peace in the Middle East and other areas of the world.

Voting for foreign military aid bill: Blanchard (D), Vander Jagt (R), O'Neill (Majority Leader), Rhodes (Minority Leader).

Paired against foreign military aid bill: Conyers (D).

Foreign Aid Restrictions — By a 229-130 vote, the House adopted an amendment to a foreign aid bill that would prohibit any aid to nations that were delinquent for more than one year in repaying debts owed the United States.

Supporters said that some of the world's leading oil producers are rich enough to invest funds in U.S. industries "but cannot seem to pay their debts" to the federal government.

Opponents countered that the amendment was "damaging and dangerous" because it would shut off assistance to Israel and Egypt among other nations. Pointing out that less than one per cent of U.S.M foreign aid loans were delinquent, they said that the nations the U.S. is trying to help would be hurt by the proposal.

The foreign aid bill was subsequently passed 250-129.

Voting to prohibit aid to delinquent nations: Brown (R), Hutchinson (R), Vander Jagt (R).

House Slaps Down Appeals Court Judge Pay Hikes

By MARY STEVENSON
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Arguing "the buck stops here," the House overwhelmingly refused Wednesday to put on its calendar a proposal giving appeals court judges a $4,000 pay raise. The measure was contained in a measure reported out by the House Judiciary Committee. The bill, written as a substitute for an unrelated measure, would have raised salaries of the state's 18 appeals court judges from roughly $41,960 to $46,000. The raises would have been financed by increasing filing fees and motion fees for appeals to the court.

Under legislative rules, a committee substitute for a bill must be adopted by the chamber before it can take its place on the calendar to be officially considered and voted on. Usually, adoption of these substitutes comes routinely on a voice vote. But opponents of the pay raise substitute demanded a record roll call. The House then sent the substitute to oblivion on a 70-37 vote.

Rep. Paul Rosenbaum, D-Battle Creek, chairman of the judiciary committee, had urged his colleagues to help get the judges a pay raise. But after the vote he said that as far as he's concerned the substitute and the pay raise issue are now dead. The vote on adopting the measure followed lengthy debate in which most of the speakers opposed the pay raise.

"At a time when 12.1 per cent of our people are unemployed, our civil employees are being asked to accept less than a 5 per cent raise, and there are cuts in departmental spending, this strikes me as just plain greed and smacks of very special interest legislation," said Rep. Dan Angel, R-Battle Creek, a critic of the pay raise. But Rosenbaum had said the court has a good national reputation, adding, "It's one of the smallest courts and has one of the heaviest caseloads. It's a crisis situation. They deserve a raise."

Rep. Mark Clodfelter, D-Flint, said, "I oppose the substitute, not because I don't think appeals judges deserve an increase — they're extremely hardworking. But we are facing an extremely tight fiscal year. We have to make some hard judgments." Rep. Ernest Nash, R-Dimondale, noted that in 1971 the appeals court judges received a $8,000 salary increase that brought them to $38,500, and that since then their salary had increased again to its current level.

Rep. David Bonior, D-Mount Clemens, added, "I think that the buck should stop right here." According to legislative studies, Michigan appeals court judges are presently the lowest-paid judges per case of all 22 states which have such courts.

Frank Habicht Of Buchanan Dies In Florida

BUCHANAN — Frank Habicht, 88, 362 Clark street, Buchanan, a former Clark Equipment company director and vice president, died yesterday in a Boca Raton, Fla., hospital. Habicht held a variety of positions with Clark, a Buchanan based company, including serving as a director from 1926 until 1971. He began employment with Clark in 1908 and was named vice president in charge of properties in 1926. He retired from Clark in 1932, after 44 years of service.

He was a Buchanan school board member from 1921 until 1938, and board president from 1939 until 1942. Habicht was also a member of the Southwest Michigan Boy Scout council and the Berrien county road commission.

Habicht was also on the board of directors of LaSalle Federal Savings and Loan association, Buchanan, from 1926 until 1962. Mr. Habicht was born Oct. 18, 1887, in Buffalo, N.Y. He moved to Buchanan in 1908 and married the former Winifred Morley in 1912.

Surviving, besides his wife, are a daughter, Jane Todhunter, Winnetka, Ill.; three sons, William, Glastonbury, Conn., Robert, Buchanan, and Richard, Farmington; four brothers, Edward, Emil, and William, all of New York state, and George, Stuart, Fla.; a sister, Mrs. Violet McCarthy, New York state; 15 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Crematory services were held in Florida. A memorial service will be held at 2 p.m. Saturday at the First Presbyterian church, Buchanan. Rev. Keith Moon will officiate.

The family has requested that memorials be donated to the Southwest Michigan Boy Scout council.

FRANK HABICHT

Annex Request Granted

LANSING — The state boundary commission yesterday approved the annexation of about one-third acre of land to Watervliet city from Watervliet township.

The annexation had been sought by owners of the land, Dorothy Betz, Junior Paulk and Lola Paulk.

The land, previously partly in the city and partly in the township, is a small lot at the end of East Division street. There is one house on the land.

Commission officials in approving the annexation petition, said they could see no health or public reasons to ignore the wish of the petitioners.

It's News TODAY

Protest Rotary's Nominee

CHICAGO (AP) — Rotary International has nominated as its next president an Austrian ex-Nazi despite protests against the move from Dutch Rotarians, an official of the worldwide service organization says. Dr. Wolfgang Wick, vice chairman of the board of directors of the Austro-American Magazine Co. in Rudenhein, Austria, was the sole candidate picked earlier this year by an 11-member Rotary nominating committee. Simon Wiesenthal, an Austrian Jew who since the end of World War II has made a career of hunting ex-Nazis-in-hiding, said Wick held an important economic post from 1938 until early 1945 in Austria. Wiesenthal said Wick became a Nazi member in 1933, five years before the German occupation of Austria, and in February 1943 was called into the Waffen SS, the Nazi elite army corps, because of his position.

Jobs For Grads Slow

WASHINGTON (AP) — The job market for this year's male college graduate is bleaker than it was for last year's but the picture is brighter for women expecting degrees, college placement services report. Reports from 159 colleges and universities, compared with March 1975, show job offers over-all are down 16 per cent for bachelor's degree candidates, 25 per cent for master's candidates and 42 per cent for doctoral students, the College Placement Council said Wednesday. The brightest spot in the survey was an increased demand for female graduates on the job market, although women represent only 16 per cent of all new job takers at the bachelor's level and 15 per cent at the master's level.

Leakers Are 'Big Shots'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Richard M. Nixon does not regard all people who leak state secrets as disloyal. Sometimes, he says, they just want to show they're big shots. And, in the former president's view, some senators and congressmen "have almost an obsession about leaking information." Their thinking, he says, is that leaks make them newsmakers. Nixon expounded on leaks and how to stop them during seven hours of sworn testimony he gave in lawyers for Morton Halperin, a one-time national security aide whose telephone was tapped for 21 months.

Historic Site Bill Passes

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A bill to permit the state to acquire and maintain historic sites has won approval in the Michigan Senate. The bill, passed 27-0 Wednesday and sent to the House, would permit the secretary of state to accept gifts of historic sites, or cash to maintain them. Any money received as a gift under the bill would be placed in a "state historic site fund" to acquire and maintain historic sites. The measure already has passed both chambers in different forms. The form approved Wednesday is the product of a House-Senate conference committee, which adopted the Senate version.

EMU Won't Ask Injunction

YPSILANTI, Mich. (AP) — Eastern Michigan University has temporarily shelved plans to seek an injunction that would halt a week-old strike by 550 workers, a school spokesman says. A Wayne Douglas, personnel director, said Wednesday the option to seek an injunction remains open. "But we think (the dispute) should be settled at the bargaining table." The workers, represented by two United Auto Workers union locals, walked off last week after rejecting a contract offer from the school. The strikers include clerical and maintenance workers.

Trooper 'Slowdown' Blamed

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan State Police Director George Halverson acknowledged Tuesday that a 40 per cent reduction in traffic citations issued this January was partly due to a work slowdown by protesting state troopers. "There was evidence that patrol activity in some areas of the state was decelerated," said Halverson. "Where this happened, we dealt with the problem and took steps to bring performance back to normal." Arrests for January totalled 14,722, down 9,735 from the 23,458 tickets and arrests in January 1975. Troopers were believed to be issuing fewer tickets to motorists to protest their pay scale, which is lower than salaries paid to police in many Michigan communities.

DETROIT (AP) — Eight more young people were arrested Wednesday at Denby High School in a police crackdown following several days of racial flareups, police said. Despite the arrests, the school appeared quiet. Classes ended at noon for parent-teacher planning conferences which officials said had been scheduled before the troubles began. Police said four persons were arrested for possession of alcoholic beverages in the school parking lot. One was arrested for creating an improper diversion, two for carrying knife blades and one for carrying a knife. Attendance appeared to be about 60 per cent, according to Principal Richard Reid.

In a statement, the bank said "a group of local businessmen" put up the extra dollar-a-share needed to match the Cole offer.

House Slaps Down Appeals Court Judge Pay Hikes

By MARY STEVENSON
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Arguing "the buck stops here," the House overwhelmingly refused Wednesday to put on its calendar a proposal giving appeals court judges a $4,000. The pay raise issue was contained in a measure reported out by the House Judiciary Committee. The bill, written as a substitute for an unrelated measure, would have raised salaries of the state's 18 appeals court judges from roughly $41,960 to $46,000. The raises would have been financed by increasing filing fees and motion fees for appeals to the court.

Under legislative rules, a committee substitute for a bill must be adopted by the chamber before it can take its place on the calendar to be officially considered and voted on. Usually, adoption of these substitutes comes routinely on a voice vote. But opponents of the pay raise substitute demanded a record roll call. The House then sent the substitute to oblivion on a 70-37 vote.

Rep. Paul Rosenbaum, D-Battle Creek, chairman of the judiciary committee, had urged his colleagues to help get the judges a pay raise. But after the vote he said that as far as he's concerned the substitute and the pay raise issue are now dead. The vote on adopting the measure followed lengthy debate in which most of the speakers opposed the pay raise.

"At a time when 12.1 per cent of our people are unemployed, our civil employees are being asked to accept less than a 5 per cent raise, and there are cuts in departmental spending, this strikes me as just plain greed and smacks of very special interest legislation," said Rep. Dan Angel, R-Battle Creek, a critic of the pay raise. But Rosenbaum had said the court has a good national reputation, adding, "It's one of the smallest courts and has one of the heaviest caseloads. It's a crisis situation. They deserve a raise."

Rep. Mark Clodfelter, D-Flint, said, "I oppose the substitute, not because I don't think appeals judges deserve an increase — they're extremely hardworking. But we are facing an extremely tight fiscal year. We have to make some hard judgments." Rep. Ernest Nash, R-Dimondale, noted that in 1971 the appeals court judges received a $6,000 salary increase that brought them to $39,500, and that since then their salary had increased again to its current level.

Rep. David Bonior, D-Mount Clemens, added, "I think that the buck should stop right here." According to legislative studies, Michigan appeals court judges are presently the lowest paid judges per case of all 22 states which have such courts.

BH Dental Clinic Will 'Phase Out'

among the "working poor" but do not qualify for Medicaid coverage.

"We took inventory two weeks ago and found more than 1,000 in the township alone that were within OEO poverty guidelines who we had to drop from our program because they were above Medicaid limits," he said.

Dr. Taylor said this is the group that he feels needs to be reached and that he hopes to do so with $125,000 in Community Development funds approved for Benton Harbor and Benton township and earmarked for the dental clinic. He has asked the Benton Harbor school system to become the "umbrella" agency so the clinic can be continued.

Erickson said the health department is encouraging Benton Harbor and Benton township to explore other means of using the Community Development funds for dental care, including the Delta Dental Corporation of Lansing, a private organization that administers payments for dental treatment.

Under this system, proposed charges by private dentists would first be approved by Delta Dental, which then would pay the bills once they are submitted.

Dr. Taylor said this system would give dentists a "blank check" to provide expensive treatment above the normal range of a poverty program.

Erickson said the clinic budget now is in the neighborhood of $100,000, which includes a $30,000 salary for Dr. Taylor, salaries for five other employees — a dental hygienist, dental assistant, coordinator, secretary and aide — fringe benefits, and supplies.

The clinic originally was started with federal funds provided through the Benton Harbor school system. Later Model Cities funds supported it, and for the past year it has been completely funded by federal Medicaid payments.

It's News TODAY

Protest Rotary's Nominee

CHICAGO (AP) — Rotary International has nominated as its next president an Austrian ex-Nazi despite protests against the move from Dutch Rotarians, an official of the worldwide service organization says. Dr. Wolfgang Wick, vice chairman of the board of directors of the Austro-American Magensite Co. in Radentheim, Austria, was the sole candidate picked earlier this year by an 11-member Rotary nominating committee. Simon Wiesenthal, an Austrian Jew who since the end of World War II has made a career of hunting ex-Nazis-in-hiding, said Wick held an important economic post from 1938 until early 1945 in Austria. Wiesenthal said Wick became a Nazi member in 1933, five years before the German occupation of Austria, and in February 1945 was called into the Waffen SS, the Nazi elite army corps, because of his position.

Jobs For Grads Slow

WASHINGTON (AP) — The job market for this year's male college graduate is bleaker than it was for last year's but the picture is brighter for women expecting degrees, college placement services report. Reports from 159 colleges and universities, compared with March 1975, show job offers over-all are down 16 per cent for bachelor's degree candidates, 25 per cent for master's candidates and 32 per cent for doctoral students, the College Placement Council said Wednesday. The brightest spot in the survey was an increased demand for female graduates on the job market, although women represent only 16 per cent of all new job takers at the bachelor's level and 15 per cent at the master's level.

Leakers Are 'Big Shots'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Richard M. Nixon does not regard all people who leak state secrets as disloyal. Sometimes, he says, they just want to show they're big shots. And, in the former president's view, some senators and congressmen "have almost an obsession about leaking information." Their thinking, he says, is that leaks make them newsmakers. Nixon expounded on leaks and how to stop them during seven hours of sworn testimony he gave to lawyers for Morton Halperin, a one-time national security aide whose telephone was tapped for 21 months.

Historic Site Bill Passes

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A bill to permit the state to acquire and maintain historic sites has won approval in the Michigan Senate. The bill, passed 27-0 Wednesday and sent to the House, would permit the secretary of state to accept gifts of historic sites, or cash to maintain them. Any money received as a gift under the bill would be placed in a "state historic site fund" to acquire and maintain historic sites. The measure already has passed both chambers in different forms. The form approved Wednesday is the product of a House-Senate conference committee, which adopted the Senate version.

EMU Won't Ask Injunction

YPSILANTI, Mich. (AP) — Eastern Michigan University has temporarily shelved plans to seek an injunction that would halt a week-old strike by 550 workers, a school spokesman says. A Wayne Douglas, personnel director, said Wednesday the option to seek an injunction remains open. "But we think (the dispute) should be settled at the bargaining table." The workers, represented by two United Auto Workers union locals, walked off last week after rejecting a contract offer from the school. The strikers include clerical and maintenance workers.

Businessmen Will Battle Phone Hike

By DENNIS COGSWELL
Paw Paw Bureau

PAW PAW — A group of local businessmen here are calling for a modern day Bicentennial mini-revolution against what they see as an unfair rate hike being sought by the General Telephone company. "We're trying to duplicate the same strength that made us free 200 years ago by fighting these oppressive rate hikes," said Ted Plaszcak, who is among the leaders of a "Freedom Caravan" of cars which plans to depart from the county courthouse next Tuesday for a rate hearing in Lansing.

General Telephone is seeking a $10.2 million increase from the state Public Service commission (PSC) on top of a $0.9 million rate hike granted last August.

Telephone company officials have said the rate increases are necessary to provide for growth, improve services and to attract new investors.

Plaszcak, who is executive vice president of the Paw Paw Chamber of Commerce, said the caravan will be kind of like an old time wagon train, and that a local auto dealer has agreed to supply cars for transportation.

He said anyone interested is welcome to join the tour, and that the entourage will stop in towns along the way in Lansing to demonstrate against the hike.

According to Plaszcak and G.R. Marcelletti, Chamber of Commerce president, General Telephone has been receiving all the benefits that derive from being a public utility, but still expects to make the same profit rate of a private corporation.

On top of that, they said, service has generally been poor, yet the public has no choice to turn to another phone company.

"It seems that the little villages and hamlets are the last to receive services and among the first to feel the costs," Plaszcak commented. "They (General Telephone) ask you to persevere because they're a small company but when it comes to billing they're damn big."

Plaszcak said communications he has received from the utility indicate that one of the main reasons for the rate hike request is that the company is not making an 8.89 per cent profit rate set by the PSC.

Yet, many private businesses do not begin to make that kind of profit, he said, and don't have the special benefits General Telephone gets as a public utility.

Marcelletti said that up until recently, most small businesses operated on a four to five per cent profit margin, which has been cut to one to two per cent by inflation and recession. A raise in rates to them, he said, could be catastrophic.

They also questioned what is an apparent large disparity between rates charged by General Telephone and the Michigan Bell system. They note that in Paw Paw, two business pushbutton phones cost $80.10 per month under General Telephone, and that the utility is asking about a $14 per month increase.

The same lines in the neighboring communities of Vicksburg, Richland, Plainwell, and Galesburg, which are comparable to Paw Paw in size but served by Michigan Bell, cost $40.49 per month, according to a company spokesman.

According to Charles E. MacDonald, Van Buren county clerk, the county paid a basic service charge on phones last year of $13.75. For the first two months of this year the total has already been $1,214, MacDonald said. Extrapolating that over the remainder of the year, he said, the bill would be some $25,282, or almost a 100 per cent increase.

MacDonald noted that to put in a simple extension costs $24, plus a $2 per month service charge. He said the county also pays $7.93 per month to have its offices listed in the South Haven directory, and $3 per month for the Paw Paw directory on top of the service charge.

"If something doesn't change, we may have to take out most of the phones and start writing letters instead of calling," he said.

MacDonald said the above figures do not include money budgeted to individual departments for long distance calls. He added that in the past as much as $130 per month has been improperly billed to the county by General Telephone for calls the county officers did not make.

"If someone came in from General Telephone and I told them a birth certificate was $7.50 but that it used to be $2 they wouldn't stand for it," he said. "I look at it the same way."

Nuclear Plant Annexation Denied

By AL AREND
Staff Writer

LANSING — The state boundary commission yesterday unanimously denied Bridgman's controversial request to annex the $800 million Cook nuclear plant site and other land from Lake township. The decision was made at an adjudicative hearing at the branch office of the state treasury department here. The hearing lasted one hour.

Following the hearing Atty. Ronald Marchione of St. Joseph, who represented Bridgman, said he was "naturally disappointed" with the decision, but felt "no dissatisfaction with the effort each commissioner made in reviewing the facts of the case."

Atty. Marchione said he would review the decision with the city commission, before it is decided if an appeal would be made through the courts. He said a similar case is now pending before the state Supreme court involving Midland and Midland township. Marchione said the court's decision on the Midland case "will have a lot to do with whether or not we'll (Bridgman city) proceed with an appeal."

Making the motion to deny the request was Oscar Weidner, of Royalton township, one of the two Berrien county representatives on the commission. Supporting the motion was Max Petzke, St. Joseph, the second county representative. The denial motion was approved unanimously 5 to 0.

Other commissioners were David Calhoun, Huntington Woods, chairman; Irving Rozian, Plymouth; and Al VanderLaan, Caledonia.

The city in February, 1975, announced its intention to annex approximately two square miles of township land to the north of the city and west of I-94, including most of the Cook nuclear plant site.

The city said it needed the additional land and tax base to meet its financial needs. Township officials labelled the move a "tax grab" and carried objections to the boundary commission.

Property tax income is determined by the taxable value of property within a community and the addition of the Cook plant would have increased the city's tax base by about $121 million. The other area involved in the annexation would have added another $27 million.

The boundary commission said the total involved amounted to just over 90 per cent of the township's tax base.

Chairman Calhoun told those present at yesterday's hearing, that all members of the commission plus the commission's administrative staff had spent "many hours reviewing the 280-page transcript from the public hearings" on the annexation proposal.

Rozian said, following a complete review of the facts presented, "it appears the city (Bridgman) is not in a financial crisis at present...it still has taxing and bonding power it hasn't used, plus some land for industrial expansion."

Rozian said "...that although the petition was put forth in good faith, I feel insufficient evidence has been brought forth to approve annexation."

Calhoun said if the city chose to dissolve by vacation of its city charter, passage of two separate votes would be required. He said first, two-thirds of registered voters in the city would have to approve it and second, a majority of the registered voters in the township would have to approve it, both units voting independently.

Bridgman officials had said earlier that if they could not annex the tract, that they might have to consider dissolving the city.

In denying the city's petition, the commission issued a warning to Lake township saying cooperation between the two units and the county should be sought. The commission felt the county planning commission could help play an important role in the future co-existence of both units.

Rozian also warned the township of "exorbitant use of its financial resource (Cook plant)" saying the city is the center of the area's commerce, schools, and social activities, and for the township to destroy or compete with it, "would be a terrible loss of social progress."

Rozian said that more and more legislation is moving toward the "joint sharing of industrial wealth" among units of government; utilities may be going to the legislature for property tax relief; and there's a strong movement against the use of nuclear power plants.

Weidner and Petzke both urged Bridgman and Lake township to make every effort to cooperate in future ventures.

"Both units should have agreed on a combined solution to water needs a long time ago, for example," Weidner said.

Calhoun urged Lake township "to move a little more slowly...get a good solid growth in all directions."

Robert Terry, criteria analyst for the commission, said "It's easy for Lake township to sit back and do what they want..." due to its huge tax base, "but cooperation between both units is of prime importance."

Attending yesterday's adjudicative hearing besides Atty. Marchione, were several members of the Bridgman city commission, plus Atty. John Speelman, representing Lake township, Wade Shaler, township supervisor, and Elsie Fleck, township clerk.

Miss Blossomtime Pageant Tickets Will Go On Sale March 23

Tickets for the 44th Miss Blossomtime pageant will go on sale at 9 a.m. Tuesday, March 23, at Blossomtime, Inc., office, 311 Calfax avenue, Benton Harbor. The pageant will be at 8 p.m. Monday, March 29, in Lakeshore high school auditorium and will be based on the Bicentennial theme, "Our American Heritage." Blossomtime officials reported that because of the limited seating capacity of the auditorium, no more than four tickets will be sold to each person. All seats are reserved and all tickets are $5.

VI Shafer, pageant coordinator, said the 1976 Miss Blossomtime will be selected from among 30 contestants, representing communities in four counties: Berrien, Van Buren, Cass, and St. Joseph. New queen and her court will preside over all Blossomtime festivities. The last five community contests will be this coming weekend, including Bangor, Blumingtondale, and Lawton on Saturday, and Covert and Gailen on Sunday. Some 800 girls entered community queen contests.

Coloma 4-H Riders Will Trace Marquette's Path

COLOMA — In an adventure that some youngsters can only dream about, 13 4-H club members from Coloma are planning to make a 300-mile horseback ride in June as part of the nation's Bicentennial celebration.

The Clever Clovers 4-H club members, ages 13 to 16, their leaders and chaperones, plan to retrace the paths of 17th century explorers Father Jacques Marquette and Robert Cavelier, Sieur de LaSalle, from the straits of Mackinac to St. Joseph.

The horseback caravan will leave Mackinaw City on June 21. Plans are to arrive in St. Joseph 10 days later, according to Robert Martin of Coloma. He is the club's horse division leader.

The group will drive to Mackinaw City and stay in state parks on the return trip.

Martin said the riders will be easy to spot. They will be dressed in red, white and blue clothing.

Club members planning to participate are Vicki Walter, Nancy Scherer, Angel Bertuca, Dawn Dwyer, Lorrie McKinney, Steve Purrgin, Darnel Brown, Beth LaValley, Renee LaValley, Bob Martin, George Multer, Larry Devens, and Ronda Watkins. They will be accompanied by Robert Martin, Mrs. Rick (Joy) Martin, sister-in-law of Robert, and Voyde (Mac) McKinney.

Father Marquette founded the first permanent settlement in Michigan in 1660 at Sault St. Marie. He also established a mission at St. Ignace and explored up and down the shore of Lake Michigan before he died at Ladington.

LaSalle led an expedition from St. Ignace, along the coast of Lake Michigan to the mouth of the St. Joseph river. There in 1679, LaSalle built Fort Miami on the site of what is now St. Joseph.

Sewer Given Tentative OK

By SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

The Berrien county board of public works (BPW) yesterday tentatively awarded all but one contract for construction of a $20 million sewer system to serve the City of New Buffalo and parts of Chikaming and New Buffalo townships.

The final awarding of the contracts is contingent upon sale of bonds, approval from state and federal agencies, and the expected approval of the local municipalities, according to BPW Director Robert Barnes.

Scheduled for construction are a sewage treatment plant in New Buffalo township to serve the entire Galien River Sanitary district, an interceptor from the city to the plant, collection systems in each township, rehabilitation of the city's existing collection system, and a partial new collection system for the city.

The board tentatively awarded contracts for all phases of construction except the Chikaming township collection system. Barnes explained the apparent low bidder for the Chikaming project had bid on four phases as one lump project, but qualified the bid saying the amount would hold only if the contractor, Woodruff and Sons, of Michigan City, was awarded all four.

Barnes said Woodruff's bid was rejected because it had been qualified, and the other bids for the Chikaming system were rejected because all were in excess of the engineers' estimate of $5 million. The lowest of the remaining bids was $9.7 million.

The BPW hopes to have new bids on the Chikaming system within 30 days, Barnes added.

The bids which the BPW accepted for each phase of the entire system were: treatment plant, $5.4 million; city interceptor, $923,257; New Buffalo township collection system, $2.09 million; New Buffalo collection system, $496,269; and internal work for the rehabilitation, $20,999 and external work, $38,075.

Barnes said the BPW hopes construction can begin in June, with the entire system completed in about two years. He added the system should receive a federal grant in excess of $11 million and a state grant of some $750,000, with the local units selling bonds to pay the rest. The BPW hopes bonds will be sold in May.

The sewer system will serve all of New Buffalo city, the northern part of New Buffalo township, and generally a portion of Chikaming township west of I-94.

Businessmen Will Battle Phone Hike

Paw Paw Bureau

PAW PAW — A group of local businessmen here are calling for a modern day Bicentennial mini-revolution against what they see as an unfair rate hike being sought by the General Telephone company. "We're trying to duplicate the same strength that made us free 200 years ago by fighting these oppressive rate hikes," said Ted Plaszczak, who is among the leaders of a "Freedom Caravan" of cars which plans to depart from the county courthouse next Tuesday for a rate hearing in Lansing.

General Telephone is seeking a $10.2 million increase from the state Public Service commission (PSC) on top of a $9.9 million rate hike granted last August.

Telephone company officials have said the rate increases are necessary to provide for growth, improve services and to attract new investors.

Plaszczak, who is executive vice president of the Paw Paw Chamber of Commerce, said the caravan will be kind of like an old time wagon train, and that a local auto dealer has agreed to supply cars for transportation.

He said anyone interested is welcome to join the tour, and that the entourage will stop in towns along the way to Lansing to demonstrate against the hike.

According to Plaszczak and G.R. Marcelletti, Chamber of Commerce president, General Telephone has been receiving all the benefits that derive from being a public utility, but still expects to make the same profit rate of a private corporation.

On top of that, they said, service has generally been poor, yet the public has no choice to turn to another phone company.

"It seems that the little villages and hamlets are the last to receive services and among the first to feel the costs," Plaszczak commented. "They (General Telephone) ask you to persevere because they're a small company but when it comes to billing they're damn big."

Plaszczak said communications he has received from the utility indicate that one of the main reasons for the rate hike request is that the company is not making an 8.89 per cent profit rate set by the PSC.

months of this year the total has already been $4,214, MacDonald said. Prorating that over the remainder of the year, he said, the bill would be some $25,282, or almost a 100 per cent increase.

MacDonald noted that to put in a simple extension costs $24, plus a $2 per month service charge. He said the county also pays $7.95 per month to have its offices listed in the South Haven directory, and $3 per month for the Paw Paw directory on top of the service charge.

Sewer Given Tentative OK

The Berrien county board of public works (BPW) yesterday tentatively awarded all but one contract for construction of a $20 million sewer system to serve the City of New Buffalo and parts of Chikaming and New Buffalo townships.

The final awarding of the contracts is contingent upon sale of bonds, approval from state and federal agencies, and the expected approval of the local municipalities, according to BPW Director Robert Barnes.

Scheduled for construction are a sewage treatment plant in New Buffalo township to serve the entire Galien River Sanitary district, an interceptor from the city to the plant, collection systems in each township, rehabilitation of the city's existing collection system, and a partial new collection system for the city.

The board tentatively awarded contracts for all phases of construction except the Chikaming township collection system. Barnes explained the apparent low bidder for the Chikaming project had bid on four phases as one lump project, but qualified the bid saying the amount would hold only if the contractor, Woodruff and Sons, of Michigan City, was awarded collection system, $406,269; and internal work for the rehabilitation, $20,999 and external work, $38,975.

Barnes said the BPW hopes construction can begin in June, with the entire system completed in about two years. He added the system should receive a federal grant in excess of $11 million and a state grant of some $750,000, with the local units selling bonds to pay the rest. # Galien Edges Concord, Reaches Regional Finals

Gaels Practice Art Of Survival

By JERRY DYKSTRA
Staff Sports Writer

STURGIS — Galien practiced the art of survival here Wednesday night to keep alive in the state basketball tournament.

The Gaels endured some long-range bombardment and then a wild last-second salvo to squeak past Concord 67-65 in the Class D regional.

night.

The Gaels of coach Mike Heckathorn almost let victory slip through their fingers Wednesday after they had a seemingly safe 67-65 lead with time rapidly running out.

Concord's Marty Thompson was fouled with five seconds to go and connected on the first of a one-and-one situation. He then deliberately missed the second shot, hitting the front of the rim to set up a possible three-point tying play.

The strategy almost worked, as Mike Jurasek picked up a loose ball in traffic and hit a short jumper as the gun sounded. Concord coach Al Widner barged onto the floor screaming for a foul on the play, but no foul was called and the Gaels had their ticket to the finals.

"Wow!" exclaimed Heckathorn after the thrilling win. "That could have been overtime. But you have to get some breaks if you want to stay alive in the tournaments."

"We're just pleased to be able to play Friday night in the finals. We hope to do our bit to be a good representative for southwestern Michigan."

Galien, now 20-3 and unbeaten in Class D competition, put together a balanced offense to counter the 27-point outburst by Concord's Jurasek. Dale Luther dumped in 20 points, Don Kooy 18, Rick Busher 15 and Rick Kuntz 14, a season-high total.

Kuntz was particularly strong in the middle against the smaller but speedier Yellow Jackets. He also took down 11 rebounds to help the Gaels to a 37-27 board margin.

Kooy, Galien's all-state candidate, was battling the flu bug but still turned in solid work as he added nine rebounds. Kooy became the second leading scorer in Tud Arrow history with his 1,116 career points only surpassed by Ray Bowerman's 1,241.

The mud bombing Yellow Jackets, who had a crazy urge to lose up shots in the 20 to 25 foot range, had Wall Nov with 12 points and Thompson and Terry Baker with 10 apiece to support Jurasek's 27. But Concord, which was averaging 74 points a game, was hurt when leading rebounder (11 at the time) Jeff Barton fouled out with 1:42 left in the third period.

The Gaels led 20-14 after the initial period and 36-33 at the half but Concord, hitting its first four shot of the third period, carved a 51-49 edge going into the finale.

Galien showed plenty of character as it made up a four-point deficit with 5:00 left in the game. Kuntz, who was seven of 11 afield, put the Gaels ahead to stay at 61-59 on a lay up with 3:21 to go.

Galien clung to the lead until the final gun with Luther capping three free throws in the last 47 seconds, the last two with 26 ticks remaining.

A faulty five of 19 performance in the third period kept the Gaels from cracking the 50 per cent shooting barrier. Galien ended with 28 of 63 for a respectable 44 per cent and added nine of 17 in free throw gumming.

Concord, which only came up with four lay ups all night, could only sink 27 of 78 (13 more shots than Galien) for 36 per cent. Jurasek, the top vote getter on the all-Big Eight conference team, needed 23 shots for his 10 field goals. The Yellow Jackets meshed 12 of 18 foul shots.

Concord, which bows out at 18-6, made only 10 floor errors but five came in the last period. Galien finished with 16, only six in the last half.

Heckathorn, who witnessed the Mendon-Schoenherf game Tuesday, hopes the Gaels can improve their board play against bigger Mendon.

"I thought our play was spotty tonight. . . we really didn't challenge enough on the offensive and defensive boards."

"We'll have our hands full Friday. Mendon is big and physical. And guard Dan Kennedy is just an excellent player."

Michigan State's Terry Furlow Named To Third Team

NEW YORK (AP) — Indiana's Scott May and Notre Dame's Adrian Dantley, two of the country's gold-plated forwards, were named to the 1976 Associated Press All-American basketball team today.

Joining the frontcourt stars on the first team are May's teammate at Indiana, center Kent Benson; Phil Sellers, the brilliant Rutgers swimmer, and Maryland guard John Lucas.

May, a 6-foot-7 senior, and Dantley, a 6-5 junior, were selected for the second straight year. The 6-4 Lucas was a second-team selection last season, while the 6-5 Sellers was on the third team and 6-11 Benson made honorable mention.

With 380 votes from the nation's sports writers and broadcasters, May was the high scorer on this year's team — nusing out Dantley by four. Behind Dantley's 378 were Lucas with 288, Sellers with 272 and Benson with 238.

The first team was a clear-cut choice above the AP's second team which included: forwards Richard Washington of UCLA and Mitch Kupchak of North Carolina, center Robert Parish of Centenary and guards Phil Ford of North Carolina and Ron Lee of Oregon.

On the third team were, forwards Bernard King of Tennessee, Terry Furlow of Michigan State, Kenny Carr of North Carolina State, center Leon Douglas of Alabama and guard-forward Earl Tatum of Marquette.

May and Dantley are the premier players from this year's college crop, according to pro observers.

Scouts describe the slick Indiana forward as "the complete player . . . a clutch shooter . . . a hard worker at both ends of the court." May scored close to 24 points a game while leading the Hoosiers to the Big Ten championship and an undefeated regular season.

Dantley, who applied as a hardship case for the pros but withdrew at the last minute last year, scored close to 28 points a game for the Irish. "Dantley can score from inside or outside," said a pro scout. "He's another Elgin Baylor . . . an excellent offensive rebounder."

Benson was described as a "self-sacrificing, tremendously hard-working player." A supreme intimidator under the basket, the 235-pounder collected nine rebounds and 17 points a game. He had a high of 38 points against Michigan this season and came up with a basketful of game-saving plays for the Indiana team.

Lucas, a perfect pro-size guard, is the all-time Maryland scoring leader with an average that has hovered near the 20 mark since his sophomore season. According to pro observers, Lucas is "a great playmaker and shooter . . . the top guard in the country . . . exceptionally quick and a great penetrator."

Sellers was the heart of Rutgers' unbeaten season. A high-powered scoring machine in his earlier years, he became an all-around floor leader this season — averaging 20 points, 10 rebounds and a fistful of assists a game. He was known, especially, for his court savvy.

Ali May Fight In Freedom Hall

LOUISVILLE (AP) — Muhammad Ali may have to take on the Alhman Brothers before he tackles Jimmy Young in a heavyweight title fight here April 30, the night before the 102nd Kentucky Derby.

Louisville promoter William H. King says that he has cleared most of the obstacles to an Alhman Young title fight here on Derby eve, but doesn't have rights to 17,000-seat Freedom Hall. "Those rights belong to the Derby Festival Committee, which plans to stage an Alhman Brothers concert in the arena on April 30."

"The big catch now is getting Freedom Hall released," said King, who has been negotiating with Ali's backers to stage one of his last fights in his hometown. "We've asked them to move the concert to Fairgrounds Stadium, which is adjacent to Freedom Hall. We just can't take a chance with a rainout of a nationally televised event."

"We would be very pleased and happy to have the fight in Louisville during Derby Week," said Jack Guthrie, executive vice president of the Derby Festival Committee.

Guthrie suggested that King and Ali's backers look into the possibility of staging the fight on May 1.

Broncos Top Honor Squad

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Western Michigan dominates the coaches' Mid-American all-star picks just as it did the conference's basketball race this winter.

The Broncos claimed three of the six spots on the first unit with the choice of seniors Jeff Tyson and Paul Griffin and junior Tim Cutler.

Western Michigan won its first outright MAC crown by registering 15 conference victories and posting the best-ever overall record (24-2) by a league team.

The unanimous selection of the 10 coaches was Northern Illinois junior Matt Hicks, whose 25-point and 12.8-rebound averages paced the league.

Hicks, a 6-foot-4 forward, was named on nine coaches' ballots. Coaches were not permitted to vote for members of their own teams.

Tyson, a 6-3 forward who averaged 17.6 points, seventh in the league, was the runner-up in the voting. He was named on eight ballots. Tyson moves up from the second team in 1975.

Other first-team selections were Larry Cole of Toledo, the only first unit pick for two straight seasons, and Chuck Goodyear of runner-up Miami.

Cutler and Griffin tied for the fifth spot in the balloting, forcing a six-man first team.

Named to the No. 2 unit were Mike Larson and Dave Spelcher of Toledo, Archie Aldridge and John Shumaker of Miami, Scott Love of Ohio University, Tommy Harris of Bowling Green and Kent State's Jim Collins.

Galien Edges Concord, Reaches Regional Finals

Gaels Practice Art Of Survival

By JERRY DYKSTRA
Staff Sports Writer

STURGIS — Galien practiced the art of survival here Wednesday night to keep alive in the state basketball tournament.

The Gaels endured some long-range bombardment and then a wild last-second salvo to squeak past Concord 67-66 in the Class D regional.

night.

The Gaels of coach Mike Heckathorn almost let victory slip through their fingers Wednesday after they had a seemingly safe 67-63 lead with time rapidly running out.

Concord's Marty Thompson was fouled with five seconds to go and connected on the first of a one-and-one situation. He then deliberately missed the second shot, hitting the front of the rim to set up a possible three-point tying play.

The strategy almost worked, as Mike Jurasek picked up a loose ball in traffic and hit a short jumper as the gun sounded. Concord coach Al Widner barged onto the floor screaming for a foul on the play, but no foul was called and the Gaels had their ticket to the finals.

"Wow!" exclaimed Heckathorn after the thrilling windup. "That could have been overtime. But you have to get some breaks if you want to stay alive in the tournaments."

"We're just pleased to be able to play Friday night in the finals. We hope to do our bit to be a good representative for southwestern Michigan."

Galien, now 20-3 and unbeaten in Class D competition, put together a balanced offense to counter the 27-point outburst by Concord's Jurasek. Dale Luther dumped in 20 points, Don Kooy 16, Rick Busher 15 and Rick Kuntz 14, a season-high total.

Kuntz was particularly strong in the middle against the smaller but speedier Yellow Jacket. He also took down 11 rebounds to help the Gaels to a 37-27 board margin.

Kooy, Galien's all-state candidate, was battling the flu bug but still turned in solid work as he added nine rebounds. Kooy became the second leading scorer in Red Arrow history with his 1,116 career points only surpassed by Ray Bowerman's 1,234.

The mad bombing Yellow Jackets, who had a crazy urge to toss up shots in the 20 to 25 foot range, had Walt Nev with 25 points and Thompson and Terry Baker with 10 apiece to support Jurasek's 27. But Concord, which was averaging 74 points a game, was hurt when leading rebounder (11 at the time) Jeff Barton fouled out with 1:42 left in the third period.

The Gaels led 20-14 after the initial period and 36-33 at the half but Concord, hitting its first four shot of the third period, carved a 51-49 edge going into the finale.

Galien showed plenty of character as it made up a four-point deficit with 5:00 left in the game. Kuntz, who was seven of 11 afield, put the Gaels ahead to stay at 61-59 on a lay up with 3:21 to go.

Galien clung to the lead until the final gun with Luther canning three free throws in the last 47 seconds, the last two with 26 ticks remaining.

A faulty five of 19 performance in the third period kept the Gaels from cracking the 50 per cent shooting barrier. Galien ended with 29 of 63 for a respectable 46 per cent and added nine of 17 in free throw gunning.

Concord, which only came up with four lay ups all night, could only sink 27 of 76 (13 more shots than Galien) for 36 per cent. Jurasek, the top vote getter on the all-Big Eight conference team, needed 23 shots for his 10 field goals. The Yellow Jackets meshed 12 of 18 foul shots.

Concord, which bows out at 18-6, made only 10 floor errors but five came in the last period. Galien finished with 16, only six in the last half.

Heckathorn, who witnessed the Mendon-Schoolcraft game Tuesday, hopes the Gaels can improve their board play against bigger Mendon.

"I thought our play was spotty tonight... we really didn't challenge enough on the offensive and defensive boards."

Ali May Fight In Freedom Hall

LOUISVILLE (AP) — Muhammad Ali may have to take on the Allman Brothers before he tackles Jimmy Young in a heavyweight title fight here April 30, the night before the 102nd Kentucky Derby.

Everett's Star Nets 50 As Niles Loses 'Magic' Makes Vikes Disappear

By JACK WALKDEN
Staff Sports Writer
KALAMAZOO — Earvin Johnson's nickname is "Magic."

And Wednesday night the 6-8 Lansing Everett superstar made Niles disappear from the Michigan high school basketball tournament.

Johnson was a one-man act in sparking the No. 1-ranked Vikings to an easy 82-42 win over Niles before a huge crowd of more than 8,000 fans in the Class B regional at Head Fieldhouse here.

Almost effortlessly, Johnson outscored and nearly outboarded the entire Niles team, pouring in 50 points and pulling down 26 rebounds. But the junior forward also dished out six assists in helping Everett raise its record to 22-1 heading into Friday night's championship game against Battle Creek Central.

The Bearcats eliminated Adrian 76-60 in Wednesday's first game.

"When the opposition does not have a big man, Earvin is able to just out physical them," Everett coach George Fox said of Johnson. "He cleans the boards, gets the ball out of there and starts the fast break."

"We missed a lot of free throws, but got tips to get the points anyway," Johnson put on an awesome display, swishing 19 of 27 shots from the floor, many underneath by tipping in missed shots. He got off to a slow start, hitting just two of six and scoring just six points in the first quarter. But once the standout got his game together he was unstoppable.

Finishing with point totals of 17, 14, and 13 in the final three quarters, Johnson missed just one of 11 shots from the floor in the second half.

Johnson, who was an All-State selection last year as a sophomore, may receive even higher acclaim this time around. Fox believes Johnson's improvement over last season is easily noticeable.

"He's a little taller and stronger," he explains. "But his big improvement has been in his outside shooting. His outside jump shot is much better. Last year he wasn't real consistent shooting from outside. Now he can shoot all over the floor. Last year he got a lot of garbage baskets."

Johnson averaged just 24 points per game during the regular season, but has now scored 37, 40, and 50 in three tournament games.

"He's turned himself loose during the tournament," Fox said. "During the regular season he was also averaging 10 or 11 assists per game. Now he's become more aggressive offensively...he's got to against the tougher teams."

Johnson was at his best during the late stages of the second quarter when Everett put the game away. Niles, whose tallest starter was 6-4, led twice in the early going, the last time at 8-7.

Still trailing just 21-16 with less than five minutes left in the half, Niles fell victim to Johnson's explosion. The lanky Johnson figured in all 17 Viking points as Everett outscored Niles 17-2 in the final five minutes to grab a commanding 38-18 halftime lead.

Scoring 11 of the points himself, Johnson passed off brilliantly on three fast breaks for the other tallies.

Niles was able to get no closer in the second half.

"We came up here as fired up as any team can be," Niles coach Dean Adams lamented after the loss. "We just got beat by a much superior ballclub."

"Early in the halfgame I was hoping we could get ahead and spread out their zone. By doing that we could work it in and get a good percentage shot."

Forward Larry Hunter was the only other Everett player in score in double figures, netting 12 points.

Niles, which bowed out of the tournament at 13-10, was led by Bill Bremer with 13 points. Guard Tim Garner, who was averaging 15.8 points, hit just three of 15 from the floor and finished with only eight before fouling out.

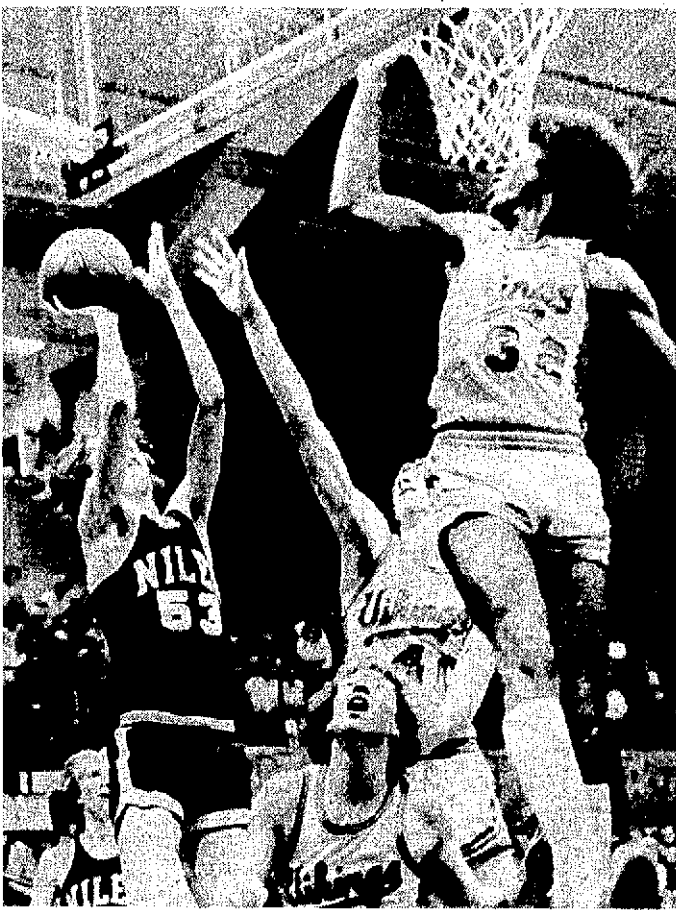

Paced by Johnson's awesome shooting, Everett hit 32 of 69 from the floor for 46 per cent. The Viking individualism caused Niles to hit just 18 of 53 for 34 per cent. Niles had hit nearly 50 per cent in two district wins.

Everett also commanded the charity stripe, hitting on 18 of 27 (67 per cent) including Johnson's 12 of 17.

Everett finished with a 49-34 rebounding edge and turned the ball over just 14 times, (eight coming in the fourth quarter) to 28 for Niles.

Indiana-St. John's Rematch Could Prove Top Attraction

From Associated Press

You can look for Lou Carnesecca to kick a chair into the seats and for Bobby Knight to tear up a towel. In other words, it's time for the NCAA basketball playoffs.

Those two highly excitable coaches will be on the sidelines — and probably all over the court — as Carnesecca's 17th-ranked St. John's team meets No. 1 Indiana in a first-round Midwest Regional game at South Bend, Ind., Saturday.

The St. John's-Indiana matchup is one of 16 first-round games from coast to coast and could be one of the most interesting.

The Redmen and Hoosiers met earlier this season in the Holiday Festival at Madison Square Garden and the brawny Hoosiers defeated New York's finest 76-69 in a game that wasn't decided until the end.

Carnesecca's players won't have the hometown crowd to buoy them this time, but they're a self-sustaining emotional team — a key factor for Saturday's game, George Johnson is the high scorer and Frank Alagia the catalyst.

The Hoosiers, led by Scott May and Kent Benson, have pulled out impossible as well as easy victories this year. Against both Michigan and Kentucky, Indiana was losing by four points in the last 24 seconds, but managed to win those games in overtime.

Carnesecca and Knight, of course, will be almost as interesting to watch as their teams. Both are known for their kinky sideline behavior. In the Holiday Festival, the emotional St. John's coach became so excited during one play that he booted his chair into the stands. He runs up and down on the sidelines as the game progresses and occasionally finds himself rubbing elbows with the players.

Knight wears a constant scowl on his face and a towel in his hands. While wringing the towel into a pretzel shape during a game, Knight is apt to explode in temper fits.

While Carnesecca matches his eccentric behavior against Knight's volatile temper and their teams match shots, 30 other clubs will be trying to make it past the first round of the NCAA playoffs.

In the other Midwest Regional game at South Bend, Western Michigan will face Virginia Tech. The Midwest Regionals will also be held at Dayton, Ohio, where Alabama plays North Carolina and Marquette takes on Western Kentucky.

In one of the East Regionals at Charlotte, N.C., it's Virginia against DePaul and VMI vs. Tennessee. In the other at Providence, R.I., Princeton meets Rutgers while Hofstra plays Connecticut.

In the Midwest at Denton, Tex., it's Syracuse against Texas Tech and Michigan against Wichita State. At Lawrence, Kan., Missouri meets Washington and Cincinnati plays Notre Dame.

The first-round West Regional at Tempe, Ariz., pits Pepperdine against Memphis State and Arizona vs. Georgetown. At Eugene, Ore., it's Boise State against Nevada-Las Vegas and UCLA vs. San Diego State.

Baseball Players Savoring Latest Court Victory

TAMPA (AP) — As usual at this time of the baseball year, the pitchers are ahead of the hitters.

Only this time the players are the pitchers and the owners are the hitters.

The two sides meet again today for the 26th time in a series of contract negotiations that has produced little progress. Whether either side is ready to reduce its demands at today's brief session or a longer one scheduled for Friday in St. Petersburg is debatable.

"There's no way to go now but to settle," said Tom Seaver of the New York Mets as the players savored a pair of court decisions that upheld an arbitrator's ruling granting free agent status to pitchers Andy Messersmith and Dave McNally.

"The owners told us they had only a 30 per cent chance of winning in the appeals court. They were right. They lost, and now the players have what you might call the ultimate weapon," Seaver said.

The latest court ruling left the owners with an appeal in the U.S. Supreme Court as their last recourse.

"Do they want to try going to the Supreme Court and meanwhile not play ball or pay salaries for two years?" Seaver wondered. "The Supreme Court wouldn't even hear the case — they don't get involved in arbitration matters, anyway."

What the owners want — at least in their latest proposal Wednesday — is an agreement in which a player with six years of major league service could play out his option in his seventh year and become a free agent the following season.

The catch in the proposal is that the club could retain the player's services for up to two more years simply by offering him a contract for that length of time. The players' association says that's just another way of warding off the owners' previous proposal which would have given eight-year veterans the chance to become free agents in their 10th season after one option year.

"It's still 8-and-1 no matter how you slice it," said Dick Moss, counsel for the players' association. "They just tried to disguise it a bit."

Technically, some 200 players who haven't signed for 1976 began playing out their option year at midnight Wednesday when the clubs, under baseball law, automatically invoked the one-year renewal clause in last year's contracts.

The list of unsigned players includes Seaver, Fred Lynn, Rod Carew, John Mayberry, Ted Simmons, Thurman Munson, Al Ibragimov, Graig Nettles, Carlton Fisk and Bert Blyleven.

The Minnesota Twins invoked the renewal clause for 23 players while the Atlanta Braves were close behind with 22. The renewal clause may be invoked at the same salary as the previous year, a higher salary or a cut of up to 20 per cent.

The Milwaukee Brewers slashed their seven unsigned players the maximum 20 per cent, although negotiations can continue all season. The seven are pitchers Jim Colborn, Tim Lincecum and Ed Rodriguez; infielders Robin Yount, Pedro Garcia and rookie Juan Lopez; and outfielder Bobby Mitchell.

Earvin Johnson, the much-publicized junior from No. 1-ranked Lansing Everett, showed why he's so highly regarded as he poured in 50 points Wednesday night to lead Everett to an 82-42 drubbing of Niles in a Class A regional high school basketball tournament game.

Two other top-ranked teams played and won. Flint Beecher, the No. 1 Class B squad, crushed Jmily City, 84-38, while top-rated Class D quintet Detroit DelParras eked by Saginaw St. Stephen 48-38.

Everett's Star Nets 50 As Niles Loses 'Magic' Makes Vikes Disappear

By JACK WALKDEN
Staff Sports Writer
KALAMAZOO — Earvin Johnson's nickname is "Magic."

And Wednesday night the 6-8 Lansing Everett superstar made Niles disappear from the Michigan high school basketball tournament.

Johnson was a one-man act in sparking the No. 1-ranked Vikings to an easy 82-42 win over Niles before a huge crowd of more than 8,000 fans in the Class B regional at Read Fieldhouse here.

Almost effortlessly, Johnson outscored and nearly outboarded the entire Niles team, pouring in 50 points and pulling down 26 rebounds. But the junior forward also dished out six assists in helping Everett raise its record to 22-1 heading into Friday night's championship game against Bearcats Creek Central. The Battle eliminated Adrian 76-60 in Wednesday's first game.

"When the opposition does not have a big man, Earvin is able to just out physical them," Everett coach George Fox said of Johnson. "He cleans the boards, gets the ball out of there and starts the fast break."

"We missed a lot of free throws, but got tips to get the points anyway," Johnson put on an awesome display, swishing 19 of 27 shots from the floor, many underneath by tipping in missed shots. He got off to a slow start, hitting just two of six and scoring just six points in the first quarter. But once the standout got his game together he was unstoppable.

Finishing with point totals of 17, 14, and 13 in the final three quarters, Johnson missed just one of 11 shots from the floor in the second half.

Johnson, who was an All-State selection last year as a sophomore, may receive even higher accolades this time around. Fox believes Johnson's improvement over last season is easily noticeable.

"He's a little taller and stronger," he explains. "But his big improvement has been in his outside shooting. His outside jump shot is much better. Last year he wasn't real consistent shooting from outside. Now he can shoot all over the floor. Last year he got a lot of garbage baskets."

Johnson averaged just 24 points per game during the regular season, but has now scored 37, 40, and 50 in three tournament games.

"He's turned himself loose during the tournament," Fox said. "During the regular season he was also averaging 10 or 11 assists per game. Now he's become more aggressive offensively...he's got to against the tougher teams."

Johnson was at his best during the late stages of the second quarter when Everett put the game away. Niles, whose tallest starter was 6-4, led twice in the early going, the last time at 8-7. Still trailing just 21-16 with less than five minutes left in the half, Niles fell victim to Johnson's explosion. The lanky Johnson figured in all 17 Viking points as Everett outscored Niles 17-2 in the final five minutes to grab a commanding 38-18 halftime lead.

Scoring 11 of the points himself, Johnson passed off brilliantly on three fast breaks for the other tallies.

Niles was able to get no closer in the second half.

"We came up here as fired up as any team can be," Niles coach Dean Adams lamented after the loss. "We just got beat by a much superior ballclub."

"Early in the ballgame I was hoping we could get ahead and spread out their zone. By doing that we could work it in and get a good percentage shot."

Forward Larry Hunter was the only other Everett player to score in double figures, netting 12 points.

Niles, which bowed out of the tourney at 13-10, was led by Bill Brenner with 13 points. Guard Tim Garner, who was averaging 15.8 points, hit just three of 15 from the floor and finished with only eight before fouling out.

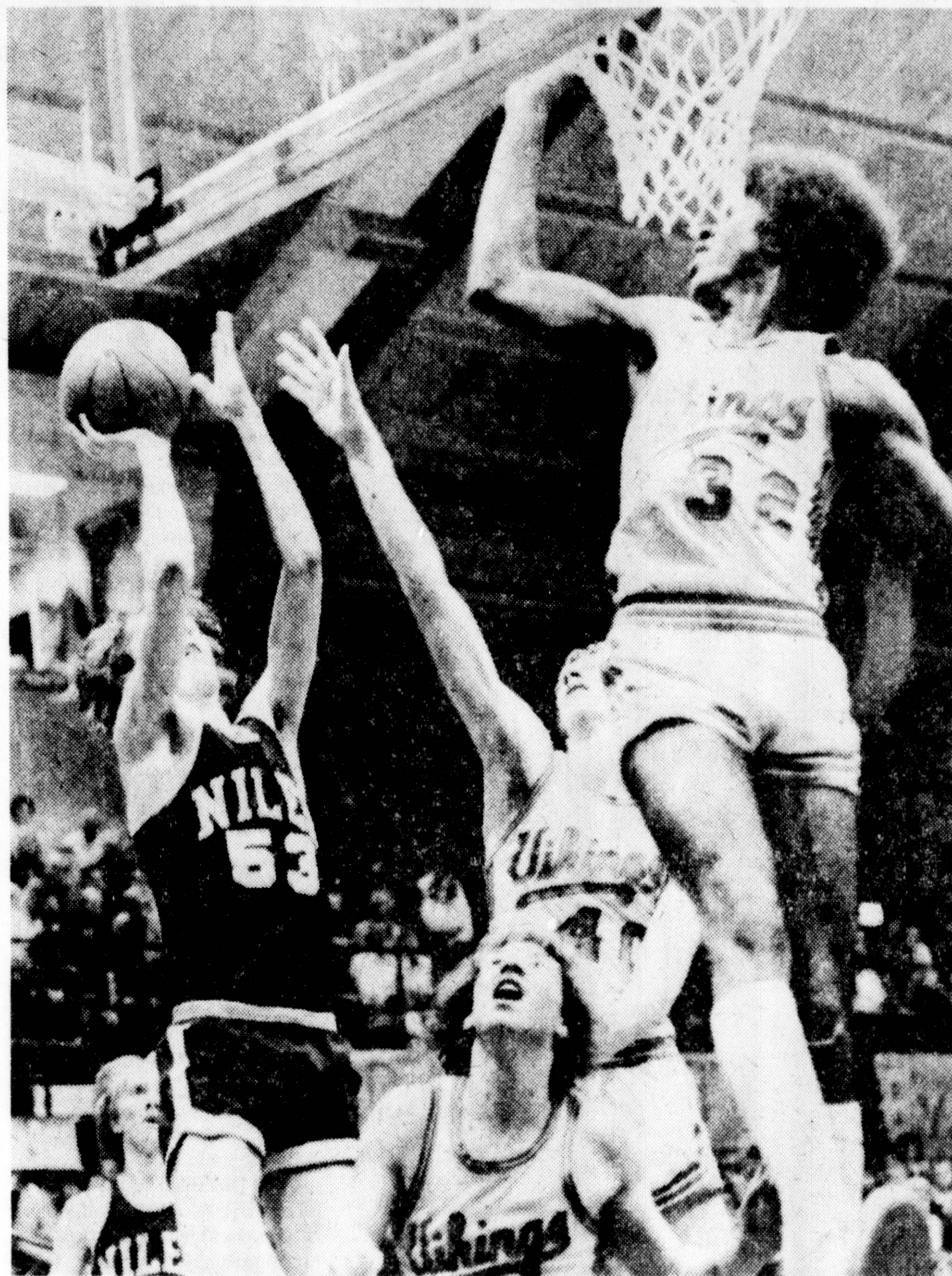

Paced by Johnson's awesome shooting, Everett hit on 32 of 69 from the floor for 46 per cent. The Viking intimidation caused Niles to hit just 18 of 53 for 34 per cent. Niles had hit nearly 50 per cent in two district wins.

Everett also commanded the charity stripe, hitting on 18 of 27 (67 per cent) including Johnson's 12 of 17.

Everett finished with a 49-34 rebounding edge and turned the ball over just 14 times (eight coming in the fourth quarter) to 26 for Niles.

U-M Icers Take Commanding Lead

Top Four WCHA Teams Win

From Associated Press
The top four teams won initial games Wednesday night in the first round of the Western Collegiate Hockey Association playoffs, but only one of them appears to have its two-game series clinched.
Michigan, which finished fourth in the regular season standings, demolished Notre Dame 8-3 to take a commanding lead in the two-game, most-goals series.

The playoffs actually are six-period hockey games, with the winner determined by the most goals scored in two games. Second half action is tonight.
Regular-season champion Michigan Tech, the defending NCAA title, had trouble overcoming scrappy Denver, 5-4. WCHA runnerup Michigan State beat Wisconsin 6-4 but the Badgers are capable of an upset. In the other playoff game, third-place Minnesota bounced Colorado College 7-4.
Don Hoene and Angie Moretto each scored goals for Michigan in its 8-3 romp over the Fighting Irish, who got talismans from Alex Pirus, Brian Walsh and Clark Hamilton.
Surprising Denver, which finished eighth on the last day of the season to clinch a playoff spot, jumped out to a 2-0 lead at

Lake Superior '5' Topples Edinboro

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Forwards Gary Fors and Jim Kjolhede combined for 57 points Wednesday as Lake Superior State pulled off its second upset and beat Edinboro State 7-3 in the second round of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics basketball tournament.
Lake Superior, an upset winner Monday over third-seed Alcorn State, held off a last-minute surge by 14th-seeded Edinboro to move into the quarter-final round. The Lakers led by seven points with 48 seconds to play, then Edinboro converted two stolen inbound passes and added a free throw to move to within two points with three seconds left. But the Lakers' Jim Bates iced the game with a free throw.

Fors finished the game with 31 points and nine rebounds and Kjolhede added 26 points and 12 rebounds for Lake Superior, 27-3. Center Gary Stanton paced the Edinboro, 24-5, with 22 points. Former Benton Harbor star Don Childs netted 10 for Edinboro.

If the Buffalo Sabres couldn't believe it, the Pittsburgh Penguins certainly couldn't.
"It's almost unbelievable what they did in those last few minutes," Buffalo goalie Al Smith said after his teammates erupted for five goals in the final nine minutes and nipped the Penguins 7-6 Wednesday night.
"I couldn't believe what I saw out there. What they did in those few minutes is unbelievable," echoed Lowell Macdonald, one of the shell-shocked Penguins.
Actually, the Penguins outdid the Sabres, scoring five goals in less than 1/2 of the second period to take a seemingly comfortable 6-2 lead.
Gary Unger of St. Louis set an all-time National Hockey League record by playing in his 631st consecutive game as the Blues and Toronto Maple Leafs skated to a 2-2 tie. Elsewhere, the Montreal Canadiens trounced the Chicago Black Hawks 5-1, the Vancouver Canucks beat the Kansas City Scouts 3-1, the Atlanta Flames downed the Minnesota North Stars 4-1 and the California Seals edged the Detroit Red Wings 4-3.

Craig Ramsay touched off Buffalo's comeback at 11:25 of the final period, Jim Lorentz made it 6-4 just 19 seconds later and Rene Robert brought the Sabres within one goal at 12:38. Gil Perreault tied it at 15:05 and also scored the winner with just 21 seconds to go. Rick Kehoe scored three of Pittsburgh's second-period goals and Macdonald got the other two.
Guy Lafleur registered his 44th goal and an assist and became the first NHL player to reach the 100-point mark this season. In recording their 50th success of the campaign, the Canadiens stretched their unbeaten streak to 11 games.
The Black Hawks also lost sole possession of first place in the Smythe Division, dropping into a tie with Vancouver. The Canucks turned back the Scouts on second-period goals by Rick Blight and Chris Oddleifson after Vancouver's Bobby Lalonde scored the tying goal with only two seconds left in the opening period.

Despite Unger's consecutive game record and an assist on the first goal of the game by Jerry Butler, the Blues had to settle for a tie when Toronto's Dave Williams scored midway through the final period. Toronto's Errol Thompson netted his 39th goal of the season to tie the count just 13 seconds after Butler scored and Chuck Leffey put St. Louis back on top 29 seconds after that.
Bill Flett triggered a three-goal flurry in the third period, slapping in a goal that broke a 1-1 tie at 4:29. The Flames then proceeded to wrap it up on goals by Larry Romanchuk and Eric Veil.
Detroit took a 3-0 lead early in the third period on Nick Libett's goal but the Seals scored three times in two minutes with Bob Girard, Dennis Maruk and Al MacAdam talking to tie the game. Fred Ahern got the winner at 12:47, lifting a rebound over goalie Jim Rutherford.

Buffalo's 'Unbelievable' Comeback Nips Penguins

If the Buffalo Sabres couldn't believe it, the Pittsburgh Penguins certainly couldn't.

"It's almost unbelievable what they did in those last few minutes," Buffalo goalie Al Smith said after his teammates erupted for five goals in the final nine minutes and nipped the Penguins 7-6 Wednesday night.

"I couldn't believe what I saw out there. What they did in those few minutes is unbelievable," echoed Lowell MacDonald, one of the shell-shocked Penguins.

Actually, the Penguins outdid the Sabres, scoring five goals in less than 6 1/2 of the second period to take a seemingly comfortable 6-2 lead.

Garry Unger of St. Louis set an all-time National Hockey League record by playing in his 631st consecutive game as the Blues and Toronto Maple Leafs skated to a 2-2 tie. Elsewhere, the Montreal Canadiens trounced the Chicago Black Hawks 5-1, the Vancouver Canucks beat the Kansas City Scouts 3-1, the Atlanta Flames downed the Minnesota North Stars 4-1 and the California Seals edged the Detroit Red Wings 4-3.

Craig Ramsay touched off Buffalo's comeback at 11:25 of the final period, Jim Lorentz made it 6-4 just 19 seconds later and Rene Robert brought the Sabres within one goal at 12:38. Gil Perreault tied it at 15:05 and also scored the winner with just 21 seconds to go. Rick Kehoe scored three of Pittsburgh's second-period goals and MacDonald got the other two.

Guy Lafleur registered his 44th goal and an assist and became the first NHL player to reach the 100-point mark this season. In recording their 50th success of the campaign, the Canadiens stretched their unbeaten streak to 11 games.

The Black Hawks also lost sole possession of first place in the Smythe Division, dropping into a tie with Vancouver. The Canucks turned back the Scouts on second-period goals by Rick Blight and Chris Oddleifson after Vancouver's Bobby Lalonde scored the tying goal with only two seconds left in the

Despite Unger's consecutive game record and an assist on the first goal of the game by Jerry Butler, the Blues had to settle for a tie when Toronto's Dave Williams scored midway through the final period. Toronto's Errol Thompson netted his 39th goal of the season to tie the count just 13 seconds after Butler scored and Chuck Leffey put St. Louis back on top 29 seconds after that.

Detroit took a 3-0 lead early in the third period on Nick Libett's goal but the Seals scored three times in two minutes with Bob Girard, Dennis Maruk and Al MacAdam tallying to tie the game. Fred Ahern got the winner at 12:47, lifting a rebound over goalie Jim Rutherford.

U-M Icers Take Commanding Lead

Top Four WCHA Teams Win

From Associated Press

The top four teams won initial games Wednesday night in the first round of the Western Collegiate Hockey Association playoffs, but only one of them appears to have its two-game series clinched.

Michigan, which finished fourth in the regular season standings, demolished Notre Dame 8-3 to take a commanding lead in the two-game, most-goals series.

The playoffs actually are six-period hockey games, with the winner determined by the most goals scored in two games. Second half action is tonight.

Regular-season champion Michigan Tech, the defending NCAA titlist, had trouble overcoming scrappy Denver, 5-4. WCHA runnerup Michigan State beat Wisconsin 6-4 but the Badgers are capable of an upset. In the other playoff game, third-place Minnesota bounced Colorado College 7-4.

Dan Hoene and Angie Moretto each scored goals for Michigan in its 8-3 romp over the Fighting Irish, who got tallies from Alex Pirus, Brian Walsh and Clark Hamilton.

Surprising Denver, which finished eighth on the last day of the season to clinch a playoff spot, jumped out to a 2-0 lead at Michigan Tech. But the Huskies roared back to score four straight goals and held on for their 5-4 victory.

Michigan State got a hat trick from Daryl Rice to overcome Wisconsin, 6-4. The Badgers were dead last in the WCHA on the final weekend of the season but split with Notre Dame for a berth.

Minnesota, a team plagued by injuries all season, battled Colorado College until three freshmen scored goals in the final seven minutes for the Gopher victory. Freshman Phil Verchota scored in the first period and added the last goal of the game in his first two-goal output of the year.

First-round winners advance to the quarterfinals Saturday and Sunday, with two teams going from their to the NCAA tournament at Denver.

Groups Oppose Marshall's Stand

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Los Angeles Dodgers pitcher Mike Marshall stood mute Wednesday at his district court arraignment on four misdemeanor charges stemming from his use of Michigan State University's intramural building.

Marshall, 33, was charged with trespassing in the building, disrupting a scheduled university activity — a tennis game — and with two counts of malicious destruction of university property.

Meanwhile, student and faculty groups formally opposed the stand taken by the stocky, broad-shouldered Cy Young Award winner who is a graduate student at the school.

Visiting Judge Earl McDonald set pre-trial hearing for June 15 and Marshall's lawyer, Tom Downs, promised his client would show up. Marshall remains free without bond.

After his arraignment, Marshall said his pro ball career can wait until his feud with MSU officials is settled.

"I'm not going anywhere until this is resolved," Marshall said, cowering to sit out the entire season if necessary.

He is fighting with school authorities on two fronts.

First, he contends an agreement several years ago gives him an automatic reservation time to use the hitting and pitching net in the men's intramural building. But recently school officials told Marshall he would have to reserve the net a day in advance like other students because of overcrowding.

Marshall also insists an impartial third party should judge a new design he proposes for the intramural building area where his baseball practice interferes with tennis. Marshall contends his design would let baseball and tennis be played in harmony.

However, school officials counter that his plan actually would cut the tennis-playing area.

On Tuesday, the university's student governing body, Associated Students of Michigan

State University, unanimously passed a resolution against special treatment for Marshall. The resolution supports "equal access on a reservation first-come, first-served basis" to intramural facilities.

And the student-faculty Central Facility Coordinating Committee has formally supported the way officials are conducting themselves in enforcing the regulations in their dispute with Marshall. The committee is composed of seven students, the MSU athletic director, assistant athletic director for facilities, the women's athletic director, the men and women's intramural directors and the physical education department director and his assistant.

The Dodgers on Wednesday disputed a statement made by Marshall last week that Dodger owner Walter O'Malley has been apprised of the ruckus and thinks MSU officials are "a bunch of jerks."

O'Malley has not spoken to Marshall since his squabble with MSU erupted last month and has never characterized MSU officials as "jerks," said a Dodgers spokesman.

Fred Claire, vice president of public relations for the Dodgers, said the club was in contact Wednesday with Marshall's attorney.

The attorney reportedly told the Dodgers that Marshall was en route to Florida to participate in baseball negotiations as a player representative.

"Mike's attorney told Al Campanis (vice president in charge of player personnel) that the Michigan matter would be resolved in such a way that Mike would be able to report to spring training. It is our understanding there will be no problem, though," the Dodgers official said.

"We really don't have complete information about the Michigan incident. But we were told by the attorney that the loss was about $1, for the cost of a broken lock," Claire said. O'Malley was out of town Wednesday and not available for comment.

School authorities say Marshall can continue to use the net as long as he reserves it and an adjacent tennis court a day ahead like other students. Campus police arrested Marshall on Feb. 21 on a charge of disrupting a scheduled tennis practice by using the net without a reservation.

He was arrested a second time on Feb. 23 when he and an FBI camera crew entered the building against orders of Robert Perrin, MSU vice president, school officials say.

Phoenix Finds Out 76ers Have Good Finishing Kick

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Philadelphia 76ers have been going strong most of the season, but usually have lacked a good finishing kick in their games.

It was different Wednesday night, however.

The 76ers, down by 11 points in the second quarter, came back with a late rally and beat the Phoenix Suns 125-108 in the National Basketball Association.

"Early this season we played well at the beginning of games and couldn't get our momentum going," said Philadelphia's Steve Mix. "Now we have reversed and are able to make strong finishes."

The late rally was sponsored by George McGinnis, who scored 13 points in the fourth period.

In the other NBA games, the Buffalo Braves beat the New Orleans Jazz 120-102; the Houston Rockets edged the Portland Trail Blazers 113-110; the Seattle SuperSonics outscored the Milwaukee Bucks 110-105 and the Boston Celtics nudged the Los Angeles Lakers 92-89.

McGinnis not only scored a lot of points at the end of Philadelphia but set up Doug Collins for a layup with 4:12 left to put the 76ers ahead for good at 80-64. It was the first time the Sixers led since the first few seconds of the game. Philadelphia's Joe Bryant scored 26 points to lead all scorers.

Seattle, 18 points down with 4:30 left in the third quarter, rallied behind rookie Bruce Seals and Fred Brown to beat Milwaukee.

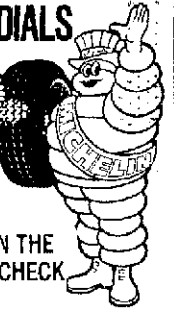

Dave Cowens broke a tie with a free throw with 48 seconds left after Kareem Abdul-Jabbar faded out, and Kevin Stacom added two points for insurance, lifting Boston over Los Angeles.

year lists $1.8 billion for the 21 major agencies and 105,000 employees. That means the cost of regulation has gone from $4.43 per American to about $10.36, adjusted for inflation.

Ford's proposed budget. Yet their impact, once confined to a few industries — transportation, communications, agriculture, finance and drugs — now has spread to many unaccustomed areas.

waste-treatment devices costing $400 and up or inexpensive but inconvenient tanks that hold waste on board.

How much does all this regulation cost? There is simply no accurate way to measure regulation's total impact on the nation, although many are willing to try.

President Ford's aides in the Office of Management and Budget estimated regulation's cost at $130 billion a year in artificially inflated prices, additional costs to business and lost productivity. This estimate — totaling about $2,000 for each family — is based on a mish-mash of economic assumptions, projections and guesses.

In one instance, the OMB counted the costs of foreign trade restrictions that no longer exist.

The administration study also said Americans spend $40 to $60 billion a year to meet federal pollution standards. Yet the congressional General Accounting Office, in a report critical of the OMB study, said Ford's aides had misquoted the original source for the figure, which had put anti-pollution costs at $33 billion.

Does the regulation do any good? Frequently, yes.

The 3,451 people with accounts at a Houston bank didn't lose their savings when the bank collapsed. The Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. paid them $12,259,733. Of course, some say there should be more federal regulation of banks to prevent such failures.

Not all governmental nit-picking is needless. Late last year, the Food and Drug Administration got a court order to seize imported bear-bristle brushes from a Los Angeles importer because the brushes were contaminated with nits.

Nits are lice eggs.

And America's air is measurably cleaner since EPA began work.

There is little question that government can take years to reach a seemingly simple decision, as when the FDA went through nine years of hearings, proposals and comment periods before deciding that anything labeled "peanut butter" must contain at least 90 per cent peanuts.

In 1973, the fledgling Consumer Products Safety Commission erroneously banned as unsafe a toy plastic ball manufactured by the Marlin Toy Products, Inc., of Horicon, Wis. The commission later admitted the error, but the company says the mistake cost it $1.2 million in cancelled orders and forced the layoff of all but 10 of its 85 employees. Congress has authorized payment of damages to Marlin, with the amount to be set by a claims court.

There are cases where the regulators strain the law.

A federal job-safety inspector wanted changes in an allegedly unsafe hydraulic log-cutting machine clearing land in California's Napa Valley in 1972. Although the wood was sold entirely within California, the Labor Department insisted the land being cleared was for planting grapes, and that grapes were for making wine sold across state lines, and that this made it a federal case. A review commission sided with the logger by a 2-to-1 vote last year and threw out his $600 fine.

There is movement aimed at limiting the regulators' powers

In this year of the 200th anniversary of the American Revolution.

But the regulators have powerful defenders — usually the industries they oversee — who are fighting this new revolt in Washington.

They won't allow cut-rate, $135-a-person airline service between New York and London, and they make commercial radio and television broadcasting feasible.

They bungle, and drive a bymaker to the edge of bankruptcy. They succeed, and save motorists' lives.

They are the unelected federal regulators, a growing band that now makes more rules directly affecting the people than do the elected members of Congress.

In the past decade, three presidents and Congress have vastly increased the regulators' reach and power. The number of major regulatory agencies has doubled in 24 since 1965, and they now employ 105,000 persons, up from 55,435. And the cost to America's taxpayer has more than doubled.

Nobody in the federal government keeps track of all the forms that departments and agencies send out to people and businesses. An Associated Press survey turned up more than 9,800 forms the government sends out to the public. An estimated 556 million responses are sent back every year, with hundreds of millions of hours wasted to gather the data and complete the forms.

But this explosion in federal regulation has created a reaction.

President Ford accuses the regulators of "petty tyranny," joining other presidential candidates in seeming to attack the very government they seek to lead. Republican hopeful Ronald Reagan says business and government bureaucrats share a "warm cocoon" in regulation that protects both. Democrat Jimmy Carter pledges to consolidate many government agencies into simpler, more responsive ones. Even Ralph Nader, who inspired much of the new safety regulation, wants to get rid of regulators he says are wasteful. In short, big government has become a big issue.

Critics blame the regulators for business failures, accuse them of sloth and needless nit-picking and warn them as parasites or dictators.

Are the criticisms justified? Will Congress reverse its decade-long trend toward centralized regulation?

The answer to both questions is yes. And no.

Regulation does cost money, and it also produces benefits.

Examples of delays, bungles, overzealous regulation and conflicting rules are easy enough to find. Yet much federal regulation is carried on without complaint or with strong support of the persons being regulated or with calls for more regulation instead of less.

It is true that, in sheer bulk, Washington's body of regulations is big and getting bigger. The Code of Federal Regulations, containing only the basic, standing rules set down by the bureaucracy, already packs a shelf 15 feet long with 60,000 book-size pages of fine print.

The number of pages has grown 20 per cent a year for the past several years, and new regulations are being added every day.

These regulators — appointed officials and civil servants — now make more rules than the elected members of Congress.

A Library of Congress study found that during 1974, Congress passed 404 laws while the federal bureaucracy churned out 7,396 new or amended regulations. That's 18 regulations for every law.

And most of the regulations carry the force of law, meaning violators could be subject to fines or jail.

The budgets and number of employees of the regulators have soared in the last decade. In 1965, the 12 major agencies spent $800 million, employing 58,455 people.

President Ford's proposed budget for this coming fiscal

This growth came as Washington answered demands for cleaner air and water, for less job discrimination against blacks, browns, women and the elderly, for safer autos, workplaces and consumer products, and for more honest elections.

Union Vote April 30 At Pawating

By JOHN DYE
South Berrien Bureau
NILES — A tentative date of April 30 has been set for a second unionization election in an attempt to organize about 300 Pawating hospital workers here.

Ray Sones, business manager for the Kalamazoo-based local 38 of the International Retail Store Clerks Union, said both hospital management and union representatives have agreed informally to the April 30 date, but both parties must sign a formal "stipulation" agreeing to hold the election then.

The vote will be the second attempt by the union to organize practical nurses, nurses' aides, clerical workers, custodians and food service workers. The first vote, conducted on March 27, 1975, was defeated by a 147 to 107 margin.

The vote was appealed to the National Labor Relations board by the union, however, because the hospital management had challenged 52 votes cast,

Last month, the NLRB ruled that the students could not vote in the upcoming election.

In June of 1975, the hospital and the union announced that unfair labor practices complaints against the hospital had been dropped. Part of the agreement to drop the complaints included holding a new election.

Setting of the new election date was held back until the NLRB ruled on whether the high school students could vote.

Down Home Experience

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. diplomats will be assigned to year-long stints working with American state and local governments and schools in an effort to give the officials a better feel for the country they represent. The State Department says its "Assignment America" program is designed to give Foreign Service officers career training and experience as well as giving them needed contact with the people they serve. A department spokesman said a pilot group of about 20 officers will be involved when the domestic service program begins this summer.

Public Swamped With 556 Million Forms

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government buries the public each year in more than 500 million forms asking about everything from income taxes to critiques of the "Discover America Pow Wow and Trade Mart."

The Commerce Department wants to hear how many contracts 600 businesses signed at its annual travel show, while the Internal Revenue Service expects every taxpayer in America to fill out one of its 80 million tax returns.

The Agriculture Department's weekly report of red tart cherries gets only about 700 replies a year, and the Tennessee Valley Authority wants data from 21 commercial fish and mussel dealers.

From taxes to cherries, the federal government has a form asking individuals and businesses for information on just about everything.

Business men contend they cannot afford to answer many of the forms feeding the government's need to know and that the cost of answering the inquiries is passed on to the consumer as higher prices.

Some consumer groups, on the other hand, say many government decisions are based on incomplete or biased information. For example, the agencies dealing with energy often use industry-supplied data that critics see as self-serving and unreliable.

No one in the federal government keeps track of all the forms that department and agencies send out to individuals and businesses.

An Associated Press survey, however, turned up more than 9,800 separate forms the federal bureaucracy sends out to the public. An estimated 556 million responses are returned each year, with hundreds of millions of hours needed to gather data and complete the forms.

"The question is how much information do we need to run

Thousands of the forms are needed by government programs requested by business — agricultural marketing orders; government contracts and economic development loans.

For example, travel companies and red tart cherry processors get a direct benefit from government forms.

The gravel companies come to the Commerce "Pow Wow" each year to sign contracts to bring foreign tourists to this country. On the Commerce forms, the companies say how many contracts were signed and how much they were worth. Because the companies say each year they sign tens of millions of dollars in contracts at the meeting, Commerce continues to hold the "Pow Wow."

The weekly cherry production forms are a critical part of the federal marketing order that helps keep cherry prices up by controlling the supplies that reach the market.

The IRS leads one part of the federal forms race with 3,500 forms that elicit about 122 million responses a year from the general public.

The latest figures available from the IRS show about 3,500 forms sent out to the public for tax purposes, down from 5,000 in 1968.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare only has 937 forms listed with the Office of Management and Budget, but an estimated 176 million replies are received each year. HEW also leads — excluding IRS — with the largest total of manhours required to fill out the forms, 43.2 million.

Other departments and their repeatedly used forms include Labor, 270 forms and 42.19 million replies; Treasury, excluding IRS and scattered other forms, 131 forms and 37.4

including 36 votes cast by part-time high school student workers.

Last month, the NLRB ruled that the students could not vote in the upcoming election.

In June of 1975, the hospital and the union announced that unfair labor practices complaints against the hospital had been dropped. Part of the agreement to drop the complaints included holding a new election.

Setting of the new election date was held back until the NLRB ruled on whether the high school students could vote.

Down Home Experience

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. diplomats will be assigned to year-long stints working with American state and local governments and schools in an effort to give the officials a better feel for the country they represent. The State Department says its "Assignment America" program is designed to give Foreign Service officers career training and experience as well as giving them needed contact with the people they serve. A department spokesman said a pilot group of about 20 officers will be involved when the domestic service program begins this summer.

Public Swamped With 556 Million Forms

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government buries the public each year in more than 500 million forms asking about everything from income taxes to critiques of the "Discover America Pow Wow and Trade Mart."

The Commerce Department wants to hear how many contracts 600 businesses signed at its annual travel show, while the Internal Revenue Service expects every taxpayer in America to fill out one of its 86 million tax returns.

The Agriculture Department's weekly report of red tart cherries gets only about 706 replies a year, and the Tennessee Valley Authority wants data from 21 commercial fish and mussel dealers.

From taxes to cherries, the federal government has a form asking individuals and businesses for information on just about everything.

Business men contend they cannot afford to answer many of the forms feeding the government's need to know and that the cost of answering the inquiries is passed on to the consumer as higher prices.

Some consumer groups, on the other hand, say many government decisions are based on incomplete or biased information. For example, the agencies dealing with energy often use industry-supplied data that critics see as self-serving and unreliable.

No one in the federal government keeps track of all the forms that department and agencies send out to individuals and businesses.

An Associated Press survey, however, turned up more than 9,800 separate forms the federal bureaucracy sends out of the public. An estimated 556 million responses are returned each year, with hundreds of millions of hours needed to gather data and complete the forms.

"The question is how much information do we need to run

Thousands of the forms are needed by government programs requested by business — agricultural marketing orders, government contracts and economic development loans.

For example, travel companies and red tart cherry processors get a direct benefit from government forms.

The gravel companies come to the Commerce "Pow Wow" each year to sign contracts to bring foreign tourists to this country. On the Commerce forms, the companies say how many contracts were signed and how much they were worth. Because the companies say each year they sign tens of millions of dollars in contracts at the meeting, Commerce continues to hold the "Pow Wow."

The weekly cherry production forms are a crucial part of the federal marketing order that helps keep cherry prices up by controlling the supplies that reach the market.

The IRS leads one part of the federal forms race with 3,500 forms that elicit about 122 million responses a year from the general public.

The latest figures available from the IRS show about 3,500 forms sent out to the public for tax purposes, down from 5,000 in 1968.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare only has 957 forms listed with the Office of Management and Budget, but an estimated 176 million replies are received each year. HEW also leads — excluding IRS — with the largest total of manhours required to fill out the forms, 43.2 million.

Other departments and their repeatedly used forms include Labor, 270 forms and 42.19 million replies; Treasury, excluding IRS and scattered other forms, 133 forms and 37.4

million replies; Agriculture, 795 forms and 30.98 million replies; Commerce, 571 forms and 22.6 million replies; Transportation, 285 forms and 18.28 million replies; Justice, 167 forms and 16.7 million replies; and the Civil Service Commission, 150 forms and 16.39 million replies.

Prince Bernhard Likes Pretty Girls, Too

Q: What kind of income does Dutch Prince Bernhard have annually? I'm trying to figure out why he's so strapped that he needed a payoff from Lockheed aircraft. — H.L., Montgomery, Ala.

A: Bernhard receives $300,000 tax free from the Dutch government, which isn't bad, though not as lavish as Queen Juliana's annual one and a half million.

The current, off-the-record explanation is that Bernhard's favorite presents, which he never refused on frequent trips to the West Coast, were pretty girls — and if the rest of the gift package included money, somebody else took that.

Q: When Michael Douglas leaves TV's "Streets of San Francisco," how are they going to explain his departure in the story? — W.P., Rochester, Minn.

A: Douglas, who has a whole new career since producing the Academy Award nominee film, "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest," has submitted a dramatic death scene for his farewell to the popular TV series. As you can imagine, Douglas sees himself dying slowly, covered with blood and honor while Karl Malden bends over him to deliver an emotional eulogy. That's the way to go, Michael!

Q: Do you think there is any truth to those stories that Nancy Reagan has the brains in the Reagan family? Also, was it her politics that became his politics? — T.T., El Paso, Tex.

A: We think there's a lot of truth to those stories. Not too many people get close to Nancy Reagan but the few who have say she is absolutely brilliant. Remember too, she has been a right-wing Republican for most of her life while Reagan left the Democrats only in the 50s, after he married Nancy.

Q: What about the report John

Wayne is making his last movie? — U.V., Honolulu, Hawaii

A: Not according to the Duke, who is determined to stay before the cameras as long as he can answer the director's call for "action." So many big stars were gathered around him in the cast of "The Shootist," his latest movie, that it did seem a lot like a farewell ceremony. Because the script has Wayne dying of cancer during most of the film, the picture was difficult to finance — money shies away from dismal themes. However, many of the actors took salary cuts to help Wayne get the project off the ground. The cast includes Jimmy Stewart, Lauren Bacall, Hugh

Q: Who is David Carradine going with now? — A.B., Salem, Mass.

A: David, late of TV's "Kung Fu," claims the girl in his life right now is his 13-year-old daughter Caleste. He is caring for her at his Malibu pad and playing the role of a responsible citizen in an effort to woo back his ex-girlfriend, Barbara Seagull, who flew the coop when Free blood pressure tests will launch a "mini-symposium" on high blood pressure and hypertension in the Forum of St.

Joseph Memorial hospital, Wednesday, March 24.

tendance who want a current reading. The symposium program will begin at 8 p.m., sponsored by the University of Michigan Alumnae club of Benton Harbor-St. Joseph, in cooperation with the Berrien county health department.

Scheduled speakers and their subjects are:

—Dr. James Greene of Kalamazoo, "High Blood Pressure: The Medical Problem."

Restaurant, Estates Plans Aired At South Haven

By TOM RENNER

South Haven Correspondent
SOUTH HAVEN — Plans for a new Lake Michigan shoreline residential subdivision and a new McDonald's restaurant were presented to the South Haven township board last night. The board approved a preliminary site plan for the subdivision which will be located near 77th street and 16th avenue. The subdivision, to be known as Windling Creek Estates, will contain 22 lots, according to Donald Gilchrist of Gove Associates, Kalamazoo, which is developing the property for a group of South Haven businessmen. The plan is still subject to approval by several state and county agencies.

The board authorized Mark Land Development, Inc. of Grand Rapids to ask the City of South Haven for permission to tap into city water and sewer lines for a proposed McDonald's restaurant near Harding's market on M-140 near Aglworth avenue.

In other areas, the board agreed to contribute $341 toward the Van Buren Transportation Task Force. The transportation system for the elderly and handicapped is expected to be operational in April.

Each governmental unit has been asked to contribute 10 cents per capita based on the 1970 census for the first year of operation. It has been determined that approximately 20 per cent of the residents of South Haven township would qualify for the program. The board authorized its contribution from federal revenue sharing funds by a 4-1 vote. Trustee Amelia Miller cast the dissenting vote, saying she wasn't convinced the proposed system was workable. Voting for the appropriation were Supervisor James Schenke, Clerk Franklin Turp, Treasurer Ruth Turp and Trustee Ed Post.

The board appointed Ray Gunterberg as its representative to the transportation task force. The board adopted a mutual aid pact with other Van Buren county ambulance services. Payment of $23,495 to the City of South Haven for fire protection services was approved.

The board noted it is considering the erection of a fence designating the 14th avenue public access to the Lake Michigan beach. Supervisor Schenke reported the board is investigating the possibility of contributing to the South Haven Community Recreation and Education program. The program is currently funded jointly by the South Haven school system and the City of South Haven although all residents of the school district are eligible to participate. The school district includes all of South Haven township and parts of Casco, Geneva and Convent townships.

The board scheduled its annual meeting for 1:30 p.m. April 3.

A 12-year-old girl sustained a broken leg Wednesday when she ran into the side of a car after getting off a school bus in front of Benton Harbor Junior high school. City police said the bus driver was ticketed for failure to activate flashing lights while unloading a school bus. Vernella Hull, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Hull, 860 Wauwata avenue, was reported in "fair" condition today at Mercy hospital. GOBLES — The Gobles city commission last night appointed two men to the five-member compensation board which meets annually to review wages of elected city officials. ## Hartford Water Treatment Plant To Cost $871,000

HARTFORD — Construction of waste water treatment facilities in Hartford township will cost an estimated $871,000, the Hartford township board was told last night by its engineering firm, Wightman & Associates, Inc., of St. Joseph.

The representative for the engineering firm said a sewer tap-on fee would be $1,000 and a monthly use fee would be $8.80. The board set a public hearing for 7:30 p.m., Monday March 29, at the city-township hall, on the proposed construction and costs.

The facilities for Hartford township are part of an area sewer system that would serve the township, the city of Hartford, Lawrence village and township and parts of Bangor township.

In other action, the board set the annual township meeting for 1 p.m., Saturday, April 3, at the city-township hall, appointed Justus Mayhake as the board's representative to the Van Buren county commission on aging; and allocated $220 (at 10 cents per capita) as the township's 1976 share towards operation of a Task Force transportation system of buses that will take senior citizens and the handicapped to shopping areas.

$230,000 For Rinks

DETROIT (AP) — The city is planning to spend $230,000 on an ice rink and roller skating rink on Belle Isle. Recreation Department Planner Harriet Superstein said the facility will serve residents of the area. She denied a charge that noise from the rink would disrupt the park. But Ray Rickman, president of Friends of Belle Isle, a voluntary citizens' group, said the rink project conflicts with other plans for the island calling for landscaping of the area.

Ford To Replace
Antipoverty Boss

WASHINGTON (AP) — What remains of the federal antipoverty programs of the 1960s is being shaken up again with a change in the top administrator's office.

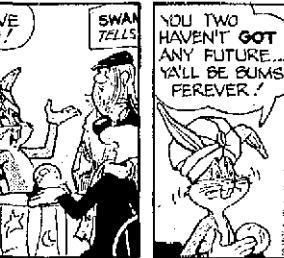

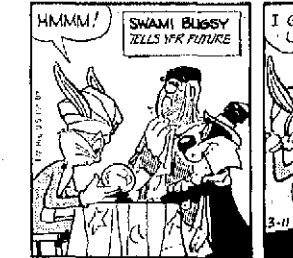

President Ford is replacing Bert A. Gallegos as director of the Community Services Administration, the survivor of the old Office of Economic Opportunity, sources say.

Gallegos' successor, according to administration and congressional sources, will be Samuel R. Martinez, 42, currently regional director for the Labor Department in Denver and chairman of the federal agencies' regional council for the Rocky Mountain states.

$230,000 For Rinks

DETROIT (AP) — The city is planning to spend $230,000 on an ice rink and roller skating rink on Belle Isle. Recreation Department Planner Harriet Saperstein said the facility will serve residents of the area. She denied a charge that noise from the rink would disrupt the park. But Ray Rickman, president of Friends of Belle Isle, a voluntary citizens' group, said the rink project conflicts with other plans for the island calling for landscaping of the area.

Market Aims At 1,000

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market pushed ahead today, mounting still another drive at the 1,000 level in the Dow Jones industrial average.

The Dow average of 30 blue chips climbed 2 1/2 points to just under 998 in the early going.

Gainers opened up a 2-1 lead over losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts said the market was getting continued support from an improving economy and the stabilization of interest rates this week.

Today's early prices included Asarco, up 1/4 at 18 1/4; NL Industries, ahead 1/4 at 18 1/4; Puget Industries, 1/4 higher at 7 1/4; and Colt Industries, off 1/4 at 43 1/4.

On Wednesday the Dow Jones industrial average touched the 1,000 level for the third time in two days, but wound up settling for a 1.38 gain at 995.28.

Gainers held a very slight edge on losers among NYSE-listed issues, and the exchange's composite index rose .21 to 53.97.

Big Board volume slowed to 25.50 million shares.

Niles Store Is Ruled Bankrupt

NILES — The former Jerry's supermarket, operated by Jerry Dean Heath at 2329 South 13th street, Niles, has been adjudged bankrupt by the U.S. District court, bankruptcy division, Grand Rapids.

Bankruptcy Judge David Nims signed a discharge of bankruptcy on March 5, 1976. A petition of bankruptcy was filed in the court Nov. 10, 1975.

The court reported that Heath is released from all dischargeable debts, except debts that may be determined to be "non-dischargeable" by the bankruptcy court. The period for creditors to seek payments from the court ended March 1, 1976. It was reported.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

Few Understand Those Reports

The mails are bringing the customary avalanche of annual "corporate" reports to shareholders. Many of these are beautiful examples of the printer's and public relations expert's art. Few will be read by the shareholders — even though they are (theoretically) owners of the business — and even fewer will be understood by them.

These management reports of "how we did last year" and "where we stand now" are obviously important. For years the amount of information contained in them has been steadily expanded, especially at the prodding of the N.Y. Stock Exchange and, in more recent years, the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Wesley E. Truesdell, senior vice president in charge of public relations for Doremus & Co., a lender in financial public relations and advertising, has set forth for this column some items of information the investor may want to look for in the annual reports soon:

"(1) a description of the general nature and scope of the business;

"(2) a listing of directors and officers, including a description of the principal occupation of each 'outside' director;

"(3) a statistical summary of operations for five years (sometimes ten years);

"(4) a management analysis, including discussion of such topics as the possible effect on profits of any change in accounting and other non-recurring items;

"(5) this year, for the first time, it will be mandatory for reports to discuss any increase or decrease of more than 10 percent in any item of revenue or expense in the most recent three-year period, or any change of more than 2 percent in the average net income or loss in the same period;

"(6) a five-year comprehensive 'lines of business' breakdown should be found in 1975 reports, enabling stockholders to trace the gains or decreases in sales or earnings of various parts of a company's business;

"(7) investors can now trace the value of their holdings more easily, for somewhere in the report will be listed the market prices of the stock for each quarter during the last two fiscal years;

"(8) dividends paid — in cash or stock — will be listed for each quarter of the latest two fiscal years;

"(9) overall, there should be a big improvement in charts and tables in reports this year. If they didn't before, they are now required to conform to the facts of text and tabular material more closely;

"(10) one can look for at least a footnote and possibly more, disclosing a company's net sales, gross profit, income before extraordinary items, cumulative effect of any change in accounting, per-share data, net income for each quarter of the two most recent years and any subsequent period."

"I don't know how this lady made her money. It could have been in any field in which investment 'sense' or 'know-how' is not important. As a matter of fact, one of the reasons for printing it was to show how very often people can make money without knowing how to invest it.

"I set no limits on readers' subjects to be discussed — whether it involves the best use of $35 a month or an opinion on an institutional manager's handling of $700,000 family trust. The subject here is 'investments' — large and small.

MR. SHULSKY welcomes written questions, but he will be able to provide answers only through the column.

Strikers Return To Jobs

NEW TROY — Striking sheet metal union workers returned to work at the Stanley Knight corporation plant here yesterday, after ratifying a new two-year contract Tuesday afternoon.

About 90 members of the South Bend-based local 164 of the union struck the plant last Tuesday when a three-year contract expired.

Robert Schneider, president of Stanley Knight, said yesterday that under terms of the new contract, pay for union members will increase about 11 percent. He said that while the starting pay will remain the same at $1.50 per hour, advanced pay steps will "accelerate more rapidly," and top pay will also increase.

One additional paid holiday and increased health benefits are also part of the new contract, Schneider said.

Stanley Knight corporation is a subsidiary of the Dwyer Products corporation, Michigan City, Ind. Dwyer builds soda fountains and stainless steel kitchen and cafeteria equipment.

Berrien Jobless Rate Is Lowered

SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

The unemployment level in Berrien county for January dipped to 15.3 per cent from December's 16.1 per cent, according to the Michigan Employment Security Commission (MESC).

But unemployment was still higher and employment lower than November's figures.

Comparison of January and December employment figures is not a true picture of the employment situation in Berrien county because many of December's layoffs resulted from usual inventory adjustments and holiday recesses, the MESC noted.

In January, 11,400 people were unemployed while 62,900 were on the job, compared with a year earlier when 9,500 were unemployed, and 67,400 were employed for an unemployment rate of 12.4 in January, 1975.

The MESC noted November's unemployment rate was 14.7 per cent, with 11,200 unemployed and 64,800 people on the job. The labor force for both November and December was 76,000, but in January dropped to 74,300.

The average unemployment rate in 1974 was 8.4 per cent, compared with 15.4 for 1975. The MESC said a drop of more than three per cent in the resident civilian labor force over the past year coupled with continued poor economic conditions in the county account for the persistently high levels of unemployment in Berrien.

The City of Benton Harbor again led the county in unemployment with 2,150 jobless, or 28.6 per cent, followed by Niles township with 1,075, or 18.9 per cent.

Other municipalities include: Benton township, 1,300, 16.3 per cent; City of Niles, 325, 13.6; Lincoln township, 325, 12.5; City of St. Joseph, 225, 11.7; and St. Joseph township, 550, 11.8. The rest of the county had 4,250 unemployed for a rate of 13.7 per cent.

Berrien CETA Not Involved

The director of Berrien county's Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) program said today that a Benton Harbor firm accused of paying its employees with bad checks is in no way connected with the county CETA program.

Weldon Burden said that CETA funds used to train employees of Monitor Sound Systems, Inc., were provided directly by the Michigan Department of Labor and not by the county CETA office.

"People have called asking why we're throwing away money on something like that when we're talking about laying off county CETA employees," Burden said, "but we had nothing to do with it."

Corporate summonses alleging failure to pay three employees were issued Tuesday against Monitor Sound Systems, 58 Wall street.

Within the past week, 22 of the firm's workers have complained that they either received no pay or were paid with insufficient funds checks, according to Asst. Prosecutor Robert U. McDowell.

The firm manufactures security alarm systems.

Pentagon Indicates Air Base To Close

By EUGENE SUNDSTROM

SAULT STE MARIE, Mich. (AP) — The reported closing of Kinchloe Air Force Base came as a shock today to local and state officials who fear the loss of the base may have a severe economic impact on the eastern Upper Peninsula.

Although the closing has been feared for some time, a report from Pentagon sources that the base may close came as a stunning blow to many of the area's 40,000 residents.

Many residents said they hoped the $500 million base will continue as its $38 million annual payroll adds backbone to the economy of three counties — Chippewa, Mackinac and Lapeer.

Gov. William Milliken is "distressed" at the prospect of shutting down the base and will try to prevent it, a spokesman said today.

"We do not have a formal strategy mapped out yet, but we certainly are going to be doing something," the spokesman said.

Milliken last week wrote Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld that Chippewa County, where the base is located, has a 21 per cent unemployment rate.

"For the federal government to abruptly pull the rug from under an entire county without time to build a new economic base would be, to me, an unconscionable act,"

Judge Halts License Revocation

The revocation of a St. Joseph real estate broker's license has been stayed by Berrien Circuit Judge William S. White pending the outcome of a court hearing and possible trial.

The order stays an administrative order from the Michigan Department of Licensing and Regulation which on Dec. 11 revoked the license of Morris H. Jones, who operates real estate offices in St. Joseph, Stevensville, and the Fairplain Plaza.

White's order also compels the licensing department to show cause in circuit court on March 19 while the stay should not be continued until the case is final.

In a circuit court suit, Jones claims his license was revoked without a hearing, and asks the court to reverse the licensing department's decision and restore his license.

The real estate division of the licensing department revoked Jones' license, according to court records, after a complaint was filed alleging Jones signed the name of another man who was selling a house in Lake township into a deed in order to complete the transaction.

Records indicate Jones allegedly signed the name of Royal Woolbright, Jr., on March 8, 1974, to complete the sale of Woolbright's house and two acres on California road in Lake township.

The Dow average of 30 blue chips climbed 2 1/2 points to just under 998 in the early going.

Gainers opened up a 2-1 lead over losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Today's early prices included Asarco, up 1/4 at 18 1/4; NL Industries, ahead 1/4 at 18 1/4; Fuqua Industries, 1/4 higher at 7 3/4; and Colt Industries, off 1/4 at 43 1/2.

On Wednesday the Dow Jones industrial average touched the 1,000 level for the third time in two days, but wound up settling for a 1.58 gain at 995.28.

Gainers held a very slight edge on losers among NYSE-listed issues, and the exchange's composite index rose 21 to 53.97.

Big Board volume slowed to 25.90 million shares.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index rose .29 to 104.74.

Bankrupt

NILES — The former Jerry's supermarket, operated by Jerry Dean Heath at 2329 South 13th street, Niles, has been adjudged bankrupt by the U.S. District court, bankruptcy division, Grand Rapids.

Bankruptcy Judge David Nims signed a discharge of bankruptcy on March 5, 1976. A petition of bankruptcy was filed in the court Nov. 10, 1975.

The court reported that Heath is released from all dischargeable debts, except debts that may be determined to be "non-dischargeable" by the bankruptcy court. The period for creditors to seek payments from the court ended March 1, 1976, it was reported.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

Few Understand
Those Reports

The mails are bringing the customary avalanche of annual corporation reports to shareholders. Many of these are beautiful examples of the printer's and public relations expert's art. Few will be read by the shareholders — even though they are (theoretically) owners of the business — and even fewer will be understood by them.

These management reports of "how we did last year" and "where we stand now" are obviously important. For years the amount of information contained in them has been steadily expanded, especially at the prodding of the N.Y. Stock Exchange and, in more recent years, the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Wesley E. Truesdell, senior vice president in charge of public relations for Doremus & Co., a leader in financial public relations and advertising, has set forth for this column some items of information the investor may want to look for in the annual reports soon.

"(1) a description of the general nature and scope of the business;

"(2) a listing of directors and officers, including a description of the principal occupation of each 'outside' director;

"(3) a statistical summary of operations for five years (sometimes ten years);

"(4) a management analysis, including discussion of such topics as the possible effect on profits of any change in accounting and other non-recurring items;

"(5) this year, for the first time, it will be mandatory for reports to discuss any increase or decrease of more than 10 per cent in any item of revenue or expense in the most recent three-year period, or any change of more than 2 per cent in the average net income or loss in the same period;

"(6) a five-year comprehensive 'lines of business' breakdown should be found in 1975

reports, enabling stockholders to trace the gains or decreases in sales or earnings of various parts of a company's business;

"(7) investors can now trace the value of their holdings more easily, for somewhere in the report will be listed the market prices of the stock for each quarter during the last two fiscal years;

"(8) dividends paid — in cash or stock — will be listed for each quarter of the latest two fiscal years;

"(9) overall, there should be a big improvement in charts and tables in reports this year. If they didn't before, they are now required to conform to the facts of text and tabular material more closely;

"(10) one can look for at least a footnote and possibly more, disclosing a company's net sales, gross profit, income before extraordinary items, cumulative effect of any change in accounting, per-share data, net income for each quarter of the two most recent years and any subsequent period."

To which I can add only that: it's your money at work. There is no reason for a serious investor slighting an annual report.

Q. How could one of your women readers amass a fortune of $136,000 and then have to come to you to figure out what income she could get from it? Can't she afford a few dollars for an accountant? Was that letter for real?

A. All the letters printed here are "for real."

I don't know how this lady made her money. It could have been in any field in which investment "sense" or "know-how" is not important. As a matter of fact, one of the reasons for printing it was to show how very often people can make money without knowing how to invest it.

I set no limits on readers' subjects to be discussed — whether it involves the best use of $35 a month or an opinion on an institutional manager's handling of $700,000 family trust. The subject here is "investments" — large and small.

Return
To Jobs

NEW TROY — Striking sheet metal union workers returned to work at the Stanley Knight corporation plant here yesterday, after ratifying a new two-year contract Tuesday afternoon.

About 90 members of the South Bend-based local 164 of the union struck the plant last Tuesday when a three-year contract expired.

Robert Schneider, president of Stanley Knight, said yesterday that under terms of the new contract, pay for union members will increase about 11 per cent. He said that while the starting pay will remain the same at $3.50 per hour, advanced pay steps will "accelerate more rapidly," and top pay will also increase.

One additional paid holiday and increased health benefits are also part of the new contract, Schneider said.

Production operations at the Glendora road plant, which processes stainless steel, came to a standstill during the strike.

About 15 supervisory and clerical personnel remained on the job during the one-week strike.

Stanley Knight corporation is a subsidiary of the Dwyer Products corporation, Michigan City, Ind. Dwyer builds soda fountains and stainless steel kitchen and cafeteria equipment.

Berrien
Jobless Rate Is Lowered

SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

The unemployment level in Berrien county for January dipped to 15.3 per cent from December's 16.1 per cent, according to the Michigan Employment Security Commission (MESC).

But unemployment was still higher and employment lower than November's figures.

Comparison of January and December employment figures is not a true picture of the employment situation in Berrien county because many of December's layoffs resulted from usual inventory adjustments and holiday recesses, the MESC noted.

In January, 11,400 people were unemployed while 62,900 were on the job, compared with a year earlier when 9,500 were unemployed, and 67,400 were employed for an unemployment rate of 12.4 in January, 1975.

The MESC noted November's unemployment rate was 14.7 per cent, with 11,200 unemployed and 64,800 people on the job. The labor force for both November and December was 76,000, but in January dropped to 74,300.

The average unemployment rate in 1974 was 8.4 per cent, compared with 15.45 for 1975.

The MESC said a drop of more than three per cent in the resident civilian labor force over the past year coupled with continued poor economic conditions in the county account for the persistently high levels of unemployment in Berrien.

The City of Benton Harbor again led the county in unemployment with 2,150 jobless, or 28.6 per cent, followed by Niles township with 1,075, or 16.5 per cent.

Other municipalities include: Benton township, 1,300, 16.3 per cent; City of Niles, 325, 13.6 per cent; Lincoln township, 625, 12.5 per cent; City of St. Joseph, 625, 11.7 per cent; St. Joseph township, 550, 11.8 per cent. The rest of the county had 4,250 unemployed for a rate of 13.7 per cent.

Berrien
Involved

The director of Berrien county's Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) program said today that a Benton Harbor firm accused of paying its employees with bad checks is in no way connected with the county CETA program.

Weldon Burden said that CETA funds used to train employees of Monitor Sound Systems, Inc., were provided directly by the Michigan Department of Labor and not by the county CETA office.

"People have called asking why we're throwing away money on something like that when we're talking about laying off county CETA employees," Burden said, "but we had nothing to do with it."

Corporate summonses alleging failure to pay three employees were issued Tuesday against Monitor Sound Systems, 59 Wall street.

Within the past week, 22 of the firm's workers have complained that they either received no pay or were paid with insufficient funds checks, according to Asst. Prosecutor Robert U. McDowell.

The firm manufactures security alarm systems.

KINCHLOE IN U.P.

Pentagon Indicates
Air Base To Close

By EUGENE SUNDSTROM

SAULT STE MARIE, Mich. (AP) — The reported closing of Kinchloe Air Force Base came as a shock today to local and state officials who fear the loss of the base may have a severe economic impact on the eastern Upper Peninsula.

Although the closing has been feared for some time, a report from Pentagon sources that the base may close came as a stunning blow to many of the area's 40,000 residents.

Many residents said they hoped the $500 million base will continue as its $36 million annual payroll adds backbone to the economy of three counties — Chippewa, Mackinac and Luce.

Gov. William Milliken is "distressed" at the prospect of shutting down the base and will try to prevent it, a spokesman said today.

"We do not have a formal strategy mapped out yet, but we certainly are going to be doing something," the spokesman said.

Milliken last week wrote Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld that Chippewa County, where the base is located, has a 21 per cent unemployment rate.

"For the federal government to pre-emptorily pull the rug from under an entire county without time to build a new economic base would be, to me, an unconscionable act,"

Judge Halts License Revocation

The revocation of a St. Joseph real estate broker's license has been stayed by Berrien Circuit Judge William S. White pending the outcome of a court hearing and possible trial.

The order stays an administrative order from the Michigan Department of Licensing and Regulation which on Dec. 10 revoked the license of Morris H. Jones, who operates real estate offices in St. Joseph, Stevensville, and the Fairplain Plaza.

White's order also compels the licensing department to show cause in circuit court on March 19 while the stay should not be continued until the case is final.

In a circuit court suit, Jones claims his license was revoked without a hearing, and asks the court to reverse the licensing department's decision and restore his license.

The real estate division of the licensing department revoked Jones' license, according to court records, after a complaint was filed alleging Jones signed the name of another man who was selling a house in Lake township onto a deed in order to complete the transaction.

Records indicate Jones allegedly signed the name of Royal Woolbright, Jr., on March 8, 1974, to complete the sale of Woolbright's house and two acres on California road in Lake township.

committee. Mrs. Candace Denman, when she received the statement for the use of the Lakeshore School auditorium. The Baroda committee consists of a small group of women who are members of the Baroda Civic League but operate as a separate entity from the League. The Civic League has many fund-raising projects but all their monies are used for scholarships and civic improvements; none is allocated for the Queen contest.

Already the Queen committee had been experiencing budget problems and had allocated approximately $400 for use of their own (Lakeshore) school auditorium, since this had been the 1975 charge. In order to prepare for this large expenditure, the committee members had already found it necessary to contribute from their own pockets for various activities involving the contestants. When the 1976 statement arrived with this year's charge of $461.27, Mrs. Denman was overwhelmed. She stated it probably would mean the end to any further Baroda Queen contests.

The popularity of this event has grown along with the population in Baroda. A few years ago, the contest was held in the Baroda Elementary school. With up to 600 persons attending the pageant now, the use of the elementary school is out, as there would not be enough seating space. At this time, things look gloomy for a 1977 pageant in Baroda.

What a shame to have to discontinue the pageant because a money-hungry school board feels it necessary to squeeze even more out of the pockets of the already over-taxed residents to use the school they are paying for.

The only solution is for these same taxpayers to let their voices be heard. If the school board realized the ill-feeling caused by this overcharge, they might have the good business sense to rectify it. If not, they may find it a problem getting a "yes" vote on future millage increases.

Your truly,
Mrs. Albert Zeimer
Bridgman.

Hartford Teen Is Bound Over

PAW PAW — Bruce Ezell, 17, male 1, Hartford, was bound over to Van Buren circuit court yesterday following Seventh district court preliminary examination on a charge of delivery of marijuana.

He is accused of selling marijuana to a police undercover agent Aug. 11 in Hartford.

Buchanan Man Freed By Jury

A Berrien Circuit court jury deliberated nearly two hours yesterday before acquitting a Buchanan man accused of stealing a leather coat from a Benton township store.

Acquitted was Vernell Ray Calson, 21, of 521 Michigan street, who had been accused of stealing the coat from the Bargain Center on M-139 on Oct. 11. Calson claimed he wore the coat out of the store to look at some other coats on a rack outside the store, and intended to purchase it.

Opposing counsel in the one-day trial in Judge Julian E. Hughes' court were St. Joseph Atty. Stanley White and Assistant Prosecutor Quentin Fulcher.

LONDON (AP) — Charlie Chaplin has paid an unheralded visit to London to receive a brass mask — symbol of fellowship in the British Academy of Film and Television — from Princess Anne. ## OVERJOYED BY EPA DECISION

Editor,

Unlike a writer in your Saturday paper, I am overjoyed that there is currently a resolution in the Michigan Legislature to rescind the Equal Right Amendment.

Proponents of ERA propagate the fallacy that it will guarantee equal pay for equal work. This is an untruth because (1.) ERA does not apply to private industry, only to state and federal law; and (2.) there is no way the ERA can extend the effect of the Equal Employment Opportunity Act of 1972. This law is completely extensive; it applies to hiring, pay and promotion, and establishes the enforcement agency called the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC). When subjected to cross examination in the state legislature, ERA proponents have to admit that they can't claim ERA will do anything for women in the field of employment. The myth of equal pay under ERA is circulated by pro-ERA speakers who haven't done their homework on the subject.

Your writer doesn't think any law can make an irresponsible husband support his family. Let's not kid ourselves. Without the present laws making a husband legally bound to support a wife and children, and the teeth in them to go after such truant husbands, this country would be saturated with far more delinquent dads than we already have!

Furthermore, if ERA were passed by enough states to become a federal law, the women of this country would lose their legal right to be supported and the right to be a full time wife and mother in the home. When ERA proponents speak to women's groups and the press, they deny that ERA will invalidate the state laws requiring a husband to support his family; but when they come before state legislative hearings, under cross examination, they are forced to admit that ERA will require the financial obligation of family support to be equal between the husband and wife.

This is the crux of the problem. Since there is no way yet known to make the bearing of the children equally between the sexes, it is a grave injustice to the wife to make her equally financially obligated for family support. It is hard to see how there could be a more devastating effect on family structure and on the present legal rights of the wife. Do we want a society like Russia's, where our women are obligated to leave their children in State-run day care centers (at the taxpayers' expense) and then go home to another job caring for her household? This isn't giving women equal rights... it's giving women a double share of the load.

As far as the draft, if ERA becomes a national law, not even Congress can prevent women from being drafted, or from serving equally in combat. ERA will prevent any differences of treatment based on sex. This also means that mothers can be drafted, as well as fathers, who were drafted up in the age of 35 in W.W. 2. To exempt us from active combat duty would be illegal, according to ERA proponents, when "pinned down". It is ridiculous to force all women to conform to the demands of the militant women radicals who have not the slightest intention of serving in the military.

Thank God for Phyllis Schlafly!

committee, Mrs. Candace Denman, when she received the statement for the use of the Lakeshore School auditorium. The Baroda committee consists of a small group of women who are members of the Baroda Civic League but operate as a separate entity from the League. The Civic League has many fund-raising projects but all their monies are used for scholarships and civic improvements; none is allocated for the Queen contest.

Already the Queen committee had been experiencing budget problems and had allocated approximately $400 for use of their own (Lakeshore) school auditorium, since this had been the 1975 charge. In order to prepare for this large expenditure, the committee members had already found it necessary to contribute from their own pockets for various activities involving the contestants. When the 1976 statement arrived with this year's charge of $461.27, Mrs. Denman was overwhelmed. She stated it probably would mean the end to any further Baroda Queen contests.

The popularity of this event has grown along with the population in Baroda. A few years ago, the contest was held in the Baroda Elementary school. With up to 600 persons attending the pageant now, the use of the elementary school is out, as there would not be enough seating space. At this time, things look gloomy for a 1977 pageant in Baroda.

What a shame to have to discontinue the pageant because a money-hungry school board feels it necessary to squeeze even more out of the pockets of the already over-taxed residents to use the school they are paying for.

The only solution is for these same taxpayers to let their voices be heard. If the school board realized the ill-feeling caused by this overcharge, they might have the good business sense to rectify it. If not, they may find it a problem getting a "yes" vote on future millage increases.

Your truly,
Mrs. Albert Zelter
Bridgman.

Hartford Teen Is Bound Over

PAW PAW — Bruce Ezzell, 17, route 1, Hartford, was bound over to Van Buren circuit court yesterday following Seventh district court preliminary examination on a charge of delivery of marijuana.

He is accused of selling marijuana to a police undercover agent Aug. 11 in Hartford.

Buchanan Man Freed By Jury

A Berrien Circuit court jury deliberated nearly two hours yesterday before acquitting a Buchanan man accused of stealing a leather coat from a Benton township store.

Accused was Vernell Ray Caison, 21, of 521 Michigan street, who had been accused of stealing the coat from the Barrigan Center on M-139 on Oct. 11. Caison claimed he wore the coat out of the store to look at some other coats on a rack outside the store, and intended to purchase it.

Chaplin Honored

LONDON (AP) — Charlie Chaplin has paid an unheralded visit to London to receive a brass mask — symbol of fellowship in the British Academy of Film and Television — from Princess Anne. The daughter of Queen Elizabeth II is president of the academy. On Wednesday, she enrolled the 86-year-old legend of silent films into the academy.

OVERJOYED BY ERA DECISION

Editor.

Unlike a writer in your Saturday paper, I am overjoyed that there is currently a resolution in the Michigan Legislature to rescind the Equal Right Amendment.

Proponents of ERA propagate the fallacy that it will guarantee equal pay for equal work. This is an untruth because (1.) ERA does not apply to private industry, only to state and federal law; and (2.) there is no way the ERA can extend the effect of the Equal Employment Opportunity Act of 1972. This law is completely extensive; it applies to hiring, pay and promotion, and establishes the enforcement agency called the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC). When subjected to cross examination in the state legislature, ERA proponents have to admit that they can't claim ERA will do anything for women in the field of employment! The myth of equal pay under ERA is circulated by pro-ERA speakers who haven't done their homework on the subject.

Your writer doesn't think any law can make an irresponsible husband support his family. Let's not kid ourselves. Without the present laws making a husband legally bound to support a wife and children, and the teeth in them to go after such truant husbands, this country would be saturated with far more delinquent dads than we already have!

Furthermore, if ERA were passed by enough states to become a federal law, the women of this country would lose their legal right to be supported and the right to be a full time wife and mother in the home. When ERA proponents speak to women's groups and the press, they deny that ERA will invalidate the state laws requiring a husband to support his family; but when they come before state legislative hearings, under cross examination, they are forced to admit that ERA will require the financial obligation of family support to be equal between the husband and wife.

This is the crux of the problem. Since there is no way yet known to make the bearing of the children equally between the sexes, it is a grave injustice to the wife to make her equally financially obligated for family support. It is hard to see how there could be a more devastating effect on family structure and on the present legal rights of the wife. Do we want a society like Russia's, where our women are obligated to leave their children in State-run day care centers (at the taxpayers' expense) and then go home to another job caring for her household? This isn't giving women equal rights... it's giving women a double share of the load.

As far as the draft, if ERA becomes a national law, not even Congress can prevent women from being drafted, or from serving equally in combat. ERA will prevent any differences of treatment based on sex. This also means that mothers can be drafted, as well as fathers, who were drafted up to the age of 35 in W.W. 2. To exempt us from active combat duty would be illegal, according to ERA proponents, when "pinned down". It is ridiculous to force all women to conform to the demands of the militant women radicals who have not the slightest intention of serving in the military.

Thank God for Phyllis Schlafly!

Students Help With Fire Cleanup

BERRIEN SPRINGS -- Six Andrews university students belonging to the Black Student Christian Forum club on campus have helped clean up a Benton township home damaged by fire in February, according to a university spokesman. The students went to work at the damaged home of Roca D'Amrosio, 451 Bridgman avenue, after the Benton Harbor office of the county social services department appealed to the university for help, the spokesman added. The students this week tore out two damaged ceilings, cleared the place of debris and did general clean-up work. A university spokesman identified the students who did the work as Ira Everett, Evanston, Ill.; Fred Furman, Park Forest South, Ill.; Sam Leer, Puerto Rico; Jim Zeisner, Fall River, Wis.; Tony Patterson, New York, N.Y.; and Greg Caldwell, Mt. Morris, Mich. D'Amrosio had lived in the home for 52 years before the fire damaged the home. The 81-year-old man suffered smoke inhalation in the blaze.

Area Ambulance Service Hunting Members

Volunteer canvassers for the Southwest Michigan Community Ambulance Service (SMCAS) will conduct a door-to-door membership drive in the Niles-Buchanan area on Saturday, according to Mrs. Donna Newsom, chairman of the membership campaign.

The canvassers will conduct the house-to-house drive in the City of Buchanan, and the townships of Buchanan, Niles,

Bertrand and Howard. The canvass will be done by mail in Niles city. Mrs. Newsom said a family membership in the ambulance service, which will cover emergency ambulance service for all family members and guests, will be $15 per year. Membership for a single person, and guests, will be $8, she said. Two ambulances, one stationed in Niles and the second in Buchanan, are now in service in the area. They are manned by two-man volunteer staffs, on a 24-hour basis. The SMCAS was formed last year to provide emergency ambulance service to the Niles-

Buchanan area. Also underway is a capital fund drive to pay for necessary ambulance and other emergency equipment. Members of the SMCAS board have stressed that funds raised in the membership drive will be used for operating purposes only. Membership applications are also available in the city and township halls of the respective governments served by the service.
